

FARMERS' OPINIONS.

Our Financial and Commercial Situation. There has been a strong effort made by those who desire to conceal the truth...

Their talk is not to explain the issues of the day but to conceal them. When we ask them what the G. O. P. is doing for us...

Now I apprehend the necessity of mills, factories, etc., can be more money made by loaning money than in investing it in any legitimate business...

For either of the old parties—that the new party must be elected by the vote of the people...

On the whole the platform is a remarkable presentation of needed political reforms and predication of political success...

In writing about money or finance, to get a clear idea of money we need to know first its origin; next, its function.

Origin—The origin of a medium of exchange, or something which would perform the function of money in buying and selling...

Speech of Senator Peffer

Delivered at the Great Cincinnati Conference, May 19, 1891.

Thinking that THE ALLIANCE readers are interested in everything that occurred at the great Cincinnati meeting, and especially in the great speeches made there, we shall reproduce most of them in these columns...

But what is the reason of our coming? What influence lies behind this movement? Is it the work of men? If so, then indeed half the world has gone mad...

There is no use, men of America to mince words. To destroy the Democratic party in power is not two answers to that; the first is, it is not any of our business whether the Democratic party comes into power or not...

They are worth. Our railroads in Kansas, and we have as good as any in Ohio, and as good men to ride in them...

The Tariff Hoodoo. The herculean efforts of the two old parties to make the tariff an issue of 1892 to the exclusion of all others has so far proved a flat failure...

A Southern Paper Speaks. With all the experience of the past behind him and the character of the American politician before him, the man who preaches industrial reform and advocates seeking it through the agency of the so-called great political parties...

A Little Prophecy. It will go into history that the Alliance, or farmer and laborer's union of America became the redeemer of a fast-decaying and sinking nation...

Legislative Effects on Money. Both the old party organs, by way of argument against the Alliance demands, say "you can't legislate money into the people's pockets..."

Prohibition and the People's Party. A large majority of the conference were earnestly in favor of prohibition, but as earnestly opposed as a matter of policy to making any declaration upon the subject at this time...

The Railroads of Nebraska. The publication of the report made by the state board of equalization once more calls attention to the railroads of Nebraska...

Let us make a comparison for instance: The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad is a system embracing 5,140 miles of line, which is almost equal to the total mileage of the railroads of Nebraska...

What we want to do is for the industrial forces of this country, the farmer, the mechanic, the tradesman, the artisan and all classes of workers—hand workers or brain workers, any man or any woman—and we are taking the women with us—do not be alarmed at that, you men of Ohio...

Iowa's People's Party.

IOWA INDEPENDENTS MEET IN STATE CONVENTION.

Nominate a Full State Ticket and Prepare to Win. Governor—A. J. Westfall, Monona Co. Lieut. Gov.—Walter Scott, Appanoose Co. State Supt.—C. W. Bean, Buena Vista Co.

The decorations and mottoes in the hall were profuse. Promptly at 10 o'clock, N. H. Bowman of Pottawattamie, chairman of the temporary central committee, advanced to the platform and calling the house to order named J. E. Anderson of Winnebago, for temporary chairman...

In closing his remarks he asked this question: "Where is the country that George Washington established?" "Mortgaged," shouted an enthusiastic delegate amid wild applause.

After electing other officers and appointing a committee on resolutions, of which J. B. Weaver was made chairman, considerable time was spent in speech-making. The convention was over-running with enthusiasm and good humor.

At a few minutes before 5 o'clock, Chairman Rabb, of the committee on resolutions appeared and announced that the committee had unanimously agreed on a platform of principles, when the convention fairly went wild with joy...

That we condemn the action of our executive council for the refusal to increase the railroad assessment to an average equal to that of farm and other property, and affirm that said assessments...

We denounce the action of the Twenty-second and Twenty-third general assemblies for defeating the Australian ballot bill; for incorporating the contract clause in the miners' screen bill; for the defeat of the 2-cent fare bill; for the uniform school book bill; and the bill for the taxation of intemperance...

We favor a judicious service pension law and demand additional compensation equivalent equal to the disparity between the currency paid to our union soldiers and that of gold at the time of payment. In granting pensions there should be no discrimination on account of rank...

Currency Increase Less than a Nickel a Month Under the Present Silver Law.

Lectus Goes in Chicago Express. I have been tackling the question of silver coinage, as provided for under the present law, to find out how much inflation of the currency would result...

The law provides for the purchase of 4,500,000 fine ounces of silver each month. If this were coined into standard silver dollars it would be so dispersed of only after 500,000 ounces of alloy had been added thereto, making 5,000,000 ounces of standard fineness equivalent to $5,818,189 in hard cash, or in silver certificates...

When the silver bill was passed it was claimed that the currency of all sorts in existence in this country (but not all in circulation by any means) amounted to $22 per capita. If per capita it will be for the sake of argument. Since that time the population of the country has been constantly increasing...

Now my dear reader, if you will read slowly you will catch an idea which will set you to thinking. This ten years increase of population which will be $22 per capita in 1900 will amount to 12,466,492 people. In estimating the per capita circulation it must be remembered that there will be over twelve millions of new people, so to speak, whose theoretical $22 per capita would require $274,392,560 of the entire currency...

How much increase per capita of circulating medium do you think would result from a division of the balance above mentioned among the entire population as estimated? Divide and see. No amount of digging, water, paper and pencil will make a cent more than $5.64—in fact, it is a trifle less. This the sum and substance of the greatest possible silver inflation under the present law.

To sum up the argument: Allowing the amount that there is now $22 per capita of currency in the country somewhere, and estimating that population will increase no faster in the future than in the past, it is found that the operation of the present silver law will give the people at the end of ten years a per capita increase of $5.64 in paper and coin annual "in-fla-tion" of 36 cents for each man, woman and child in the land, less than a nickel a month!

J. B. Weaver on Campaign Issues. The question of free coinage is but a very small fraction of the great financial issue presented by the Alliance movement. The abolition of the national bank sub-treasury system and the substitution of direct government loans to the people at not more than 2 per cent interest, government ownership or control of railroads, reclamation of land grants in a word, the great questions of money, transportation land and labor, in all of their breadth and magnitude, will engross public attention in the great political conflict of 1892—and it is now certain that neither the republican or democratic parties will be able to meet the public expectations concerning these vital reforms.—Iowa Tribune.
