

Nebraska Enterprises.

The patriotic Nebraska feels much pride, doubtless, in the enterprises of his state as the citizen of any country in the world.

The gentlemen are prominent and popular citizens, all men of acknowledged ability and public spirit.

The Addis Windmill commends itself especially to the favor of farmers in all prairie states because of the novel arrangement whereby a few turns of a crank lays the wind wheel flat upon the ground where it is safe from high winds saving a wonderful amount of wear when not in use.

Every stock raiser will appreciate the Favorite Stock Waterer. It is simple, cheap and in effect is better than a living spring on a man's farm.

See ad for Western normal property on 4th page, be sure and look it over, the greatest school in the west.

Counterfeit Union Labels. Almost since the International Cigar Makers' union adopted a label to designate the product of union cigar makers unscrupulous manufacturers who would not pay the union bill of prices (which would entitle them to the use of the labels) have counterfeited the stamps made by the International and placed them upon nonunion work.

The latest case was that of the union cigar makers of Chicago against the firm of Roper & Baxter, cigar manufacturers of that city. The charge was counterfeiting the label, and Justice Brayton, before whom the case was brought, decided against the defendants and assessed a fine of $100, which was paid.

The cigar makers were practically the pioneers of union labels, and their success in its use has surpassed all other efforts in that line. The use of the label and its recognition by organized labor was one of the pet projects of Adolph Strasser, late president of the Cigar Makers' International union, and the influence of the label today is one of the brightest gems in the crown of that great organizer and union manager.

Convict Labor and Country Roads. At least one plank in the platform adopted at the state convention of the so-called People's party in Danville will command the respect of a good citizen. It relates to the employment of convict labor, and is as follows: "We demand that all convicts in this state be employed in the winter months in preparing material for, and in the summer months in making permanent roads and other state improvements."

The People's party is not without reason in accusing the two dominant parties of gross and unparliamentary negligence of the subject of prison labor. As the matter now stands a return to the odious old contract system is precluded by constitutional amendment. The existing contracts are expiring and the state must soon assume the problem, the last legislature having dodged it in cowardly wise. Since enforced idleness is a thing too horrible to be considered at all, and since the state must therefore furnish employment of some kind to the convicts, the question seems to resolve itself into a choice between the application of convict labor to public works and a return to the familiar and therefore odious system of labor on state account.

We venture that once the suggestion of the People's party was adopted there would be no further trouble with the convict labor question and the scandal of our country roads would become a gradually vanishing quantity.—Chicago Post.

Fighting Organization. One of the biggest humbugs of modern times is the assertion made by the apologists of capitalism that employers have no objections to labor organizing so long as it does not interfere with the rights of others. It is safe to say that fully one-half of the large employing concerns in this country hate the very words "labor union," believing as they do that labor is simply a tool to be used to make them richer, and that a workman is entitled to no more consideration than any other machine.

The Cambria Iron company, of Johnstown, Pa., is a fair sample of the class of employers referred to. Recently a committee of the Brotherhood of Trainmen called upon for an advance in wages. The request was not discussed or even noticed by the manager. He simply asked the committee if they represented the Brotherhood, and when they answered in the affirmative they were discharged without another word. That is how capital is trying to establish "friendly relations" with labor.

Dates of Alliance meetings additional to former dates for A. F. Wright, assistant state lecturer for Lancaster county.

Congressional Convention. June 6, 1901. The congressional convention of the second congressional district of the People's Independent party of Nebraska, will meet in Omaha at Central hall, 7 South Fourteenth street, on the evening of June 21, 1901, at 7 o'clock.

Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Disease. Are very common in this climate. The general ail around doctor, is not prepared to treat these cases. If he is interested in his patients, as he should be, he would advise them to consult a specialist in this line of work.

D. M. OSBORNE'S Steel Harvesters and Mowers.

When D. M. Osborne built the first all steel Harvester and Binder in 1885 it marked a new departure that left all our competitors far in the rear. They have all complimented us by imitation.

THE NEW OSBORNE IS THE Lightest Strongest and Simplest Machine Made.

WHY? BECAUSE its frame is all made of angle steel and put together with steel bolts. BECAUSE it has the steepest deck, thus insuring a quick delivery to the packers, and avoiding all trouble from packing and chocking.

No. 4 MOWER. The Number Four Mowers, 4, 5 and 6 feet cut stands at the head of the list. Ask any one of its hundred thousand users and the same reply will be made. "It is good enough for me." AN ALL STEEL BAKE can only be bought of an Osborne agent. Farmers, the best is none too good for you. WE ARE NOW fighting the Harrow trust on your behalf. BINDING TWINE. We offer you all the best grades of Binding Twine at fair prices, and are not in any way interested in the great Twine Monopoly that is trying to squeeze the last cent from the already overburdened farmer. For terms, prices, etc., address GEO. YULE, Lincoln, Neb., T. J. ROSS, Omaha, Neb. D. M. OSBORNE CO., Chicago, Illinois
