Editor Independent:-Much has been said and written in sundry religious and temperance papers regarding President McKinley's peculiar article toward Kentucky Feud Ends in a Fearthe "army canteen," or in plainer terms the military groggery.

I have heard many good people, and among them a few prominent ministers of the different branches of the Christian church, try to defend the president by using a weakest kind of sophisfry, with the aridant many good people, and THREE with the evident purpose of covering from view the real facts of the case. I believe military men will agree that as a matter of fact there never has been a time in the history of our government when the president as commander-inchief could not have banished the army saloon by a simple military order.

It is, and always has been a matter wholly under the control of the comling officer. (Instance, our 3d Neb regiment had no army canteen") but as each president had in turn neglected to issue such an order, congress passed a juries occurred here at 1 o'clock yeslaw abolishing it.

On the grounds that the attorney-general has declared this law unconstitutional some of our reverend friends told us that Brother McKinley had taken this matter under advisement and that we would no doubt hear from him later. Well, in fact he did consider the matter not whether he could act but whether

RARE EXPERIENCE.

New Orleans Times-Democrat: "It isn't many men who have beaten a brace faro game," said an old steamboat captain, "but I enjoyed that experience in Memphis one night, at the time gambling was wide open everywhere along the river. I was steered into the place by a pleasant-spoken chap, who had scraped acquaintance at the hotel, and I saw immediately that I was against a lot of robbers. I realized, however, that I would probably get sandbagged if I raised a row, so I concluded to sit down at the faro table, lose a few dollars, and then make some excuse to go out. I bought a stack of chips, and had just started to play when two new men came in, one sacrificed and that of a fourth hangs of them evidently a "capper" for the house and the other a drunken plan-

The interstate commerce commission has made public its thirteenth annual report. The feature of the report is the strong plea made that congress uphold the hands of the commission by amendments making the interstate commerce law more effective. The report says that the commission a year ago called attention to the fact that in vital respects the present law has proved defective and inadequate and that until further legislation is provided the best efforts at regulation must be feeble and disappointing. The requests of the commission for needful amendments have been supported by petitions and memorials from agricul tural, manufacturing and commercial interests throughout the country, yet says the report, not a line of the statute has been changed and none of the burdensome conditions which call for relief has been removed or modified The existing situation, and the developments of the past year, it is added, render more imperative than ever be fore the necessity for speedy and suitable legislation.
