Gen. Lytle's Last Message.
Facing Egypt, dying!
Blood on crimson life tide fast.

A new troop of cavalry is in course of organization at Englewood, on the outskirts of Chicago.

THE ALLIANCE.

The Toller: Political ringsters have been digging a grave for the Alliance for the last three years.

Alliance Vindicator: The very fellow who yells, "keep the Alliance out of politics" is usually the man who knows that if the Alliance goes into politics it will turn him out and there-by oust him from a fat job.

New Nation: The statement is made by a Boston broker that half the banks of Boston have cashed notes made out by clerks and indorsed by officials.

New Nation: Failures, defalcations, suicides and tent combinations multiply. We are the richest nation in the world and yet we are not happy.

Pacific Union Alliance: The professional politician may as well understand without further questioning that the Farmers' Alliance and other reform organizations are sure of their position and do not intend to be driven from it.

Southern Alliance Farmer: It is all very well to sneer at the farmers' movement and yell "calamity howlers."

Alliance Tribune: It is said that John Sherman's portrait has been hung in the director's hall of the bank of England.

The Sentinel: Rev. Thomas Dixon of New York says. The movement is in its last analysis the religious nature of millions of the under masses who compose its rank and file.

The Alliance: The highest in-temperance that rests on every Alliance man is to dispell the gloom of ignorance that envelops the minds of his fellows.

The Farmers' Advocate: Why was Campbell defeated in Ohio? Just because Ohio is essentially a Republican State.

An American Prince: It has been an open secret to the intimates of Prince William Astor for a long time that he was exceedingly anxious about the male successor to his vast estate.

LOOK YONDER: Using the People's Patriotism to Avert Their Attention.

Woman's Point of View: "But what on earth could have induced you to marry a man so utterly your inferior?"

Away With Fusion: The smoke had not cleared away from the recent battle of the ballots until Democratic and Republican papers began to discuss the possibility of a fusion between the People's party and the Democrats in this state next year.

The Foundation of Consolation: Sam Small says that Sam Jones says that stagnation is the next station to damnation and adds that agitation is on the road to salvation.

Boost Up One—Crush the Many: We understand that there is a gentleman in North Carolina who says that if the Alliance ever succeeds in getting through its platform that he will go out of business.

Debted to Cranks: Every time we strike a match we are indebted to the men who have studied science for the mere love of it.

The National Bank: Because government money is more stable and convenient, and because by this system money is farmed out for private gain, and as a means of distribution is unreliable, unstable and unsafe.

The curse of an unstable currency is a blight upon the people, and that is what we have to fear and combat with respect to the national banks.

It has been an open secret to the intimates of Prince William Astor for a long time that he was exceedingly anxious about the male successor to his vast estate.

Topka Advocate: Whenever a man is found who still worships at the old party shrines, he is patted on the back and pointed out as a level headed man.

The Southern Alliance Farmer: Suppose a member of the church would consort with sinners, and at every opportunity proclaim the fact that religion is on the down grade.

An Interesting Development: "How can this world be made a better place to live in—beginning with New York?"

The Alliance Advocate, Wash.: The government ownership and control of railroads is one of the growing issues and ideas of the country.

Andrew Carnegie, the millionaire iron manufacturer, sizes up the two old parties in the following terse style, when he says: "A politician may be safely challenged to state wherein the Democratic and Republican parties of to-day differ.

No such movement can succeed in any city in this country, in New York least of all, without attracting the attention and exciting the emulation of other cities.

Rev. Col. Elliott F. Shepard, of the Mail and Express, New York shows that Tammany Hall raised for the last election $4,150,000.

The prosperity of the tailor opens a large field for theorizing on the survival of the fittest.

If you are run over by a horse it is almost a sure sign that there will be a funeral in your family.

Some men must think that the lamp of life is a spirit-lamp, judging from the way they pour in the alcohol.

When there is no hawk flying around the biggest thing in the barnyard is the strut of the smallest rooster.

How can this world be made a better place to live in—beginning with New York? This is the broad platform of a movement just organized.

Primarily it will not have anything to do with man in the next world. For the present man as a grown up animal will be left to the care of the various agencies already at work for his welfare.
