

SCARRH
COLD
COUGHS
SORE-THROAT
GRIPPE
CROUP
HOARSENESS

CHIEF JUSTICE CHAMBERS, OF KANSAS.
Says: "I can recommend Peruna as one of the very best remedies for catarrh. I recommend Peruna to all sufferers."

PERUNA
THE GREAT
TONIC
HALF ACTUAL SIZE

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON, Of Tuskegee, Ala., writes: "I have never taken any medicine that has improved me as much as Peruna. For catarrh it is certainly a blessing."

THE CARRIE NATION CRUSADE

It is the same old story witnessed a thousand times in the world's past history. This Carrie Nation crusade is a strong and striking example of the varying moods of men. The fact that two months ago she was just a plain housewife unknown outside her own county and that now half the world is talking about her and the newspapers all over the country are noting her every word and action, is remarkable enough; but what is more remarkable still is that all at once the W. C. T. U. the ministerial associations, the law enforcement leagues and every other kindred organization has awakened from its long slumber and gone to work with zeal akin to that of Mrs. Nation herself; that apparently not only they, but many other people as well have joined in a crusade against something which at election time was apparently least in the thought of men, this is more remarkable still. At the present day it is probable that there are very few wide open towns in Kansas. But in six months all this furor, smash and clatter will be forgotten. It is the way we travel. In religion, in politics, in business it is the same. One extreme follows another. Along comes the evangelist and in a few weeks the third of the meanest old sinners in the town are down on their knees at the mourners' bench telling how wicked they are. But when the summer months come the wickedness is resumed on the former basis. In politics the people will after they have been robbed long and lustily enough to awake to the wickedness of a corrupt, boodling gang in control and cast them hence, but in a short time they have forgotten to support those who have championed their cause and cleaned matters up, and the boodler is again doing business at the old ways and flourishing. In business it is boom, collapse and panic in regular order.

But to recur to Mrs. Nation we will say that she is a fanatic, at least. She believes that God is fighting her battles for her. But the great revivals and reforms at different periods of the world's history have frequently been started by just such fanatics. It is that intensity of conviction that gives her power. She is no doubt a woman of the best intentions, but withal not a woman that many men even of the best sort would want for a wife. But after all her success is due to the discovery whether accidents or not, or whether by herself or some one else, that the property of a joint in Kansas is legally in a delicate condition. Had not this been the case, her efforts would have terminated much differently.—Hutchinson (Kans.) Gazette.

TYRANNY AND OPPRESSION

Hepburn Declares That Military Officers are Brought up in This Practice and Soldiers Desert.

Once in a great while a hereditary tendency shows its influence among the crazed followers of McKinley. Many of them have had accessories who fought and died for liberty and the old love of freedom for all men suddenly breaks out in a fierce protest against the adoption of the theories of George III. Such an exhibition was seen in the house the other day when Hepburn of Iowa astonished his fellow members by a reversion to the ideas formerly entertained by the republican party. It was like a thunder clap from a clear sky.

"Why," Mr. Hepburn asked, "was the navy department 8,000 men short of its complement? Why had there been 4,000 desertions from the army? Because the men were American citizens compelled to serve under men schooled in tyranny and oppression. These officers," Mr. Hepburn said, "stood by each other. I have in my pocket a list of twenty-five vessels of the United States cast away upon the rocks or straits by incompetent officers since the close of the civil war. In many cases the ships were totally destroyed, but with a solitary exception their brother officers left the commanders off with slight punishment. The severest punishment inflicted was suspension of rank. Even in China public opinion compels a commander who loses his ship to commit suicide. Here, when a ship is cast away and becomes a total loss, nothing is done. I want to see a fixed and certain punishment for hazarding men insured to the custom of hazarding are unfit to command troops or sailors of the United States and our boys will not serve under men reared in the unwholesome, pernicious and damnable atmosphere of tyranny."

If it had been a member of the minority who had alluded to "unwholesome, pernicious and damnable atmosphere of tyranny" which now ruled in McKinley's armies of conquest. Cannon would have been on his feet instantly demanding that he be tried by a drum-head court-martial and shot. The biologist will readily understand the cause of this outburst on the part of Hepburn. Such things frequently happen. It will have no permanency. Within a few days he will be found noting, when the bill comes before the house, for the rider tacked on in the senate, to permanently establish "the unwholesome, pernicious and damnable atmosphere of tyranny" in the Philippines. Poor Hepburn! If he had not been caught in the vortex of this George III. craze, his hereditary tendency to stand by liberty might have proved strong enough to have kept his feet in the paths of the fathers.

SUGAR TRUST ORDERS

McKinley Must Obey Them if it Makes an Enemy of a Nation That Has Been Our Friend for a Hundred Years.

Suppose we consider for a moment just what is this friendship with Russia that Secretary Gage, at the command of the sugar trust, has so summarily ended and what it has meant for the United States.

Russia was one of the first countries to acknowledge with a friendly salutation the birth of the republic. When the war of 1812 was coming on the rest of Europe (except France) cheerfully hoped to see us obliterated from the map. Russia, appalled by the disproportionate strength of the combatants, tried to avert the struggle. After the war was begun, fearing we should be crushed, Russia made repeated efforts to bring about peace. Not a sinking, cowardly, hypocritical suggestion like John Hay's in the South African horror, but genuine, whole-hearted intervention for peace.

When the civil war came on and the blockade of the republic in its hour of distress, it was always Russia that cheerfully hoped to see us obliterated from the map. Russia, appalled by the disproportionate strength of the combatants, tried to avert the struggle. After the war was begun, fearing we should be crushed, Russia made repeated efforts to bring about peace. Not a sinking, cowardly, hypocritical suggestion like John Hay's in the South African horror, but genuine, whole-hearted intervention for peace.

When the civil war came on and the blockade of the republic in its hour of distress, it was always Russia that cheerfully hoped to see us obliterated from the map. Russia, appalled by the disproportionate strength of the combatants, tried to avert the struggle. After the war was begun, fearing we should be crushed, Russia made repeated efforts to bring about peace. Not a sinking, cowardly, hypocritical suggestion like John Hay's in the South African horror, but genuine, whole-hearted intervention for peace.

When the civil war came on and the blockade of the republic in its hour of distress, it was always Russia that cheerfully hoped to see us obliterated from the map. Russia, appalled by the disproportionate strength of the combatants, tried to avert the struggle. After the war was begun, fearing we should be crushed, Russia made repeated efforts to bring about peace. Not a sinking, cowardly, hypocritical suggestion like John Hay's in the South African horror, but genuine, whole-hearted intervention for peace.

When the civil war came on and the blockade of the republic in its hour of distress, it was always Russia that cheerfully hoped to see us obliterated from the map. Russia, appalled by the disproportionate strength of the combatants, tried to avert the struggle. After the war was begun, fearing we should be crushed, Russia made repeated efforts to bring about peace. Not a sinking, cowardly, hypocritical suggestion like John Hay's in the South African horror, but genuine, whole-hearted intervention for peace.

When the civil war came on and the blockade of the republic in its hour of distress, it was always Russia that cheerfully hoped to see us obliterated from the map. Russia, appalled by the disproportionate strength of the combatants, tried to avert the struggle. After the war was begun, fearing we should be crushed, Russia made repeated efforts to bring about peace. Not a sinking, cowardly, hypocritical suggestion like John Hay's in the South African horror, but genuine, whole-hearted intervention for peace.

When the civil war came on and the blockade of the republic in its hour of distress, it was always Russia that cheerfully hoped to see us obliterated from the map. Russia, appalled by the disproportionate strength of the combatants, tried to avert the struggle. After the war was begun, fearing we should be crushed, Russia made repeated efforts to bring about peace. Not a sinking, cowardly, hypocritical suggestion like John Hay's in the South African horror, but genuine, whole-hearted intervention for peace.

When the civil war came on and the blockade of the republic in its hour of distress, it was always Russia that cheerfully hoped to see us obliterated from the map. Russia, appalled by the disproportionate strength of the combatants, tried to avert the struggle. After the war was begun, fearing we should be crushed, Russia made repeated efforts to bring about peace. Not a sinking, cowardly, hypocritical suggestion like John Hay's in the South African horror, but genuine, whole-hearted intervention for peace.

When the civil war came on and the blockade of the republic in its hour of distress, it was always Russia that cheerfully hoped to see us obliterated from the map. Russia, appalled by the disproportionate strength of the combatants, tried to avert the struggle. After the war was begun, fearing we should be crushed, Russia made repeated efforts to bring about peace. Not a sinking, cowardly, hypocritical suggestion like John Hay's in the South African horror, but genuine, whole-hearted intervention for peace.

When the civil war came on and the blockade of the republic in its hour of distress, it was always Russia that cheerfully hoped to see us obliterated from the map. Russia, appalled by the disproportionate strength of the combatants, tried to avert the struggle. After the war was begun, fearing we should be crushed, Russia made repeated efforts to bring about peace. Not a sinking, cowardly, hypocritical suggestion like John Hay's in the South African horror, but genuine, whole-hearted intervention for peace.

When the civil war came on and the blockade of the republic in its hour of distress, it was always Russia that cheerfully hoped to see us obliterated from the map. Russia, appalled by the disproportionate strength of the combatants, tried to avert the struggle. After the war was begun, fearing we should be crushed, Russia made repeated efforts to bring about peace. Not a sinking, cowardly, hypocritical suggestion like John Hay's in the South African horror, but genuine, whole-hearted intervention for peace.

When the civil war came on and the blockade of the republic in its hour of distress, it was always Russia that cheerfully hoped to see us obliterated from the map. Russia, appalled by the disproportionate strength of the combatants, tried to avert the struggle. After the war was begun, fearing we should be crushed, Russia made repeated efforts to bring about peace. Not a sinking, cowardly, hypocritical suggestion like John Hay's in the South African horror, but genuine, whole-hearted intervention for peace.

When the civil war came on and the blockade of the republic in its hour of distress, it was always Russia that cheerfully hoped to see us obliterated from the map. Russia, appalled by the disproportionate strength of the combatants, tried to avert the struggle. After the war was begun, fearing we should be crushed, Russia made repeated efforts to bring about peace. Not a sinking, cowardly, hypocritical suggestion like John Hay's in the South African horror, but genuine, whole-hearted intervention for peace.

When the civil war came on and the blockade of the republic in its hour of distress, it was always Russia that cheerfully hoped to see us obliterated from the map. Russia, appalled by the disproportionate strength of the combatants, tried to avert the struggle. After the war was begun, fearing we should be crushed, Russia made repeated efforts to bring about peace. Not a sinking, cowardly, hypocritical suggestion like John Hay's in the South African horror, but genuine, whole-hearted intervention for peace.

part of the ditch, because that would require 114 2-7 rods at $1.75 to give him his $200, leaving 85 5-7 rods for A, which, at the $2.25 rate, would give him only $192.66 for his share. Hence, A must have had "stony" dirt for all of his task, which would require 88 8-9 rods.

Now, this leaves 111 1-9 rods, part "dirt," part "stony" for B to dig. B gets $200 for digging this 111 1-9 rods, or an average of $1.80 per rod, an advance of 5 cents over the "dirt" price. This would mean $5.55 5-9 for the whole 111 1-9 rods. Now, the "stony" price is 50 cents higher than the "dirt" price. Divide $5.55 5-9 by .50 and you have 11 1-9 rods which must have been stony and for digging which B received $2.25 per rod, or $25 and his 100 rods at $1.75 makes up B's $200. It follows that there were 100 rods each of stony and dirt ditch.

THAT AGUINALDO BRIBE

An Example of the Contemptible and Continuous Lying of the Imperialist Press.

The editor of the Lincoln German Free Press has a few words to say in the Chicago Record to the imperialistic liars that are very much to the point. His article was as follows:

To the Editor: It is necessary to repeat once more like Mr. Curtis the testimony of our own officials that Aguinaldo was not bribed? Mr. Wildman, consul general of the United States at Hong Kong, writes to J. B. Moore, acting secretary of state, on July 18, 1898: "There has been a systematic attempt to blacken the name of Aguinaldo in the Spanish senate. June 18, 1898. He said that Aguinaldo undertook to submit if the Spanish government would give a certain sum to the widows and orphans of the insurgents. He then admits that only a tenth part of this sum was ever given to Aguinaldo, and that the other promises made he did not expect to keep."

United States Consul Williams at Manila writes to William R. Day, secretary of state, on May 24, 1898: "Today I have executed a power of attorney whereby General Aguinaldo releases to his attorneys a tract of $400,000 now in bank in Hong Kong, so that money therefrom can pay for 3,000 stand of arms bought there and expected here tomorrow." (Senate document 62, pages 337 and 338.)

F. V. Greene, major general United States volunteers, says: "No steps have been taken to introduce the reform men than 2,000 insurgents who had been deported to Fernando Po and other places are still in confinement, and Aguinaldo is now using the money to carry on the operations of the present insurrection." (Senate document 62, page 421.)

All these quotations from our own officials show that Aguinaldo invested the "bribe" in arms to fight for the liberation of his people. I think that we could afford to be generous and truthful even to our enemies. But this is the kind of "information" which is given by our administration writers on all questions pertaining to the Philippine war.

L. B. HERMANN.

What They Meant

The authors of the Declaration of Independence meant it to be as, thank God, it is now proving itself—a stumbling-block to those who in after times might seek to turn a free people back into the hateful paths of despotism. They knew the proneness of man to pass ex post facto laws, and they meant when such should reappear in this fair land and commence their vocation they should find left at least one hard nut to crack.—Abraham Lincoln.

There were perhaps never two sentences so weighted with prophesy and profound truth as is contained in the above quotation from Lincoln. Today there is a fierce battle being waged in the United States senate, fought with the keenest logic and all the weapons of statesmanship, but the sum and substance of all the speeches can be found in the above short paragraph.

The effort to turn a free people back into the hateful paths of despotism is again being made and even with more persistence than at the time when Lincoln made this time-enduring protest. They "have commenced their vocation," but they have in these words of the great lover of mankind another "nut to crack" but that is very hard to crack, because this "breed of tyrants" claims to enslave mankind in the name of Lincoln.

That Sugar Trust Order

The New York Evening Post quotes W. L. Saunders, vice president of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill company, as saying of Secretary Gage's action in imposing countervailing duties on Russian sugar, which has resulted in Russia retaliating by increased duty on many of American exports to that country: "It will mean a direct loss to American exporters of $10,000,000 a year, and all because of the paltry sugar importation from Russia, which in 1900 amounted to only $22,790. Secretary Gage has made the mistake of his life in this decision, and if he has been influenced in reaching it by the claims of the sugar trust I predict that it will be but the beginning of a concerted attack, not only on the trusts, but on the whole principle of the American protective tariff. His action is all the more undecipherable in that he has acted with the full knowledge of the injurious results that would follow, and yet with no actual knowledge that Russia was paying a bounty of 4 cents a pound on sugar which brought it into competition with the product of the trust in this country."

Digging a Ditch

Editor Independent: In The Independent of January 27, 1898, you published the following problem: Two men, A and B, agree to dig a ditch 200 rods in length for which C agrees to pay them $400 or $2 per rod. A part of the ditch was stony; A says to B, I will dig the stony part for $2.25 per rod and you dig the dirt part for $1.75 per rod. Each received $200. How far did each dig?

If it was solved I don't remember having seen it, and would wish to see it if you would kindly publish it again. JOHN MILDUFF.

The problem was referred to the Chess Editor and reported as follows: It is evident that B did not earn his $200 by digging wholly in the "dirt"

SOD HOUSE ECONOMIST

How the Republican Party After Advancing Reputation for Many Years Tried to Escape by a Technicality.

The independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done. In the independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done. In the independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done.

The independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done. In the independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done.

The independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done. In the independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done.

The independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done. In the independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done.

The independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done. In the independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done.

The independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done. In the independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done.

The independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done. In the independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done.

The independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done. In the independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done.

The independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done. In the independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done.

The independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done. In the independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done.

The independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done. In the independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done.

The independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done. In the independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done.

The independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done. In the independent has pointed out a thousand times that every national bond and obligation was payable in stamps. In the large cities this was done.

Merriam called the attention of a few newspaper publishers to sections increasing the rates upon weekly newspapers published in cities having letter-carrier delivery.

If the bill had passed upon this Ho told by Loud on the floor of the house, The Independent would have had to put a one-cent stamp on every one of its numbers delivered in the city. Monthly periodicals would have had to put on from two to four cents in stamps. In the large cities this would have amounted to hundreds of thousands of dollars. Then in would have come the express companies and made an offer to deliver them at a fraction less than the government would charge. To cover this extra charge, the weeklies and monthlies would have had to raise the price of subscription to city subscribers whether they put on stamps or paid the express companies for delivering them. The Independent would have been a dollar a year to all subscribers except those living in the city and to them an additional charge would have to be made of fifty-two cents a year.

That is what results from electing corporation tools to represent the people in congress. The fees that the corporations pay them are very often many times the amount of the salaries that they receive from the government. There are scores of such men in congress. They appear before the people as patriots and talk about the flag and this great and glorious nation. Then the mullet heads are perfectly satisfied. They leave their work, march in processions, carry greasy torches and shout themselves hoarse trying to elect them. This is the way the mullet heads have of doing things and as they are in a majority the rest of us must submit.

This discovery of the bare-faced lying of Congressman Loud of course killed the bill. But if there was any sense of honor or dignity left in the house the matter would not be allowed to stop there. Loud should be ignominiously expelled as a warning to the other corporation tools who hold seats in that body.

This discovery of the bare-faced lying of Congressman Loud of course killed the bill. But if there was any sense of honor or dignity left in the house the matter would not be allowed to stop there. Loud should be ignominiously expelled as a warning to the other corporation tools who hold seats in that body.

This discovery of the bare-faced lying of Congressman Loud of course killed the bill. But if there was any sense of honor or dignity left in the house the matter would not be allowed to stop there. Loud should be ignominiously expelled as a warning to the other corporation tools who hold seats in that body.

This discovery of the bare-faced lying of Congressman Loud of course killed the bill. But if there was any sense of honor or dignity left in the house the matter would not be allowed to stop there. Loud should be ignominiously expelled as a warning to the other corporation tools who hold seats in that body.

This discovery of the bare-faced lying of Congressman Loud of course killed the bill. But if there was any sense of honor or dignity left in the house the matter would not be allowed to stop there. Loud should be ignominiously expelled as a warning to the other corporation tools who hold seats in that body.

This discovery of the bare-faced lying of Congressman Loud of course killed the bill. But if there was any sense of honor or dignity left in the house the matter would not be allowed to stop there. Loud should be ignominiously expelled as a warning to the other corporation tools who hold seats in that body.

This discovery of the bare-faced lying of Congressman Loud of course killed the bill. But if there was any sense of honor or dignity left in the house the matter would not be allowed to stop there. Loud should be ignominiously expelled as a warning to the other corporation tools who hold seats in that body.

This discovery of the bare-faced lying of Congressman Loud of course killed the bill. But if there was any sense of honor or dignity left in the house the matter would not be allowed to stop there. Loud should be ignominiously expelled as a warning to the other corporation tools who hold seats in that body.

This discovery of the bare-faced lying of Congressman Loud of course killed the bill. But if there was any sense of honor or dignity left in the house the matter would not be allowed to stop there. Loud should be ignominiously expelled as a warning to the other corporation tools who hold seats in that body.

This discovery of the bare-faced lying of Congressman Loud of course killed the bill. But if there was any sense of honor or dignity left in the house the matter would not be allowed to stop there. Loud should be ignominiously expelled as a warning to the other corporation tools who hold seats in that body.

This discovery of the bare-faced lying of Congressman Loud of course killed the bill. But if there was any sense of honor or dignity left in the house the matter would not be allowed to stop there. Loud should be ignominiously expelled as a warning to the other corporation tools who hold seats in that body.

This discovery of the bare-faced lying of Congressman Loud of course killed the bill. But if there was any sense of honor or dignity left in the house the matter would not be allowed to stop there. Loud should be ignominiously expelled as a warning to the other corporation tools who hold seats in that body.

This discovery of the bare-faced lying of Congressman Loud of course killed the bill. But if there was any sense of honor or dignity left in the house the matter would not be allowed to stop there. Loud should be ignominiously expelled as a warning to the other corporation tools who hold seats in that body.

ONLY $2.95 FOR THIS REGULAR $6.00 WATERPROOF STORM COAT.

SEND NO MONEY out this ad. and we will send you a waterproof storm coat, made of the best material, and guaranteed to keep you dry in any weather. It is a real bargain, and you can have it for only $2.95. Write to us today for more information.

SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO., Chicago.

HIDES.

S. J. DOBSON & Co.,
Successors to Dobson & Landgren,
Dealers in
HIDES, FURS, TALLOW AND WOOL.
390 N. ST., LINCOLN, NEB.

We want anything in our line—large or small lots. We pay the highest market price.

an abraded surface and absorbed into the blood and produces the condition known as vaccinia. So, then, vaccination affords protection from smallpox by producing in the body a constitutional condition which is similar to some respects to the symptoms of smallpox itself, but of a character so mild as to be utterly and entirely harmless, and produces such changes as to render the development of the disease a virulent and fatal form an impossibility.

Of all diseases smallpox is probably the most violently contagious, but unlike other terrible diseases it is not content with a fatal termination in many cases, but on those it spares it leaves forever its ineffaceable marks and warnings to others, a warning that speaks louder than words, caution so strong that it ought to do more in favor of vaccination than all the words ever written or spoken.

The mortality from smallpox in 4,000 cases, collected in his own practice by Dr. Welch, was 60 per cent of the persons not vaccinated. The statistics of Mr. Mason, who has been practicing for thirty years in the smallpox hospital of London show in 15,000 cases a mortality of 40 per cent, while among those who had been vaccinated at some time during life the death rate was only 6 per cent. During the Franco-Prussian war, when the German army was doubtful the strength of the French, and in which vaccination was obligatory, only 283 died from this disease, while among the French, vaccination not being enforced, the death record reached the enormous number of 23,000.

The dangers of vaccination, when properly and cleanly done by a competent physician, are nil. The untoward results that are reported to follow vaccinations are due in great measure to unclean habits of the vaccinator or dirty fingers or clothing coming in contact with the abraded point of inoculation. In the hands of a competent, surgically clean physician there is no danger in vaccination.

The dangers of vaccination, when properly and cleanly done by a competent physician, are nil. The untoward results that are reported to follow vaccinations are due in great measure to unclean habits of the vaccinator or dirty fingers or clothing coming in contact with the abraded point of inoculation. In the hands of a competent, surgically clean physician there is no danger in vaccination.

The dangers of vaccination, when properly and cleanly done by a competent physician, are nil. The untoward results that are reported to follow vaccinations are due in great measure to unclean habits of the vaccinator or dirty fingers or clothing coming in contact with the abraded point of inoculation. In the hands of a competent, surgically clean physician there is no danger in vaccination.

The dangers of vaccination, when properly and cleanly done by a competent physician, are nil. The untoward results that are reported to follow vaccinations are due in great measure to unclean habits of the vaccinator or dirty fingers or clothing coming in contact with the abraded point of inoculation. In the hands of a competent, surgically clean physician there is no danger in vaccination.

The dangers of vaccination, when properly and cleanly done by a competent physician, are nil. The untoward results that are reported to follow vaccinations are due in great measure to unclean habits of the vaccinator or dirty fingers or clothing coming in contact with the abraded point of inoculation. In the hands of a competent, surgically clean physician there is no danger in vaccination.

The dangers of vaccination, when properly and cleanly done by a competent physician, are nil. The untoward results that are reported to follow vaccinations are due in great measure to unclean habits of the vaccinator or dirty fingers or clothing coming in contact with the abraded point of inoculation. In the hands of a competent, surgically clean physician there is no danger in vaccination.

The dangers of vaccination, when properly and cleanly done by a competent physician, are nil. The untoward results that are reported to follow vaccinations are due in great measure to unclean habits of the vaccinator or dirty fingers or clothing coming in contact with the abraded point of inoculation. In the hands of a competent, surgically clean physician there is no danger in vaccination.

The dangers of vaccination, when properly and cleanly done by a competent physician, are nil. The untoward results that are reported to follow vaccinations are due in great measure to unclean habits of the vaccinator or dirty fingers or clothing coming in contact with the abraded point of inoculation. In the hands of a competent, surgically clean physician there is no danger in vaccination.

The dangers of vaccination, when properly and cleanly done by a competent physician, are nil. The untoward results that are reported to follow vaccinations are due in great measure to unclean habits of the vaccinator or dirty fingers or clothing coming in contact with the abraded point of inoculation. In the hands of a competent, surgically clean physician there is no danger in vaccination.

The dangers of vaccination, when properly and cleanly done by a competent physician, are nil. The untoward results that are reported to follow vaccinations are due in great measure to unclean habits of the vaccinator or dirty fingers or clothing coming in contact with the abraded point of inoculation. In the hands of a competent, surgically clean physician there is no danger in vaccination.

THE BEST ELECTROBELT IN NEBRASKA

Your First and LAST OPPORTUNITY

DR. HORNE'S $13.34

DR. HORNE'S $6.66

THIS OFFER IS GOOD FOR 30 DAYS ONLY

DR. HORNE ELECTRIC BELT & TRUSS CO.
DEPT. L, CHICAGO, ILL., U.S.A.

Agents Wanted Everywhere

DR. HORNE'S ELECTRIC BELT & TRUSS CO.

Agents Wanted Everywhere

DR. HORNE'S ELECTRIC BELT & TRUSS CO.

Agents Wanted Everywhere

DR. HORNE'S ELECTRIC BELT & TRUSS CO.

Agents Wanted Everywhere

DR. HORNE'S ELECTRIC BELT & TRUSS CO.

Agents Wanted Everywhere

DR. HORNE'S ELECTRIC BELT & TRUSS CO.

Agents Wanted Everywhere