Mr. Bryan on Madden.

The postoffice department is discriminating against newspapers published in the interest of political reforms. The Challenge, a socialistic paper published at Los Angeles and later at New York; the Appeal to Reason, a socialistic paper published at Girard, Kansas; the Farmers' Advocate of Topeka, Kansas, and the Pawnee Chief, of Pawnee City, Nebraska, (both the latter antagonistic to republican policies) have recently been asked to show cause why they should not be denied second class rates. The postoffice department justified its action in regard to the Challenge on the ground that that paper was violating the following provision of the statute: "Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to admit to the second-class rate regular publications designed primarily for advertising purposes or for free circulation at nominal mates." It was asserted by the department that the Challenge was the personal organ of its owner and publisher; that it was a vehicle for his articles on public questions, the announcement of his lecture subjects and their places and dates: the printing of those lectures or speeches after delivery; the printing of newspaper comment theron, and also the printing of letters and invitations to speak and the replies of the editor thereto.

The department alleged that these things filled the columns of the publication; that it contained little or no matter which did not pertain to the editor, and that he confessed his intention to advertise himself, his sayings and his doings.

Whether the editor conducted his paper in a modest way or whether he unduly injected himself into his paper is not a question with which the postoffice department has anything to do. The third assistant postmaster general is not a censor in the sense that le is to supervise the editorial management of a paper. If the editor of the Challenge advertises himself in such a way as to make the paper offensive to his readers, the readers have their remedy; they can refuse to receive the received answers from sixty-six. Out of sixty-six, thirty-seven claimed that they were subscribers, while twenty-nine denied that they were subscribers. Thirty-four did not answer at all.

Upon this showing an order was issued denying the paper second-class privileges until it could show that approximately half of its readers were bona fide subscribers. This test is not a fair one. Because a letter to a subscriber was not answered or because the answer was delayed until the department had already acted does not raise a presumption sufficiently strong to justify the department in putting the publisher to the expense of a trial. The answers re ded furnish information, but unanswered letters ought not to count against the publisher.

In the case of the Appeal to Reason a clear majority of those who answered claimed to be

The charge made against the Farmers' Advocate was that it did not comply with the law requiring that a majority of the circulation be composed of bona fide subscriptions. Just how the test was made is not known, but if it was made as 't was in the case of the Appeal to Reason, what has been said in that case will aply to the Farmers' Advocate. It may be added that the Advocate has been put to this trouble so often that it smacks of persecution.

The charge against the Pawnee Chief was that it was conducted primarily for advertising purposes. As the editor has presented his proofs on the subject it is probable that the case will be decided in his favor and that he will be relieved from further embarrassment. But there is evidence of the purpose of the department to discriminate against political papers.

While it is perfectly proper that there should be a reasonable proportion between the number of actual subscribers and the total circulation (and the proportion fixed is reascaable) the department has issued an order which is unjust to papers which are published in the interest of legislative reform. According to the ruling of the department a "reasonable number" of papers can be subscribed for by others and counted among bona fide subscriptions, provided the paper is not subscribed for "because of the doctrines it advocates or because of the goods it advertises." In other words, if a man is interested in a paper because it gives the most foreign news or the most domestic news or the best report of prize fights or the most complete review of criminal doings or of divorce proceedings, it is perfectly proper to send it to a friend, but if he subscribes for the paper because it discusses political questions in which he is interested, the subscription cannot be counted in the "legitimate list of subscribers." It would be difficult to conceive of a more unfair discrimination against reform papers. It would be difficult to imagine a rule mor, capable of misuse and tyrannical abuse, and the present congress should imneediately take suc action as will be necessary to correct this ruling. To say that a paper which has no political principles shall have an advantage over a paper which has political principles is worse than ridiculous. To say that an editor who is more interested in current news than he is in the science of government should have an advantage over an editor who endeavors to make his paper instrumental in securing good government is a reflection upon the intelligenc, or the patriotism of the man who is responsible for the

At this time the rule can be used to discriminats against democratic papers, but under a democratic administration the same rule might be used to discriminate against republican papers. The fact that it is just now used to discriminate against socialistic papers does not alter the case. The Commoner is not an advocate of the doctrines supported by the Challenge and the Appeal to Reason, but The Commoner is an advocate of free speech and of a free press, and it does insist that discussion is the only means of arriving at the truth. if an editor has anything to say in regard to political principles or public policies let him say it. If his reasoning is sound, his cause will grow; if his argument is faulty, his cause will fail. Let him appeal to public opinion; before that court all questions are finally settled, and we must assume that under free discussion they will be settled right. If a man reads a paper and likes it he ought to be permitted to subscribe for it for his neighbor; if his neighbor accepts the paper he is a subscriber as much as if he paid for it himself. If he does not want the paper he can refuse to receive it, and then the paper cannot be counted in the list of legitimate subscribers.

It is necessary that we should have laws defining and limiting the postal privileges, but in construing them the department should observe the spirit of the laws and not pervert them to suit the whims or prejudices of the man at the head of the department.

FOR FARMER'S SONS

They Should Flock by the Hundred to the University School of Agriculture

and Learn How to Succeed The department of animal husbandry, University of Nebraska, is making a special effort to give a high grade of instruction to the students who enter the winter course in agriculture which begins December 31, 1901. The leading beef breeds are so represented as to show the best types of beef cattle. These animals will be made use of for class room instruction. The fact that the steer winning the second prize in the grade Hereford two-year-old class at the fat stock show recently held in Chicago, was bred and fed at the Nebraska experiment station, shows that cattle of a high order are used for class room work in the school of agriculture, and also demonstrates that intelligent methods of feeding are practiced by the department of animal husbandry. The ring in which this steer took the second premium contained forty animals. These animals were produced by the best breeders of beef cattle in the United States and Canada, yet Nebraska succeeded in winning the second place. This victory for the University of Nebraska school of agriculture speaks for itself. The instruction in the department of animal husbandry seeks to teach the student how to select animals for the feed lot and how to feed them to the greatest possible profit. Instruction is also given in the breeding and feeding of sheep and swine. On November 22, a small used in the experiments above named. probably reported to his majesty that Experiments are now being carried on to determine the relative value of wheat and corn for food stuffs for cattle and hogs, and in a short time there will be one for the purpose of finding out how small a grain ration can be ket. The Republican's Standing Among Newspapers

"Instead of always talking about the evils of journalism, why not sometimes point to its blessings; instead of talking about a corruptible and a corrupting press, why not a word for newspapers that are fearless and frank, wholesome and honest, powerful and good? There are such papers, perhaps not so many, but, nevertheless some, and in calling their roll, somehow the name of one, like Abou Ben Adhem, leads all the rest-The Springfield (Mass.) Republican."

"Who isn't proud of the American press, when it contains so fair and shining and lovely an example as The Springfield Republican founded 77 years ago by the worthy Samuel Bowles?"
