Perhaps that editor has stored away as proof of his first assertion Bryan democratic banners on which is printed: "Down with the trusts and up with the Tagal flag." Perhaps, also, he is able to prove that men who "don't care anything for a party victory unless it means a triumph of their principles" should be suppressed and forced to vote the republican ticket where a triumph of the party has nothing to do with principles, as for instance when they fought the coinage of silver for years and as soor as they were in office began to coin more silver than was ever coined before.

The coinage of silver dollars, $18,244,984 as compared with $18,254,709 in the previous year. The chief increase was in the output of subsidiary and minor coins, which surpassed all records and may doubtless be attributed to the extraordinary activity of retail trade throughout the country. The coinage of subsidiary silver amounted to 57,-114,270 pieces of the value of $12,-876,849.15, and of minor coins to the extraordinary total of 101,-301,753 pieces of the value of $2,-243,017.21. A great many good men seem to accept the doctrine as the very foundation of civilization. Are the men who have become "great captains of industry" really the heroes of the human race? Are these men even the primary authors of wealth? It is greatly conceded that the application by the English people of the doctrines laid down in Adam Smith's work on political economy, is the foundation on which the wealth of that great empire is based. But Adam Smith had no faculty at all for grabbirg gold. He was so poor that his frends had to secure a sinecure from the English government to keep him tiem actual starvation. * A "WORLD POWER"

Either Judge Brewer of the United States supreme court is a close reader of The Independent or two men think and talk very much alike although they live a thousand miles apart. When the republicans first adopted the campaign cry, "We have become a world power," several articles were printed in The Independent showing how ridiculous it was to suppose that a naval battle had created a new "world power" in a day, that power rested upon population, wealth, extent of territory, the degree of civilization and many other things, none of which could result from a naval bat- over 14,000, which is 3,000 more than tle. been formed since that time had been built on the model that we furnished and that even the monarchies of the old world, whose histories ran back for centuries, had been most profoundly influenced by the free institutions that we had established under the constitution and inspired by the doctrines of the Declaration of Independence. But the republicans maintained that all this time we had no influence in the affairs of the world and had not helped to guide the development of government, but all at once one morning we woke up and found ourselves a "world pover." In his Philadelphia address, Judge Brewer shows the absurdity of such a claim. in which he agrees with what was said in The Independent two years ago.
