THE UNION'S MISTAKE.

John Mitchell's Comment on Action of Mine Workers.

John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, who recently resigned his $6,000 a year position in the National Civic federation, said in a speech as guest of the Pennsylvania Social club in New York city:

In response to the action of our union, which made it necessary that I give up my membership in it unless I should give up my place on the board of the Civic federation, I have given up my place in the Civic federation.

I am free to state, however, that I think my union made a mistake. But after all, there are few among us who do not make mistakes, and it is really not a good sign when any man or body of men do not make mistakes.

I did not give up $6,000 a year for a little card, as it has been characterized. I gave up the money for a principle. When I had power to enforce similar edicts I ordered other men to give up their money. It would have been to my lasting shame had I hesitated when the order came to me by my union. I hoped that my action might be an example for all the union men of America.

In the few days since that action I have heard it reported that some persons have said that my action was not a display of loyalty to the union, but was rather an admission that I was in the wrong.

It would require no high courage for me at this time to give up my membership in the union. It was a real hardship, however, for me to give up my work in the body that is trying to establish industrial peace. But I had no choice. I have given up my jobs many times before and at times when I could less afford to do so. By this I do not mean that I can well afford to give up my place on the Civic federation, for I cannot. It was hard upon me to do so.

But I find some consolation that among the men and women who have known me personally the action of the convention is not indorsed. When I first became head of the union it was insignificant. Now it has a place of national eminence. As I say, I believe my union has done wrong in this action; but, to paraphrase a famous speaker, I declare, "My union—may it always be right; but, right or wrong, my union."

CIGARMAKERS' ELECTION.

Perkins Again Chosen International President.

Owing to the considerable time taken up in canvassing the vote of the Cigarmakers' International union membership on the referendum election for officers and speculations arising therefrom as to the result a number of misleading stories have crept into print, as the returns now show. The reports had it that G. W. Perkins, who has headed the international for the past twenty years, had been defeated and with him Samuel Gompers as first vice president and delegate to the American Federation of Labor, while the contrary is the fact.

The official board as returned elected is as follows: President, G. W. Perkins; first vice president, Samuel Gompers; second vice president, Thomas F. Tracy; third vice president, A. Garlepy; fifth vice president, G. P. Bradford; treasurer, Gibson Weber; delegates to the American Federation of Labor, Samuel Gompers and Thomas Tracy. Mr. Gompers in a telegram to Mr. Perkins said, "Permit me to congratulate you, and particularly to congratulate the Cigarmakers' International union and the trade union movement and the true cause and interests of labor, upon your re-election."

The Impotent Knocker.

A flock of geese were in a pond beside a railroad track. When a train passed the geese hissed, but they did not stop the train. Neither shall the knockers stop the labor movement.

Union Man Heads Labor Bureau.

John P. McLaughlin, secretary of the Teamsters' union of San Francisco, has been appointed commissioner of labor for the state of California. Notwithstanding the generally well organized condition of labor in California, this is the first appointment from organized labor made to a state office in that commonwealth.
