Younger Brothers Saved Life of Senator Elkins During the Civil War. The parolling of the Younger brothers in Minnesota brings out an interesting story of an experience of Senator Stephen Elkins of West Virginia with these notorious bandits during the senator's early days in Missouri, says the New York Commercial Advertiser's Washington correspondent. The story is given on the authority of Senstor Elkins himself. When the civil war began, Elkins' family lived in Missouri. The father and one of the brothers allied themselves with the Confederacy, while Stephen enlisted in the Federal army. At that time the Younger boys and Frank and Jesse James were members of the famous Quantrell band, and during one of the Quantrell expeditions Steve Elkins was captured. Quantrell ordered him to be turned over to a squad of men and "taken to the rear," which in Quantrell's pariance meant execution. While Elkins' custodians were conducting their prisoner to the rear Cole Younger and Frank James, both of whom knew | the boy well, stopped the party.

James and Younger prevailed upon the guards to turn Elkins over to them, promising to be responsible for the prisoner. While the company was riding slong leisurely a bugle call was blown, and the horsemen were soon in a gallop. Cole Younger turned to Elkins and said: "About half a mile farther we are going to come to the forks of the road. We will take the right hand. You put the spurs to your horse and take the left or you are a dead man as sure as your name is Steve Elkins." Elkins needed no further encouragement. When the parting of the ways was reached, he lay down flat upon his borse's back, plunged the spurs in and got well out of danger before he was missed by anybody but Elkins never forgot the services renthe men who counived at his escape. dered by Cole Younger and Frank

Sonnish Claims Commission to Pix Responsibility.

Two claims for indemnity growing which have been filed with the Spanish cialms commission may bring the whole question of responsibility for that tribunal, writes the Washington the destruction of the Maine before mercial Advertiser. Senator Chandler, the president of the commission, after reading the briefs in the cases, believes that the body over which he presides has jurisdiction.

The question at issue is whether Spain or the United States is responsible for the damage inflicted in the destruction of the battleship. If Spain, then the United States, having assumed responsibility for claims growing out of the disorders in Cuba, will be beid liable. If the destruction of the Maine was not due to Spanish agencles, but to some internal accident or defect, then the claim could not properly come before the Spanish claims commission, and no claim for damages

The singular feature of the business is that the law officers of the United States government in opposing the claim may be compelled to take the position that Spain was not responsible for the blowing up of the Maine and that the report of the Sampson court of inquiry was not a final determination of the question for the purposes of law. It will be the first time that the subject has ever been considered with all the rules of evidence before a judicial tri-

BOY IN STOCK EXCHANGE.

George Schmidt, Aged 21. Paid $71,-

George Palmer Schmidt, a young man who will not be 21 years old until September next, paid $71,160 the other day for a seat on the New York Stock Exchange. Mr. Schmidt has the double distinction of being the youngest member of the exchange and of paying the highest price ever given for a seat.

The new member has been out of Princeton college less than a year. He is a tail, slightly built, boyish looking fellow, with dark brown hair, blue eyes and a bright, intelligent face. He is good looking and dresses well.

When a New York World reporter saw him in the offices of Harris & Fuller, he was chalking up quotations on a blackboard, having temporarily relieved the boy who does that work. Young Schmidt soon after entered the employment of Theodore W. Myers & Co. and became that firm's curb broker. A few months ago he went to the firm of Harris & Fuller and is now said to have an interest in that concern.

Schmidt said that his mother had given him the money with which he had purchased the Stock Exchange seat. His father is a mining engineer. Laughingly Schmidt said that he did not smoke or drink and as far as he

New Railway Ticket Machine. Recent experiments by rallway officials in Bern with an automatic ticket machine invented by a Swiss have given entire satisfaction, says a Bern correspondent. The machine is similar to the ordinary automatic machines, but the glass cases contain the tickets on which are printed the names of the stations and the price of the ticket. By dropping in the right amount and pulling a handle the ticket is set free. The machinery is so well constructed that an insufficient sum or any base coins will not work the spring, and there is no danger of the purchaser losing the

GREAT REMOVAL SALE

On or about July 1st we expect to move into our new store, which is being erected at Nos. 1221, 1223, 1225, and 1227 O Street. The time being exceedingly short, we are forced to inaugurate this sale, which practically involves our entire fine stock of

75,000.00 WORTH

Men's, Boys', and Children's Clothing, Hats and Furnishings

We have started this sale with a determination to sweep from our counters every vestige of Spring and Summer Goods. We have, therefore, gone over the whole stock with great care and deliberation, and have marked each and every article at a price so that whatever you may select will be a huge bargain in itself. We have never known of a sale that was as far reaching or of such widespread benefit as this sale certainly will be, for the reason that in this particular sale there are none but worthy and fine goods involved.

THE STOCK MUST BE SOLD BEFORE WE MOVE

If you do not secure your share, it certainly will be given to some one else. We have done our part, having laid bare the greatest opportunity for money saving ever known. All we ask is for our friends to carry away the merchandise, while we stand by and shoulder the heaviest losses ever sustained by us during our business history. DURING THE SALE there shall be no changes made in our business policy; every privilege heretofore granted will be as freely granted again. You shall have the right to exchange goods. You shall have the right to return unsatisfactory purchases and have your money returned, and we promise you there shall not be any "Jew business on our part; no marking up and then down. Neither shall there be any "dark cabinet work." You shall see what you get and get what you select. One thing more—every item mentioned in this advertisement shall be produced at the store at the exact price named, and we promise that there shall not be any disappointments or regrets on the part of those who attend this sale. No one will appreciate our liberal offer more than our regular customers, who know our goods and prices, and we urge them to make a speedy investigation into the real merits of this sale in order that they may advise their friends and neighbors of the good things in waiting for them.
