A REVENGE THAT IS SWEET.

The mills of the gods grind slowly but they chop things up exceedingly fine. Where was there ever a more startling and convincing demonstration of the truth of this saying than in the politics of Nebraska during the five uths just passed?

The people of Nebraska elected a majority of independents in both houses of the legislature which met last winter. tely after it had convened, the endents found that a corrupt comon had been formed between the republican and democratic members, the supreme court, the railroads and all dis elements of the state to throttle the proposed investigation of election frauds and to defeat houset legislation The most desperate fight ever known in the history of the state was made by the foulest means of which human knaves are capable. The halls of the state hous were overrun with bribe givers, charlatans and corruptionists. It is remarkable that so few who were elected by the people on a reform ticket succumbed to the influences thrown around them. In view of the universal weakness of human nature, the results of that session reflect great credit upon the selections nade by the independents of the state. But now we come to the results which have been visited upon the heads of the parties who were concerned in the conspiracy to defeat the will of the people We find the democratic party scatter to the four winds of the earth. The ders of its respectable element have leaders of its respectable element have left it forever. We find the Lincoln Herald, heretofore the most universally respected organ of the party in this state denouncing it in the most emphatic terms, and advising its members to flee from the wrath to come. Hon. W. L. Cundiff, chairman of the democratic ongressional committee, announces ten hulk. From every corner of the state come assurances that the party is paralyzed, that thousands have left it and joined the independents. The exodus of democratic country papers has een something wonderful. The party clutely without an organ that is known beyond the confines of its lecal neighborhood.

With the republican party the result is much the same. So far as we have learned, more than forty republican papers have abandoned the party since the legislature adjourned. The remnants of the party left are hopelessly split: The Rosewater-Watson faction and the Thaver-Richards faction have drawn the dead line between them and there is no likelihood that they will work together harmoniously again. Each side has a following about equal in size, among the prominent men of the party. The result is certainly as disastrous to 1 35 that party as to the democrats. Then there is the supreme court. It is unnecessary to speak of the stigma which has fastened itself upon that tribunal. Condemnation is in every mouth. From the time that it assum authority to command the legislature down to the last disgraceful act in the drama—the governorship decision—is has been in contempt of the highest tri bunal on God's green earth—the people The justice of the decision itself we do not question, but the manner in which it was handled stamps the brand of in-
