GREAT RECEIVER'S BOOT AND SHOE SALE, 1016 O ST J. E. BRUDER, Receiver.

The Glorious Dawn of a New Era.

Last fall we noticed among the various kinds and classes of machinery exhibited at the Nebraska state fair a Davis Platform Binder, which we carefully examined, and knowing full well that it had many points and advantages that the others did not have we became particularly interested in the machine and were determined to watch, with an eager eye, the progress made in the western harvest. We know of the success attained in the harvest in the eastern states, and believe it to be the coming binder in this our western empire.

We were accorded the privilege of reading some testimonials from farmers in Kansas where the "Little Wonder" has already been used, and by permission of the Gen'l Western Agents, Messrs. J. W. Danley & Co. we give below two of these testimonials which cover a few of the many advantages to be found in the machine.

Howe, Kan., May 12, 1891. This is to certify that we saw the Davis Platform Binder work in heavy green rye on the farm of Wm. Sandow. We testify that it does good work, separates perfectly, binds tight, and runs light for two horses, and no weight on horse neck. Signed, W. D. Shoegarts, W. Klingberg, A. Bohannon, N. D. Shoegarts, J. E. Jones, J. Sheline, A. Kline, J. D. Shooley, A. J. Kline, D. D. Miller, Wm. D. Seed, J. J. Kugler, G. W. Sheddard, Orr Docker.

Believing this binder to be the farmer's friend we shall from time to time, as space permits, give our observations and some of the testimonials received by the general agents in this city, that our readers may form some idea of the excellent qualities found in this machine.

One of the handsome advance cars of the Forepaugh advertising department, in charge of Agent George H. Robinson, arrived in Lincoln last Tuesday and had no time in placing their gorgeous posters on the walls for public inspection. It announced the coming of the "largest best and richest exhibition in the world," and invited every one to "wait for Forepaugh" who exhibits here in July, date not yet fixed. The Forepaugh show this season, from all accounts, is superior to anything in the circus line that has been turned west. The Philadelphia papers in their comments on the opening of the show in that city ten days ago, without an exception, pronounced it the very best ever seen in that city. The show contains a great many foreign features that this country has never before witnessed, while the entire outfit, tents, cars, wagons and cars, are mostly new this season. It is confidently asserted that nearly $300,000.00 was spent on improvements in the equipment at winter quarters last winter. It
