IT IS ALL FAIR IN WAR

A Complete Account of the Way that Aguinaldo Was Trapped and Made a Prisoner by Funston

The following is the story of Aguinaldo's capture as it appeared in the New York Herald: General Frederick Funston told today the story of the capture of General Emilio Aguinaldo.

On the morning of March 17, taking a small quantity of cracked corn, the party departed on a ninety-mile march to Palanan. The country is rugged and mountainous.

Chief of staff, Major Alambra and others attacked the men who were holding General Aguinaldo. Hilario Placido shot Colonel Villa in the shoulder.

ing trust attorneys to the national house and the senate begin to feel the heavy hands of the trusts and they are just finding out that they "can't do anything."

The Lake Superior iron mining region is convinced that its interests do not lie with the United States steel corporation, and that the formation of that trust will throttle all individual initiative enterprises there.

It is now being argued among members of the Minnesota legislature that the United States Steel corporation, being a New Jersey concern, and expressly prohibited from railroad ownership or operation in that state, can have no powers elsewhere prohibited.

It is also proposed that the state make an investigation to see if any shippers of iron ore are favored by special or private rates or drawbacks, and that the freight rates on iron ore be regulated.

The state itself is owner, through its public school fund, of an important point of fact, with the exception of the Chapin, Lake Superior, Regier, Norris, Tilden and a few smaller mines, all the ore owned by the corporation lies in Minnesota.

The independent has no faith that the Minnesota legislature will do anything that will help the steel trust. The only thing in this matter is that it has acknowledged that it could "do something" if it tried.

NEBRASKA FORESTS

They are to be Grown all Over the Sand Hills and in the Western Part of the State

The division of forestry of the U. S. department of agriculture has decided to make a thorough examination, during the coming summer, of tree growth in the state of Nebraska.

For several years past the division of forestry, through its section of tree planting, has been investigating the forest growth in several of the middle western states. The agents selected for the work to be done in Nebraska this summer are men who have a practical knowledge of the existing conditions and are well fitted for the task of making an exhaustive study of the region.

A wide strip of territory can be studied on each side of the route, as the party will be equipped with the distribution and reproduction of the yellow pine. Nebraska is the meeting ground of the plains and mountain flora, and for this reason much valuable and interesting information is likely to be obtained.

The rapid spread of interest in forestry will soon bring landowners to realize that timber may be considered as truly an agricultural crop as wheat or corn. With the division of forestry investigating the best method of tree culture and offering its advice and assistance to the landowners interested in tree-planting, there is reason to believe that in the near future much headway will be made in bringing about a reasonable forest growth on lands now almost treeless.

The work of the division, looking to the improvement of Nebraska forests, should attract general attention, considering that throughout this region forest products are in constant demand, commanding high prices and presenting a profitable field for the investment of capital.
