

Something Wrong.

The following poem was recited by Judge Lincoln of Fairbairn at a banquet...

THE BRIDE'S RESCUE.

After the accession of the present Emperor of Morocco, an officer in command of the fortress of Tetuan was executed for having plotted against his sovereign.

ENTERED THE SOCIAL DANCE.

good priest next door had hinted to the widow his disposition and ability to add another jewel to his harem...

As a man never sees his wife's face before the marriage, they have to depend on the opinion of their old lady friends...

In short, the friends were the most celebrated belles of their quarter, and rivals, as it were, in spite of themselves.

The old priest caused it to be entrusted to Caled Bey, who had ordered some inquiries to be made touching the personal attractions of the rival beauties...

The old priest was not so ridiculously indulgent as to refuse a rich son-in-law merely because he had a taste for killing his wives and his daughter detested him...

Attended by her faithful companion, Achmed, Amuna was conducted in state to her husband's mansion...

When the hour approached at which he was to see for the first time the face of his wife, Caled withdrew to the inner apartments...

Before him on a wide divan of crimson and gold, trembling through her gorgeous veil, knelt his unconscious bride...

"Swear, by Alla and his Prophet, by the grave of your mother, and your hopes of Paradise, that you will neither prevent our escape or pursue us for the rising and setting of two suns, and live; refuse and die," was the brief alternative offered by the stripling.

It was accepted. Amuna, hastily throwing off the cumbersome trappings of the marriage ceremony, and honestly selecting from her jewels those only which were the gifts of her father...

"It is related that at the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Soule of Freeport, Me., recently, the minister in the course of a long prayer said: 'Oh, Lord, give grace to some soul to-day.'"

As the groom was known familiarly as 'Sum' Soule and as his bride's name was Grace, the prayer was answered satisfactorily...

THE FARM AND FIELD.

VALUABLE POINTS OF INFORMATION FOR FARMERS.

Seasoning Farm Horses—Growing Corn—Buying Farm Implements—Root Crops—Poisons.

Buying Farm Implements. Already the agents for agricultural implements are out among the farmers attempting to push the work of making sales.

First, the buyers must pay for all the time and money expended by agents in making their sales. Consumers of all lines of goods pay all expenses, otherwise dealers would be losing money and quitting the business as fast as possible.

We fail to see this in our individual cases, because we know that we pay only the customary price; but that price is fixed, must be fixed to cover all such expenses.

When it is decided that an implement is to be bought, and a certain kind is sure to give perfect satisfaction, go direct to the dealer with the cash, even if it has to be borrowed at 10 per cent.

Another point is this: It is seldom wise to buy an implement different from those near you, as it does not pay dealers to keep the supplies.

Spring is the hardest season of the year on farm horses. During the winter they are partly or wholly idle, and they come out of the stables with softened muscles and tender shoulders.

The horse that is grain-fed during the winter bears up under severe spring work much better than one kept in condition on more bulky food.

Do not use them upon leaves or fruit that are soon to be eaten. There is no danger in eating vegetables and fruit after they have been exposed to the rain and sun a few weeks, as several pounds of bushes of treated fruit or vegetables would have to be consumed at one time by one individual to get a sufficient dose of the poison to produce serious results.

When the strength of the diluted mixture of a few plants first to ascertain if the mixture will injure the leaves. Never apply it to fruit trees while in bloom, as the poison will kill the bees so necessary to the formation of perfect fruit.

When to Sow Onion Seed. Many amateurs do not know at what time to sow onion seeds to raise sets, when they are gathered, and how taken care of.

Wet or Dry Food? A discussion is being conducted in several journals regarding the advisability of giving the food in a dry or wet condition.

Growing Corn. An Eastern farm journal devotes an entire issue to the subject of corn-growing. Nearly a score of successful farmers give their methods of culture of their crops, and a summary of the leading thoughts and suggestions are made for the benefit of our readers.

The corn plant requires a rich soil for its best development, and is a gross feeder on manure. Sod land is preferable, and the manure should be spread on the grass during the preceding summer.
