POETRY.

No More!
As the birds come in the joyous spring,
As e'er from the sea the white sails of ships,
Vague, phantasmal and unreal,
Come back to me memories of thy ruby lips.

Dost secret trouble stir thy breast?
Dost not know that what is best
In all this restless world is rest?
Canst conjure from a loveless heart that priceless guest?

Dost hear the distant ocean call,
Breaking forever on its rocky wall?
So calls my heart upon the past for thee,
Breaking forever on the wall of memory.

In those sweet royal days of June,
The stars and spheres were all in tune,
And the angels were knocking at thy door—
Angels who flee, to come no more! no more!

September ripened the ruddy wine—
Dost remember our trusting under the vine?
Senseless, heartless, the waves break on the shore,
Reverberating away, no more! no more!

The rocks are covered with rime and snow—
Graves with grasses over-grown—
Back to that loving-time let thy memory go,
To the happy hours when more may know.

Only to You.

Dear, how many the songs I bring to you,
Woven of dreams, pleasure and pain;
All the songs of my life I sing to you,
And you hear and answer again,
Though no rhyme do your dear lips say to me,
Yet, my poet, sweet songs you bring:
When you smile, then the angels pray to me,
Tunes to the silent songs you sing.

All my soul goes forth in song to you,
All my deeds for your sake are done—
All my laurels and bays belong to you,
In your name are my battles won.
Just by living you make my life dear to me,
Though your lips never speak my name:
'Tis your hands that in dreams appear to me,
Bring me all that I ask of fame.

What though here you are wholly lost to me,
Though you will never know or see,
Though life's pain be this worship, a coat to me,
Am I not richer than great Kings be?
Have I not you in the holiest heart of me—
You, in the eyes which you see alone?
Shall I not rise to your soul which is part of me?

Till you shall meet me and know your own?

Little Ikey Lansing.

Air—"Little Bobby Shafto."

Ikey Lansing went one day
Among the farmers making hay,
Tried to teach them all to say,
"Little Ikey Lansing."

Though he would not pay his notes,
Still he thought they'd turn the coats
And for him 'twould cost their notes,
"Little Ikey Lansing."

Through the town he also flew,
Boastful as the wind and King Jew,
Until all the people knew
"Little Ikey Lansing."

Ikey tried to witty be,
Sneered at better men than he,
Claimed to own the g. o. p.
"Little Ikey Lansing."

Strikes Ikey told and sung,
Shouted till he hurt his lung,
And folks wished he had been hung,
"Little Ikey Lansing."

Thus about does Ikey trudge,
Trying to become a Judge,
But the people say, "Oh, Judge!"
"Little Ikey Lansing."

TUBES TOO COSTLY.

Scheme to Transmit Mail Through Them Likely to Be Abandoned.

RIGHTS OF INDIAN PARENTS

They Can Keep Their Children Just the Same as White People—A Statue of the Pope Unveiled at Washington.

New Army Tactics.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The question of the introduction of the system of transmitting mail by means of pneumatic tubes in some of the large cities is one which the postmaster general still has under careful consideration, although the prospect of a practical test is not bright. If it were not for the great expense of introducing the system the experiment would be tried at once in New York, Brooklyn and Chicago, but engineers who have investigated the subject estimate that a system of tubing even for experimental purposes would cost between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000, and that an effective system embracing all the important branch stations in New York and Brooklyn could not be constructed at a less cost than $5,000,000. It is feared the project will have to be abandoned on account of the expense.

County seat postmasters are already beginning to send to the postmaster-general their reports of their visitations to other offices of their counties, and they are proving to be of great interest and significance to those who have had a chance to examine them. The visiting postmaster has shown in almost every case not only a great interest and promptness in his work, but he has prepared his report with great care and originality. An Illinois postmaster evidently took his kodak with him, as he returns in his report a picture of every postoffice in the county, and many of them are accompanied with maps of the town and much other information of value as well as with suggestions worth studying.

Rights of Indian Parents.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The commissioner of Indian affairs has received a copy of a recent decision by Judge Green of the district court of the territory of Oklahoma directing the restoration to his parents of an Indian boy placed in the government Indian school at Chillicothe by the Indian office officials. The father of the boy began habeas corpus proceedings to secure possession of his son, who, under an act passed at the last session of congress had been compelled to attend school. Judge Green held that as the Indian office had not issued as required by the act, rules and regulations to compel attendance of Indian children at schools provided for them, the retention of the boy contrary to the will of his parents was illegal. The effect of this decision is regarded by the commissioner of Indian affairs as likely to prove prejudicial to the schools, and it is the intention to carry the case to a higher court. The judge, in his opinion, took the ground that the right of a parent to the custody of his children belonged to the Indian as well as to the white man.

The president approved the proceedings of the court, but mitigated the sentence to suspension from rank and command on half pay for two years.

Hoarded for Seventy Years.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Sept. 29.—The Economites shipped to the Economic Savings bank, this city, the national keg full of United States silver coins as bright and new as when they left the mint. The coins were principally half dollars, dated 1823, showing that they have been hoarded away in Economy for nearly seventy years. A small run on the bank caused the Economites to send out the money. It is believed that they have several hundred thousand dollars in gold stowed away in their strong boxes in some secreted hiding place at Economy, guarded by some of the faithful. Nearly every year they send a keg of the ancient money to the bank here.

La Tosca Sold.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The flying filly La Tosca has been sold by the Hough Brothers to Pierre Lorillard. The price paid was $20,000, which is probably the largest sum ever paid for a horse in this country at a private sale.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29.—Wm. Barnie, the manager of the Baltimore base ball club for many years, has resigned. No reason is given.

HEIR TO TITLE AND ESTATE.

A Poor North Dakota Farmer Becomes the English Earl of Cathness.

GRAND FORKS, N. D., Sept. 29.—From a small farm on the North Dakota prairies to a fine old English estate and a seat in the house of lords is a long step, but James S. Sinclair of Lakota, Nelson county, has made the stride. The Sinclairs were distantly related to George Phillips Alexander, earl of Cathness, but so slight was the tie of kinship that no one in the family expected to profit by it. James Sinclair emigrated and purchased a tract of land four miles from Lakota, stocked it and bent every energy toward improving his little estate. He called the place Berriadales, an old family name and the title bestowed by courtesy upon the eldest son of the earl of Cathness.

All the people between James Sinclair and the title died. Either he had been extremely careless or his friends and family solicited an exceedingly contradictory idea of the area of the northwest, as the letters were simply addressed to "James Sinclair, Berriadales farm near Dakota." One after another of the communications found its way to the dead letter office at Washington, and five months went by with the department officials in discovering the right address of the man for whom the letters were intended. Tracers were sent to every city and village in Minnesota, Nebraska and Dakota, and finally the lost heir was located.

OF OLD STANDING.

Philadelphia Treasurers Have Been in Arrears for Thirty Years—See Cammatt's Testimony.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 29.—Auditor General McCammat was again before the legislature committee investigating the auditor general and state treasury departments. He emphatically denied that he ever received any checks from ex-City Treasurer Bardsley of Philadelphia, and that he had ever shared in any newspaper articles on public advertising bills. He said he never knew of these rebates, and that he never had conversation with any one as to the prices of the advertisements before they were given out. The "burn this letter" postscript to one of his letters to Bardsley was written in haste and he did not want the letter to fall into the hands of the people he had criticized. He wrote to Bardsley about the Keystone bank because he knew it was a city depository and he feared that state funds were there. The auditor general stated that for more than thirty years the Philadelphia treasurers have been in arrears to the state during their terms.

Predictions of Trouble.

Every blow struck at Russia's diplomatic Europe. The Gazette declares will be met by a counter blow in Asia.

Massachusetts Democrats.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 29.—The Democratic state convention met at Mechanics hall. Patrick A. Collins was chosen chairman. The platform addressed reaffirms allegiance to the principles of the national Democratic party, denounces the McKinley bill, and demands the repeal of the taxes on crude material, and denounces President Harrison's administration for its violations of the civil service rules. The silver plank is as for the time being dropped in the use of both gold and silver as money are equally opposed to free and unlimited coinage of silver by our government independent of other nations and to the dangerous silver legislation enacted at the last session of congress.

Omaha Wants the Republican Convention

DENVER, Sept. 29.—Colonel C. R. Scott of Omaha will attend the Republican state convention at Glenwood Springs today and will try to have the convention recommend Omaha as the place for holding the national Republican convention in 1892. WAR IN GUATEMALA

Five Hundred People Killed in an Attempted Revolution.

PREDICTIONS OF TROUBLE.

The Asiatic Outlook as Viewed by the St. James Gazette—Fenian Stephen's Return to Ireland—The Czar Commands the French Army.

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 29.—Five hundred people have been killed in an attempted revolution in the republic of Guatemala. President Barrillas has declared himself dictator and the country is under martial law. The outbreak occurred in the city of Guatemala on Sept. 13 and was precipitated by an attempt of one of the orators designated by Barrillas to speak in the plaza, the occasion being the celebration of a national holiday. The would-be speakers were chased from the rostrum by a mob which cried: "Down with Barrillas." News of the riot spread and Barrillas threw a squad of infantry into the plaza. They were driven back by the mob, many being killed and wounded. Barrillas then ordered a battery of artillery out, which cleared the square after a stubborn fight. The mob, however, continued to fight in the streets and during the night practically held the central part of the city, except where the troops were massed. Barrillas, however, kept the troops moving and by the night of the 18th Barrillas was master of the situation, although the result was frequently in doubt, the troops sometimes being in control and the mob gaining ascendancy at other times.

When the insurrection was put down Barrillas declared himself dictator and proclaimed martial law. A reign of terror prevails, the inhabitants being afraid to leave their houses. Barrillas continues to shoot the participants in the revolt. One of the incidents which led to the revolt was the killing of General Sanchez by Colonel Jobon under orders from Barrillas. Sanchez' brother went to Barrillas' place where Jobon was in command, and shot him dead. Barrillas only ventures abroad under a heavy escort of cavalry.

Predictions of Trouble.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The Moscow Gazette publishes a menacing article in connection with its report of the movement of Russian troops along the frontier of Afghanistan. In this article the Gazette boldly boasts that the impudent demonstrations of England in the Dardanelles matter will receive its triple answer in Asia, where there is no truce to assist her. Every blow struck at Russia's diplomatic Europe. The Gazette declares will be met by a counter blow in Asia.

The St. James Gazette considers the Asiatic outlook on the political horizon serious, and that it may result in a serious outbreak. China, England and Russia, the three great territorial powers in Asia, could no longer avoid each other in the struggle for additional territory on the part of Russia, and it remains to be seen whether the meeting will be friendly, or whether a prolonged conflict, notwithstanding the utterances of the Gazette, it is not believed in high official circles that Russia is anxious to do any serious fighting in Asia. She is not prepared for it, and will not be until the Siberian railroad is completed.

"Russia," said a returned official of the East India service, "has simply been caught by the Chinese at her everlasting game of stealthy aggression. She is always at it and the czar is always ready to disavow it, if it promises to end badly, or to take in any new town or district that a frontier command may manage to steal without inciting a serious row."

Advices from India show that the government there is on the qui vivi for any Russian trespass on British territory, and will meet it promptly with force.

Canadian Politics.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 29.—Parliament will be prorogued to-morrow afternoon. Reconstruction of the cabinet will take place almost immediately. Peter White, the present speaker of the house, will succeed Senator Frank Smith as minister of public works and will be succeeded in the speakership by J. F. Wood, member of parliament for Brockville. Senator Carling, minister of agriculture, will be succeeded by Hon. John Macdonald, member of parliament for Winnipeg, son of the late Sir John Macdonald. Other changes will probably be made, including the retirement of Caron, minister of militia, who will be succeeded by G. A. Kirkpatrick of Kingston.

Steps Return to Ireland.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—James Stephens, the former leader of the Fenians, has arrived in Dublin. It is reported that the government has given him a permit to remain during the rest of his life in Ireland, or on other portion of the empire he chooses. In an interview he said he was a supporter of Parnell. He had changed his mind as to the right of Ireland to be an independent nation, or the way in which that right shall be enforced, but a majority of the Irish people having chosen to try constitutional agitation, he acquiesced to their judgment.

DASHED INTO CHICAGO RIVER.

A Hackman, Drunk or Blind, Drives Off an Abutment.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—A few minutes before 9 o'clock last night the bridge tender at Washington street bridge rang his warning bell and turned the bridge to allow a vessel to pass. As the bridge turned a coupe, driven by Rufus Terry and containing Miss Carrie Green and Isaac Shelton, came rattling over the viaduct. The driver did not observe that the bridge was open and eye-witnesses say that he was lashing his horse to a run. A number of persons standing near shouted to the driver to stop, but he paid no attention to the warning. Shelton and later his companion saw that the bridge was open, but before they could escape from the carriage the horse had plunged over the abutment, dragging the carriage after him into the river. Terry, the driver, and Miss Green were drowned. Shelton, the woman's companion, was pulled out of the water by the crew of the tug Chicago and taken to his home. With the exception of a few bruises he was uninjured. A few minutes after the accident occurred Terry came to the surface. He was alive when taken out, but died a few minutes later. Miss Green's body was recovered an hour after the accident happened.

SURROUNDED BY A POSSE.

Desperate Burglars Corralled in a Corn Field Making a Determined Fight for Life.

KOKUK, Ia., Sept. 29.—There is great excitement near Bowen, Ill., because of numerous burglaries in that and surrounding towns. The last one committed was at the store of J. V. Scott, who got out a search warrant for the house of Frank Jarvis and a man named Thresher. A constable went to the house, whereupon J. Jarvis and his brother commenced shooting at him, one bullet inflicting a severe wound in the leg. Jarvis and his pals then escaped to a cornfield, where they are now surrounded by a sheriff and fifty armed men. It is said they will not be taken alive. The stolen goods had been all boxed up, and it is asserted they were shipped to the relatives of one of the men in California. Late in the afternoon the desperadoes showed themselves and several shots were exchanged. The sheriff is determined to effect their capture if he has to starve them out.

On Aug. 11, 1888, he married Miss Dunnington, and the following April resigned his position with the Baltimore and Ohio and removed his residence to Alabama.

He had been banking for twenty years and his credit was considered good. It is stated that twenty similar warrants will be issued. Knox is a Methodist preacher and very prominent in the church.

Shepard of Worcester, who is serving a life sentence in the state prison at Charleston for the murder of a woman in 1868, got into an altercation in the prison with another convict, James Phipps, who is serving seven years for burglary. Phipps struck Shepard in the face and knocked him down. Shepard's head struck the pavement with fearful force and fractured his skull. He will die.
