"Laying On of Hands."

My friend, the agent of a Buffalo wall paper house, was "taking on" with a headache in the waiting room of the big depot in Philadelphia, when a slick looking stranger about 25 years of age sat down beside us and asked: "Is the ache mostly over your eyes or in the back of your head?"

"It's all over my head," groaned the victim.

"Exactly. Proceeds from a nervous state of the system. Ah! your pulse is away up. Let me see your tongue. I thought so; a cold current of air has chilled the nerves along the spine, and a smashing headache is the result."

"Are you a physician," I asked.

"Well, no, not in the ordinary sense. I am called a professor. Some call me a fakir, even. I effect cures by what is called laying on of hands. You are skeptical, of course; but I'll agree to cure your friend here in ten minutes or forfeit $50."

"For heaven's sake go ahead!" groaned Tom. "If you can cure me in an hour I'll give you ten dollars!"

We went down into the baggage department, where the performance wouldn't attract so much attention, and the fellow began passing his hands over Tom's head and face, and also rubbing his hands. He hadn't worked a minute before Tom said he felt better, and in ten the headache was entirely gone.

"Now, don't offer to pay me or I shall be offended," he said, as he stopped work, "and you'd better sit quiet right where you are for about ten minutes. Close your eyes, thus, and lean back a little more so."

He bowed himself out in a graceful way, and had been gone fifteen minutes when Tom carefully arose, opened his eyes, and suddenly called out:

"Robbed, by thunder!"

The fakir got $90 in cash, a railroad ticket to Washington, and a diamond pin worth $125, and the police haven't nabbed him to this day.

A Religious and Business Combine. A poor country congregation found itself badly in want of hymn books. The clergyman applied to a London firm and asked to be supplied at the lowest church rates. The firm replied that on condition the hymn books contained certain advertisements the congregation should have them for nothing. Necessity knows no law and the minister sorrowfully complied, thinking to himself that when the advertisements came they could be removed from the leaves. The hymn books arrived, and—joy of joys—they contained no interleafed advertisements. Christmas services were had the following Sunday, and the good parson joyously gave out an appropriate hymn and the congregation sang the first verse with fervor. When they reached the last line they found that this was what they had been singing:

Hark! the herald angels sing, —'Tis Jesus just the thing; Peace on earth and mercy mild, Two for man and one for child.

Discovered the Spot. A spot in Rome where Nero committed suicide is said to have been discovered. It is on the Pincian hill and was identified by the discovery of a stone with an inscription fixing the location of the villa where it is known the deed was done.

Young Husband—Here's the old chestnut about a rose being just as sweet by any other name. It's a lie! It wouldn't. Young wife—Pray, what difference could the name make? "Well, here's your own case. Two months ago you were Miss Catherine, and Moses how sweet you were! Now, you're Mrs. Gottin, and—Jerusalem!"

It happened a few days ago, when there was snow on the ground, and he was about helping her into the sleigh. As she was about to hop into the outer she stopped short. "Are you really lighthouse?" "Yes," he said. "And drive with your left hand?" "Yes," he said again. "Oh! then please let me sit on the right-hand side, won't you?"
