

THE DAVEN-O

The Different Kind of a Davenport Bed

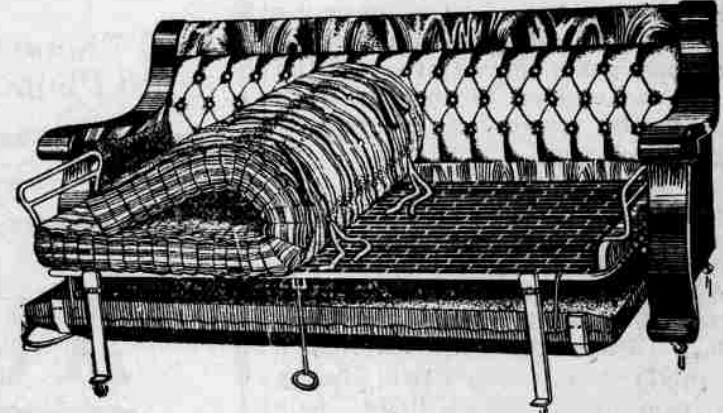

Special Sale and Display During State Fair Week

As a Davenport

We have just received a solid car load of the famous Daven-os. The largest shipment of Davenport beds ever consigned to Lincoln.

25 Attractive Patterns in Oak and Mahogany, upholstered in Leather, Plush or Velour, prices $35.00 to $150.00.

As a Bed

A payment of $5.00 will place any one of these Daven-os in your home—the balance in small weekly or monthly payments. The Daveno is so perfect you could not tell it from a regular straight Davenport. It has no ear-marks of a bed combination and is therefore eminently fitted to grace the finest room. We guarantee every feature of the Daven-o. The Daven-o has all the comforts of a stationery bed; independent bed springs, full size mattress. All bedding, even to pillows retained during day, made up ready for night. Call and see how it works.

LANCASTER MILK PRODUCERS' ASSOCIATION.

It is seldom that a new business enterprise starts out under more auspicious circumstances than those surrounding the initial efforts of the newly formed enterprise enumerated above. That this new company deserves success is patent to all and it is the earnest wish of every fair-minded citizen that their business from the start should be an assured success. The importance of securing pure milk and dairy product cannot be overestimated and it is an assured fact that the products of this company will be all that they promise. The company has opened offices at 1316 N street and their white wagons are delivering absolutely pure and wholesome milk and cream—pasteurized—to every part of the city. Our members and readers are urged to try Lancaster milk and cream as well as their delicious cottage cheese.

The officers of the newly organized company are as follows: T. A. Gierens, president; W. L. Cottrell, vice-president; J. H. Ruliffson, treasurer and N. S. Charles, secretary. The directors are: Jerome Shamp, Willis Maple, H. S. Weaver, James Gray and W. M. Stewart.

SOME POLITICAL DOPE.

Brief Bits About Candidates Who Are After the Jobs.

The same energy that landed the shrievalty nomination for "Gus" Hyers is still in evidence, for "Gus" is on the job all the time. The fact that a republican nomination is a lead-pipe cinch on election in Lancaster county is not making a bit of difference to "Gus." He is so accustomed to hustling that he just can't stop.

Phil Sommerlad wouldn't make much noise if enclosed in a boiler and told to break his way out with a sledgehammer—but the chances are he would get out. He has a way with him. Phil surprised 'em all by his successful race in the primary. He is a clean, capable young man, and will make a good official.

Perhaps, if they had recounted the vote on judicial candidates a couple of times more, Judge Cosgrave would have had a couple of hundred majority. "Jim"—we'll call him that now, for we'll have to treat him with much respect a little later—is great on coming in on the homestretch.

It always affords us great satisfaction to say "we told you so." And we did when we said this year would show no break in the established precedent of promoting the police judge of Lincoln to the county judgeship. That's why we went to sleep the night of the primary serenely confident that Judge Risser would come through with colors flying.

Any rumors to the effect that Jim Dawson expects to be elected sheriff on the prohibition ticket are unfounded. We have it first hand that Jim already concedes his defeat.

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER CO.

The modern history of husbandry is almost identically the history of the International Harvester Co., of America. In every city of importance in the country is found a warehouse of this company and here are shown the completed dreams of genius. The state of perfection reached, in agricultural implement manufacture makes it improbable that any important changes will be made for many years to come. At the local warerooms located at 701-731 K street forty men are employed in handling the products of the company. Mr. C. E. Haynie, the general agent of the company is a business man of more than ordinary ability and much of the growth of the local house is due to his earnest efforts. On another page will be found a special announcement of an instructive series of entertainments provided for visitors to the State Fair. Our members are all invited to see this wonderful and instructive exhibition.

LINCOLN MILLING CO.

Makers of "Liberty Flour" Achieving a Wide Market.

Barber & Sons, proprietors of the Lincoln Mills and makers of "Liberty Flour," are making Lincoln famous as a milling center. For a number of years Lincoln had the reputation of being a "miller's graveyard," because failure after failure to make milling profitable had been recorded. But this reputation was wiped out when Barber & Sons took hold of the Lincoln mills, and today the city is famous for its flour output.

It has not been an easy matter to overcome a prejudice that was never well founded, and convince people that Lincoln made flour was the equal of the best and better than most, but Barber & Sons persevered until they succeeded in overcoming it. As a result "Liberty Flour" is today the standard in a majority of Lincoln homes, and has an immense sale elsewhere. Nor has the superiority of the product alone been responsible for this success. The personality of the gentlemen of the firm has had something to do with it. They are enterprising, full of public spirit and renowned for fair dealing. It is quite as much pleasure to do business with Barber & Sons as it is to partake of good home-made bread concocted from "Liberty" flour, and we have that latter pleasure about twenty-one times a week—bread made by a little the best breadmaker in these parts.

LANDY CLARK.

The prudent man will see that his coal bins are filled before the rigors of winter set in. It is well to do this not only as a matter of precaution against sudden cold but also as a matter of economy. Coal at this season of the year is considerably cheaper than it will be later on and if put under cover now will be dry and ready for use at any time. Mr. Clark has been engaged in the handling of both hard and soft coal for the past seventeen years and does both a wholesale and retail business—employing twenty-five men in various capacities. His attitude towards labor has always been such as to entitle him to a full share of our members business.

Foolish Loiterers.

People who sit and wait for great moments miss many wonderful small moments, and they are to be pitied.
