A WORD WITH ENGLISHMEN.
The editor was accosted by an Englishman on the streets of Lincoln the other day. He spoke in substance as follows: "I have read your writings for some years with a good deal of interest and pleasure and agree with you on most things, but your treatment of the English and the Boer makes me so hot, that sometimes I feel like tearing the paper into pieces. I can't see how you can pursue such a course."

After a few other remarks he was asked if he believed the war on the Philippines was a just war. He replied that he did not. That it was not only wicked and cruel, but a most disastrous policy to pursue from every point of view. Then the editor said to him: "This seems to be the difference between some Americans and some Englishmen. When the American government prosecutes a war that is unjust and cruel, we say so. We will not support our government in doing what is wrong. But you Englishmen seem to be for your government right or wrong. The policy of McKinley toward the Filipinos is an exact counterpart of the policy of Great Britain toward the Boers. If we condemn the policy of McKinley toward the Filipinos we are bound in good conscience to also condemn the policy of Great Britain toward the Boers. It would be self-justification to do otherwise. We are for a republican form of government both in the Philippines and in South Africa. We are against crown colonies for a Christian people in South Africa and against colonies governed outside of the constitution in Asia. We are for our government when it is right and against it when it is wrong. The very best people of England have constantly condemned the war on the Boers. They have denounced it in parliament. They have held great public meetings in St. James hall and denounced it there. The Independent stands alongside of these brave Englishmen and also denounces it. It honors them. For Joe Chamberlain it has just the same condemnation that it has for the same sort of people in this country. Joe Chamberlain has betrayed every cause that he has advocated. He betrayed Gladstone. He deserted the liberals and fought in the ranks of the Tories after pretending to be a radical of radicals. There is not a particle of doubt that he instigated the Jamieson raid and then had not the manhood to back up the tools that he had sent to invade the Transvaal republic. He has been in the secrets and upheld the pirates of Cecil Rhodes, Barney Berratto and the whole gang of millionaires who have been robbing and exploiting the innocent people of South Africa for the last fifteen years. He has gained power by betraying one friend after another until he now occupies a place where he can handle Salisbury just as Mark Hanna handles McKinley. It is Joe Chamberlain who has made war on the Dutch republics and not the English people. The working men of England, headed by John Burns, denounce Joe Chamberlain and his war as fiercely as the populists do McKinley and his war. The Independent has no hard words for the English people, but it denounces that gang of English pirates and plutocrats who hold the government, and who, if they are not soon overthrown, will wreck it. It is in the interest of the English people that The Independent denounces the policy of Joe Chamberlain. It joins with the producers of England, her scholars and thinkers, in their effort to save their government from destruction and a debt that will send more than one-tenth of her population into the condition that General Booth calls 'the submerged tenth.'

England has a war on her hands in Afghanistan, another in South Africa and still another in China. Her producers are taxed into pauperism by the hundred thousand every year and her war debt mounts up by leaps and bounds. If you will go home and think this matter over, you will see that The Independent is the true friend of the English people and the Englishmen who denounce it are not.

Thus spoke the editor of The Independent to this angry Englishman. He made no reply, but an hour after he was seen standing on a corner, apparently in a brown study.

WILD ADVENTURERS.

The republicans constantly charge the fusion forces with the very crimes that they are committing themselves. They say that the reform forces want to upset everything; that they want to make changes that endanger the welfare of society. It is the republicans who are the innovators. Who changed our financial policy and made it, or tried to make it, conform to that of Great Britain? It was the republican party. Who wants to make a change from a small standing army to a large one? The republicans. Who want to change from greenback money to promises to pay by the banks? The republicans. Who want to change from the doctrine of government by the consent of the governed to the doctrine that we will "give them the best government that they are capable of enjoying?" The republicans. Who want to change everything that we have known and revered and to start out on unknown seas without chart or compass? The same republicans. They are the innovators, the destroyers. It is they who want to experiment, to try new theories never tried before. The reform forces are the conservative class. It is the republicans who are the wild adventurers.

THREE SENATORS.

The folly of keeping men in the United States senate after they have arrived at an age when they ought to be sitting by their firesides wrapped in fannels, has three conspicuous examples at the present time. First, there is Senator Hoar. His mental powers do not seem to be greatly dimmed, but he is utterly incapable of disassociating himself from the bonds of a party, which he himself declares has entered on a policy that will end in the overthrow of this republic. His early training made him a lover of liberty and its influence is still heard in his words, but the whole of his active life has been devoted to building up a party, which has now forsaken the very principles that gave it life and being in his old age, Senator Hoar cannot muster the energy that will enable him to shake himself loose from it. If Senator Hoar were forty, instead of eighty years old, his course would be very different under the present circumstances.

Second, there is Senator Stewart, a man of entirely different temperament and training. For thirty years he has lived in Washington entirely separated from the people who elected him, only going back to Nevada for a short visit once in two or three years. He has become entirely out of touch with the people. He was a famous silver champion because his state was unanimously for silver. He was never an economist and he knew little of the principles underlying all systems of money until 1893. Then he took up the study and became somewhat familiar with some phases of it. He is very old. He is surrounded with the military spirit of Washington and completely out of touch with the common people. He will perhaps never return to Nevada. All his property and all his interests are in and around Washington and not in Nevada. Of late he has been overcome with the military spirit that pervades all Washington and is for imperialism out and out. If Senator Stewart were forty, instead of eighty, he would look at matters with different eyes.

Third, there is Senator Morgan of Alabama. He has been in the senate and house ever since the war. His home is also in Washington, although he goes more often to his state than Senator Stewart. He has such a hold upon the politics of his state that he will be returned to the senate without opposition, although nine-tenths of his constituents are not in accord with his views upon current events. He represents the old south, not the new. He is a military man and his sympathies are with that class. He is also for imperialism.

These men are in the senate because it is almost impossible under our present plan of electing senators by the legislatures to oust a senator who is a genial man and who has some knowledge of human nature as long as his party is in power in his state. A senator can keep a watch and constantly confer favors upon men who are likely to become members of the legislature. He thus binds them to himself. But if he had to go before the people at the end of his term and make a contest there, instead of before a legislature, the case would be very different. If senators were elected by the people, neither Senators Morgan, Hoar or Stewart would have held their places so uninterruptedly. Of the three, Hoar would be the more likely to have done it.

Long residence in Washington, away from the people, is not a fit environment for a United States senator. If elected by the people they would remain more of the time in their states, where their environment would be entirely different. The election of senators by the people is one of the vital reforms that must be enacted if we keep this government in the paths laid down by the revolutionary fathers.

A VICIOUS LIAR.

William E. Curtis of the Chicago Record is a vicious liar. He can lie with more venom than any other man in the United States. In the Record of August 22, Curtis said:

"The reason Mr. Schurz did not appear at the anti-imperialist conference at Indianapolis was because there was no fund to pay his expenses and he never pays his own."

It is well known that Mr. Schurz was at that time attending the funeral of his son who died in Europe and whose body was brought to this country on a trans-Atlantic steamer. All the facts were published in the newspapers and Mr. Curtis knew them at the time he wrote this venomous lie. The facts were also known in the Record office before the lie was published in that paper, which makes the managing editor of that paper equally responsible with the viper who wrote it. The question is: Will the Record continue to publish the lies of this malicious degenerate during the campaign? There are a few thousand people who take the Record who would like to know, so that they may govern themselves accordingly. An ordinary citizen does not want to put a paper in his family where its most prominent column is written up daily by a vile degenerate of the character of the man who will write such a lie as the above. Neither death, family affection, the grief of a father or any other quality that generally moves a human being has any affect upon a creature like Curtis.

Friday, September 7, has been set aside as travelling men's day at the state fair and the knights of the grip will prepare some special features for that day's program that will attract a crowd.

THE STATE FAIR.

The only thing now remaining to make the 1900 state fair the greatest event in the history of the society is a week of good weather. The entries of live stock cover a wider range than ever before and the space in all the department exhibits will be fully occupied. All the latest improved farm machinery and implements will appear, and taken in connection with a show of the great material resources of Nebraska farms it will make an exhibition that can profitably be studied for a week. There are going to be a road full of good horses on exhibition, including all classes from the fast trotters and pacers to the dignified and muscular draught animals. The state horticultural society will have the best exhibit, and one day will be given over to a test of Nebraska fruit by all who care to partake of home-grown apples, pears, peaches, grapes, etc. The florists are going to make a display which will open the eyes of thousands as to the possibilities of Nebraska soil and sunshine to produce wonderful luxuries of growth in a hardy of colors. There will be plenty of good music and other free entertainment at the grounds during the week, and we feel sure that any reader of The Independent will be fully repaid for making a visit to the state fair, whether it be for one day or the entire week.

To all of our subscribers and their friends we extend a hearty invitation to visit The Independent and inspect our printing plant, which is in itself an exhibit worthy of the attention of anyone, being the most complete and rapid newspaper outfit in the west.

A little while ago Roosevelt was continually denouncing the Filipinos as savages. Of late he has stopped that sort of diversion and gone to denouncing everybody who disagrees with him as cowards. Before he gets through with it he may find the latter diversion not as pleasant as the former. It was a safe business to denounce a people 7,000 miles away. In regard to the savagery of the Filipinos, General Joe Wheeler gave some important testimony in a speech before the Chicago university students the other day. He said:

"I was very glad to be informed that there are gentlemen here studying with the view of permanently exercising their professions as teachers in the islands of the Pacific. They will find there bright, anxious pupils. The climate is charming and healthful. Colleges of a high order are maintained in Manila and other large cities, and in every city I entered I found a school-house, with desks and seats quite like the school houses in this country. The men with whom I came in contact and had business relations wrote well and seemed to be fairly well educated."

A queer kind of savagery is that. Doubtless they should submit to any kind of government that a cowboy Roosevelt would see fit "to give them."

Frank Carpenter, after giving a very long detailed list of the extortionate taxes levied on the people of Manila by the orders of our Emperor William McKinley, says: "There is a tax here on the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker. The barber pays so much every three months, and this is so with many other tradesmen. There is not a man or a woman doing business in Manila who is not taxed, and even the market peddler who brings in a basket of vegetables has to pay her toll before she can sell." There is taxation without representation with a vengeance. No wonder the republicans spell binders are denouncing the Declaration of Independence with all the vigor that ever old George III. did.

One of the causes of the degeneration of the masses is the large space given in the daily papers to detailed descriptions of brutal prize fights. They devote columns and in some cases whole pages to these disgusting exhibitions of brutality. It produces demoralization and is one of the elements at the bottom of riots and bloodshed. The ministers seem to have quit denouncing them and many instead devote their sermons to the advocacy of international prize fights, called wars, to advance civilization. The devil is having a high old time of it these days, as he sees things going almost universally his way.

BUFFALO BILL.

A Nebraskan who will be in Lincoln September 11. He only comes to Nebraska occasionally, but when he does everybody wants to see him.

The republicans are going to have a harder time of it than was expected. Here comes the announcement that Senator Stewart of Nevada will support McKinley. Lincoln Daily News.

HARDY'S COLUMN

Consistency—Ice Trusts—Nigger in Ohio—Landslide—Minnesota—Mix the Boards—More Republican Purify.

How inconsistent in Senator Hoar to reject Bryan because he influenced congress to ratify the Paris treaty and kiss McKinley for putting the treaty through.

The ice trust, about which the republicans are so awfully scared, will soon thaw, then soon after, nature will supply the needed cold without trust or corporation. Not so with other trusts, they do not thaw, neither does nature come between them and the consumer.

The people of President McKinley's state are no more friendly to the colored man than those of the south. At Akron the other day they had a big mob because the authorities moved a colored prisoner to Cleveland for safe-keeping until the day of trial. The county buildings were burned down, several persons were killed and many wounded. At last an army of soldiers were called to quiet the row. McKinley republicans can be just as mean in Ohio as Bryan democrats in Georgia.

It is reported there is a general landslide in the state of New York and that Bryan will carry the state by a hundred thousand. It should be remembered that over three hundred thousand voters stayed at home four years ago and did not vote at all. Now if two-thirds of them are democrats and vote for Bryan this year, where will the state go? Look out for something to drop.

The plan that has been adopted in several of the southern states to cut off ignorant colored voters and still let ignorant white men vote will not hold water in any court of justice. The fifteenth amendment forbids any restrictions upon the colored voter that is not with equal severity laid upon the white voter. The colored man cannot be legally disfranchised, because his great grandfather was not a voter. It amounts to this: you cannot vote because your ancestors were slaves, or because you yourself, was once a slave.

Minnesota will in all probability give Bryan a majority this fall. There are more Swedes and Germans there than in any other state and they all have a dislike for large armies and annexation by conquest and force. The present governor is of Swedish birth. Four years ago he was beaten by fraud, but two years ago he was elected. He is again nominated and everyone with whom we talked said he would be elected again this fall and would probably pull Bryan through with himself.

When Commissioner Beckman was a candidate the third time charges of corruption, extravagance and bad management were made against the county board, but Mr. Beckman denied voting for or sanctioning any of the dark woolly measures. It is quite certain he did not kick very hard or we would have heard of it. That seven thousand dollars that were to be paid for walking up to the state house and arranging for a loan of state school money is a sample. It looked just as though the commissioners were to have a slice, secretly, under a cloak of law. What we want is that both dominant parties should be represented on such a board. Most of the states require that both parties must be represented on election boards. We would not think of electing three brothers to take charge of the county business. We urge that every taxpayer should vote for Mr. Sutherland. He was a candidate three years ago and cut the republican majority down half. Put him on the board as one of the county commissioners and he will guard the interests of the taxpayers as a watchdog guards the home, against thieves.

There was a big republican steal planned in the latter part of the session. Stout was the penitentiary contractor and the bargain was to take his pay in state warrants, but afterwards he planned it to get back all the discount on the warrant at which he sold them. He had the legislature pass a law; he then arranged with the attorney general, Roberts, to slide the reach of the taxpayers $235,000. It was easy to see why to those who wanted to see, but a fine span of horses, new wagon and harness was sent to Roberts' home and Stout paid for them. But an honest lawyer stepped in and took the matter out of Roberts' hands and the taxpayers were saved.

There was much talk at the time about the Kendall school land steal. He was land commissioner and it was said he had all the school land bought up so when anyone wanted any of the lands they had to pay him or his land-grabbers a good plump bonus. It is known that thousands of dollars were made out of the bonified settlers. About the same time or a little before Auditor Liedtke skipped with five or six thousand dollars of the people's money. He did not have the grit to stay for a trial. Also about the same time Treasurer Hill put beyond the reach of the taxpayers $235,000. It could have been applied on the state debts or put into county or United States bonds where every penny would have been safe, but in that case the treasurer would not have been able to put the interest into his own pocket. That has been the trouble with all our city, county and state treasurers, instead of paying debts, the money has been loaned out and the treasurer pocketed the interest.

We know we now have a Lancaster county treasurer who pays off the county debts as fast as he gets the money and we know that he has not a single dollar loaned out. Sinking funds should be used to buy in the debts that are not yet due even if a premium to the full amount of interest is paid. Money is safe when applied on debts. The losses in Lancaster county counts up into the many thousands, and the county has been under republican rule until the first of this year. The penitentiary has been a great rat hole for republican thieves. This was known to the party in power, so when they come to extend the walls and build more cells they thought to let the convicts to the most of the work. So they appointed Dorgan to buy the material and superintend the work. One item will show the ability of the appointed agent of the state. A large quantity of stone was needed, so instead of buying of the quarry men, who had stone to sell, he bought of a man who never so much as knew where stone came from. It turned out in court that Dorgan paid him $15,000 more than he paid the quarry men. That money was undoubtedly divided among the official bosses of the party. That way of doing took not less than fifty thousand dollars out of the taxpayers. The other state institutions were run in like manner. The Lincoln asylum for the insane burned over a hundred carloads of coal in the month of July. Other supplies were consumed in like proportion. At the last, the party gave birth to a pair of twin thieves, Joe Bartley and Eugene Moore. One stole $352,000 and the other $22,000. The party has had no further power of procreation. But their best leaders who are not in prison are in the employ of McKinley doing the same dirty work. Tom Cook, who stuffed the census of this state two hundred thousand in 1890, is now one of the fattest of McKinley's kittens.

Now, farmers and honest taxpayers, do you want to turn the state back into the hands of such men, in such a party? If you do, and enjoy paying taxes that thieves may steal all you have to do is to vote the republican ticket.

A NEW INSTITUTION.

Rohrbach Bros., the well-known proprietors of the Omaha Commercial and Business college, have opened a new school in the Brace block, Fifteenth and O streets, Lincoln, Neb. Gregg shorthand and the Mosher system of touch typewriting will be taught. While Gregg shorthand is comparatively a new system in the west, it has been taught in almost all the leading business colleges throughout the eastern and middle states for many years. It is claimed for the new system that it possesses all the good points of the old systems and can be learned in much shorter time. The system has but one position, one slant and no shade; it is easier to write and easier to read. It is claimed for the new system of touch typewriting that the operator can do more accurate work and reach a working speed of from 90 to 120 words per minute. Improvement is the order of the age. Welcome the "light line system" of shorthand. Welcome the new system of touch typewriting; if by means of these, time, labor and expense in mastering them can be saved.

If you want to show your colors wear a Bryan button. We give the finest that are made as a premium for clubs of campaign subscriptions. They are not for sale. You can only obtain them by sending in clubs of subscriptions. One inch button for club of two. One and five-eighths inch button for club of three.

According to Frank Carpenter, Hoar's "most lovable of men" taxes the poor Filipino $4 a month each for the privilege of selling their tropical truck on the markets of Manila. That is 400 per cent worse than George III. ever did.
