

HEALTHY WOMEN.

Mary J. Kennedy, manager of Armour & Co's Exhibit at the Trans-Mississippi Exposition at Omaha, Neb., writes the following of Peruna, as a cure for that common phase of summer catarrh, known as indigestion.

"I found the continual change of diet incidental to eight years' traveling completely upset my digestive system. In consulting several physicians they decided I suffered with catarrh of the stomach."

"Their prescriptions did not seem to help me any, so, reading of the remarkable cures effected by the use of Peruna I decided to try it and soon found myself well repaid."

"I have now used Peruna for about three months and feel completely rejuvenated. I believe I am permanently cured, and do not hesitate to give unstinted praise to your great remedy, Peruna."

"The causes of summer catarrh are first, chronic catarrh; second, derangements of the stomach and liver; third, impure blood."

"Such being the case anyone who knows anything whatever about the operations of Peruna can understand why this remedy is a permanent cure for summer catarrh."

"It eradicates chronic catarrh from the system, invigorates the stomach and liver, cleanses the blood of all impurities, and therefore permanently cures by removing the cause—a host of maladies peculiar to hot weather. The cause being removed the symptoms disappear of themselves."

"Summer Catarrh" sent free to any address by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

"The best physicians recognize these facts and reserve the prescription of Peruna for the few cases in which they are absolutely required. It has fallen to the writer to treat many cases of the opium habit in its various forms, and in only a few instances has this most pernicious and destructive habit had its origin in a physician's prescription, but I have seen several cases that were due to some drug administered under some fanciful name."

"One who has seen a halting heart faithfully stimulated by the hyper-medic use of strychnine to the performance of its normal function, and has watched the red currents return to the pale lips and awakened consciousness remove the vase from the eyes with the beams of intelligence, is ready to exclaim: 'What a present gift the gods have bestowed upon us!'"

"The same thought comes to one who sees the surgeon's knife move painlessly through the tissues by the help of the local anaesthesia induced by cocaine. On the other hand, one who studies the wrecks that result from the morphine or cocaine habit is ready to say: 'What demons the devils have turned loose to prey upon us!'"

"Medicine is a two-edged sword, and should be handled only by those drilled in its use."

"The man who desires to live long and be healthy and happy while his lives will not acquire the habit of indiscriminate drug taking, but will resort to medicines only on the prescription of some competent, reputable physician, and in his experience with members of the medical profession he will find that the best of them are not given to the ordering of many drugs."

commerce, the vampire of trade, bowless and rapacious. "The trust is a veritable daughter of the horse leech, and like hell and the grave can never be satisfied. The trust is dangerous to national life and destructive of freedom of the individual. Its operations can only be successful through intimidation of the working-man, corruption of the press and control of politics. These form the stock in trade of the trust system. England has found that fact out to her cost through the war in the Transvaal, a war of finances seeking to secure higher dividends through reducing the wages of white workers and enslaving the black workers."

"Part of the means by which these ends are to be secured is the crippling or destruction of trade unions. "Cromwell broke the power of kingcraft by beheading one of the Stuart kings, and now a power more to be feared than that of the Stuart race is growing up in the midst of us. The old kings claimed to rule by right divine; the trusts rule by the right of Mammon. The capitalist has no nationality. Acting through the trust, he has no conscience. The world is his field of operations and every race his victim."

REIGN OF DUPLICITY

This Country Has in President McKinley, a Most Faithful Deciple of Machiavelli

After the surfeit of war articles with which so many of our recent magazines have been teeming, it is refreshing to take up the May Century magazine and find it free from any articles relating to wholesale human bloodshed. It is better yet, in the "Topics of the Time" to find the editor speaking out boldly in favor of governments conforming to the same standards of morality which require common honesty and good faith between man and man individually.

"Public servants," says the editor of the Century, "should know that the stewardship of principle is vastly more important than the stewardship of property."

This sentiment will make Henry Watterson furious if his attention is called to it, but it is nevertheless a wholesome doctrine and it is encouraging to find it in the columns of a conservative magazine like the Century. In these days when even the religious press, preaching the gospel of the Prince of Peace, sees nothing to condemn in the cruelties of war and nothing to condemn in the practice of treachery, forgery, and lies in the name of war; sees nothing to condemn in the Platt amendment depriving Cuba of independence and sovereignty through joint resolution of congress, approved by the president we had said that the people of the island were and of right ought to be free and independent.

It does indeed sometimes seem as if the present administration had deliberately adopted the philosophy of "The Prince" in its entirety. They seem to think we cannot and should not fulfill our pledges if their observance seems contrary to our interest or when the causes which induced us to make them no longer exist. Other nations are as bad as we and will not observe their faith with us, we must in the same way not observe ours toward them; besides we can find plenty of reasons with which to color our want of faith.

Of course we should seem to be merciful, faithful, humane, religious and upright, and should even be so in reality; but if occasion should require it we should know how to change to the opposite.

It must be understood that a government, especially one that has recently acquired new territory by conquest, cannot perform all those things that cause men individually to be esteemed as good, they being often obliged for the sake of establishing empire over alien peoples to act contrary to humanity, charity and religion. Therefore it is necessary that we should have for our chief magistrate one with a versatile mind, capable of changing readily according, as the winds and changes bid him; and while in general, not to swerve from the good if possible, yet to know how to resort to evil if necessity requires it.

Have we not indeed in the presidential chair a faithful disciple of Machiavelli?—Ithaca (N. Y.) Democrat.

DR. J. BOYD

This is the Gentleman Who is Entitled to all the Credit for all the Numerous Cures That are Being Effected at the British Medical Institute at the Corner of 11th and N Streets, Sheldon Block

A staff of eminent physicians and surgeons from the British Medical Institute have at the urgent solicitation of a large number of patients under their care in this country established a permanent branch of the Institute in this city in the Sheldon block, corner of 11th and N streets. These eminent gentlemen have decided to give their services entirely free for three months (medicine excepted) to all invalids who call upon them before May 12. These services consist not only of consultation, examination and advice, but also of all minor surgical operations.

The object in pursuing this course is to become rapidly and personally acquainted with the sick and afflicted, and under no condition will any charge whatever be made for any services rendered for three months to all who call before May 12.

The doctors treat all forms of diseases and deformities, and guarantee a cure in every case they undertake. At the first interview a thorough examination is made; and, if incurable, you are frankly and kindly told so; also advised against spending your money for useless treatment.

Male and female weakness, catarrh and catarrhal diseases, also rupture, goitre, cancer, all skin diseases and all diseases of the rectum are positively cured by their new treatment. The chief consulting surgeon of the Institute is in personal charge. Office hours from 9 a. m. till 8 p. m. No Sunday hours. Special Notice—If you cannot call send stamp for question blank for home treatment.

Discharge of Ear Permanently Cured LINCOLN, NEB., April 6, 1901. EDITOR NEBRASKA INDEPENDENT: Please to certify that I have been suffering from a discharge from my ear for two years, without finding any cure or relief. I was cured soundly and well by the British Medical Institute, and the discharge was completely stopped with one month's treatment. AXEL WEDELL, Ceresco, Neb.

and a battalion of cadets from the university and what members of the old Fighting First could be reached formed the military guard, the whole being under the command of General Viquin, the national guard under the local officers and the members of the old First under Lieutenant Colonel Eager. Lieutenant Polk was the son of Colonel Polk who served during the civil war in command of an Ohio regiment. He died some years since and this son was the only hope of an aged mother. A very pathetic thing was to see the only Filipino in Lincoln with sad face also marching in the line. One man, as he saw the corpse being carried out, remarked: "This is only one of the six thousand and more of Americans who have laid down their lives in this war of conquest. Thousands of other homes are, or have been cast into mourning just as this is on account of it."

A large number of carriages were in line and every mark of respect possible was shown to the dead soldier as well as heartfelt sympathy for the lone and bereft mother and other relatives. Lieutenant Polk died of lung fever upon his arrival at San Francisco and his body was forwarded to Lincoln for burial.

J. B. Romine, who has long been employed in the advertising department of The Independent, died at St. Elizabeth's hospital, Lincoln, after a long illness, on Friday, May 4, after an operation for an internal cancer. He was one of the old populist workers and will be sincerely mourned by hundreds throughout the state. He was 61 years old. He was born in Virginia and enlisted and served in the confederate army through the whole war. At the close of the war, he counted the cause for which he had fought as lost, and instead of indulging in bitter memories, accepted the inevitable as cheerfully as he could and came to Nebraska to start in a new career. It was not long before he discovered the plutocratic tendencies of the democratic party as it was managed in this state and left it to unite himself with the greenback movement. From that day to this he has been an active worker in the cause of reform.

In the early days of the movement he had a practice of writing out his speeches, though he never read them to an audience, but spoke offhand. His sons cherish the speeches and preserve them. This writer looked over some of them last summer. Considering the time when they were written they were certainly remarkable, for in those days he had to think out these economic questions without the aid of books. One by one the men who began this fight in the support of Peter Cooper are passing away. They have made their mark upon the generation in which they lived and their memory will be held sacred by many thousands. Prominent among them was J. B. Romine.

JACKSONVILLE BURNED

The Most Disastrous Fire That Ever Occurred in the South—Loss About Fifteen Millions. The city of Jacksonville, Fla., was almost wholly burned on Monday, May 6, and the disaster is incomprehensible and indescribable. A dispatch of May 5 says: Six thousand destitute were fed today by the relief association. Governor Jennings has perfected the military government of the city by a general order placing Colonel Lovell in command and making Major Maxwell provost marshal. The receipts by the relief association and other agencies approximate $60,000 tonight. Ten carloads of supplies were received today from Charleston and one from Atlanta.

FILIPINO WOMEN

They Make a Piteous Appeal to General MacArthur to Release Their Imprisoned Husbands. The following items of news are taken from the columns of The New American, a twelve-page daily published at Manila:

Miss Constanca Poblete and Mrs. Filomena Luna led a procession of 500 Filipino women, who are members of the Woman's Peace League, in a procession to the Ayuntamiento, yesterday morning, and presented a petition to Major General MacArthur asking for a release of prisoners of war who were friends of the women who formed the column. The procession formed at the Poblete home in Quiapo and marched over the suspension bridge into the walled city. They carried an American banner, and many "vivas" were given for everything en route. When the column arrived at headquarters all the women assembled on the plaza, and Miss Poblete, as president of the league, and Mrs. Luna, as secretary, proceeded to the military governor's office, where they were given an interview with the general. The petitioners stated that many of the names presented were those of men who had been in prison many months, and who did not know why their liberty was taken from them. They were the only support of many of the women and their families, and their imprisonment was a hardship. The procession was quite a novelty to the Filipinos, as it was the first time that Filipino women had ever attempted a display of this kind for the same purpose. Their efforts in this direction had never extended beyond church processions.

IT CAN'T BE DONE

Selfishness, Greed and Legal Theft Cannot be Made a Working Part of Christianity

For many years the church sought in vain to Christianize slavery, and found at last that there could be no slavery without sin. We are now beginning to realize that our present industrial system is in direct opposition to the social law of God. You cannot Christianize selfishness, strife and theft. No observance of Sunday services, or pronouncing of benedictions can hallow or sanctify greed. Getting all you can for as little as possible is not Christian teaching, which says, "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Christ's law of Love is plainly violated in a world of palaces and hovels, millionaires and paupers, wealthy idlers and underpaid toilers. The two rules of the present game of business are: "Every man for himself," and "What is legal is right." Every Christian business man feels the necessary antagonism between the side he was seen to stoop and pick something up—it was a five dollar bill. "Is there or is there not a hoodoo under the arch of a ladder?"

Chicago Degenerates

The degeneracy that takes place in a great city is manifested in the following item taken from the local news column of one of the Chicago dailies: "From the second story of a building in Madison street, between La Salle and Fifth avenue, a ladder stretched to the ground yesterday, making an arch over the sidewalk."

"Hundreds of pedestrians were passing, but not one of them would pass under the ladder, though they had to crowd and jostle on the curb and dodge teams and cars in getting around it."

"The ladder remained in its position for about half an hour, during which time the casualties among the superstitious were one sprained ankle, any number of torn skirts and sprained shins, resultant on the crowding at the edge of the curb, and a job lot of badly damaged tempers."

"One man defying these demons from the vasty deep who are supposed to congregate about a ladder passed under it. Just on the other words of Jesus and the business system whose laws he is compelled to obey. "I detest the methods of my business," said an employer, "but until capitalism is overthrown I am powerless." So long as God hates robbery for a burnt offering, restitutional charity is not sufficient; it is rather twice crust, it curses him that gives, and him that takes. There is a Christian way of earning money as well as of spending it. It is of the very spirit of Christianity that we should live and work for others just as much as for our own interests, and in the world of business that is today impossible. Competition is war; Christianity is peace. "Ye cannot serve God and Mammon," I myself; Christian socialism means, we seek, Christian socialism says, "Love seeketh not her own."—Herbert N. Casson.

Change of Policy

Now since the American China Development company has sold its Chinese concessions it will not be surprising to learn of the administration adopting a pacific policy in the Philippine islands in the near future. While the multi-millionaires, who forced us into the Philippines so as to have a base for the American army and navy in the Orient, intended to pursue their plans of exploitation in China, they preferred war over peace in the Philippines, because it furnished an excuse for maintaining a large army and navy in that quarter convenient to China. If, as now appears, they have abandoned their schemes of Chinese exploitation, its effect ought to soon become noticeable in a modified policy of the administration in those far-off islands. McKinley is a tool of the multi-millionaires, and obeys their every wish and command.—National Watchman.
