Trade Union Briefs.

Iowa miners have voted to erect a permanent labor temple in some city in Iowa. The vote was 4,031 for and 2,849 against.

Sixty machine shops in New York city, including the Mergenthaler Linotype company, have granted the machinists in their employ the eight hour day.

The United Laborers' Union of San Francisco at a recent meeting indorsed the resolution of the Building Trades council pledging $100,000 to defend the dynamite suspects.

HUMAN LIFE CHEAP.

More than 300 mine workers have been killed in mine disasters since the beginning of the present year. Yet there are those who would deny these mine workers the right to organize in order to secure better working conditions and a wage somewhere near commensurate for the dangers under which they must labor. The disregard for human life that prevails in the United States is at once the sin and shame of the republic.—Will Maupin's Weekly.

"SPARING THE GIRLS."

Noble Self Sacrifice of the Manufacturers of Troy.

The New York Post, seldom in agreement with workers, has the following to say about the appearance of a delegation of factory girls before a New York legislative committee to protest against reducing the hours of labor:

"Members of the senate labor committee must have been moved to tears as they listened to the pitiful entreaties of a delegation of Troy factory girls to please not deprive them of the privilege and the opportunity to work more than fifty-four hours a week. The manufacturers under whose auspices the working girl delegation made its protest rose to the very heights of self sacrifice when they pointed out that their own interest in the affair consisted entirely in sparing their girls the loss of wages that would surely follow if women and children in the collar factories were not allowed to work more than nine hours. Altruism could go no further.

"In an age that has carried the business of accelerating legislation to the high point of perfection, an age when you can influence a senate committee by sending it 5,000 telegrams or 50,000 postal cards or threatening it with a refusal of campaign contributions. It is fine to come across an example of the good old method of influencing legislation which consists in bringing forward a dozen workhouse children to say that they like to be underfed, or a gang of slaves to say that they like to be whipped, bought and sold, or a delegation of woman factory workers to say that they like to work twelve hours a day and seven days in the week and positively dislike air, light and safe machinery."

TRUTHS TO PONDER.

Constant association of the workers in unions broadens their minds and develops their intellectual power. The fellow who bolts never learns much.

It is the workingmen who stick together who achieve the victories on the field of industrial warfare. It does not take much knowledge to know enough to stick together. Still, some do not know that much.

Some union members love the union cause so well that they will go out of their way to spend hard earned union wages for the product of unfair firms and then wonder why the union cause is no stronger.

Foolish Loiterers.

People who sit and wait for great moments miss many wonderful small moments, and they are to be pitied.
