

GENERAL WEAVER

What the Papers Have to Say About the People's Candidate For President.

General Weaver's Record, His Views,
His Meetings and His Prospects of Success.

A Calamity Howler.

Who was the very first man in congress to oppose the destruction of legal tender money?

General Weaver.

For so doing he was styled by the curs who were engaged in robbing the people as a calamity howler.

Who was the first man in congress to point out the results that would follow the demonetization of silver?

General Weaver.

For so doing he was styled by the money power as a calamity howler.

Well, all we have to say is this: He told the truth, and the calamities he predicted twenty years ago are now upon us.

To be a plain "calamity howler" of General Weaver's dimensions is a calamity most devoutly to be wished for.

Since the money power assumed control of legislation the country has been mighty short on statesmen.

A statesman, gentle reader, is a man who can look ahead and correctly prophesy the future effect of legislation.

General Weaver called the turn on old Judas Iscariot Sherman fifteen years ago.

Therefore, a calamity howler must be only another name for a statesman.—Denver Road.

GEN. WEAVER ON PINKERTONS.

"I regard the situation throughout the country as very grave, and I have believed for some time that we are nearing a serious crisis. If the present strained relations between the corporations and their employees, between wealth-owners and wealth-producers, continues much longer, they will ripen into frightful disaster. When Rome was near her fall the wealthy barons had their Pinkertons.

"They are an armed body of cruel mercenaries and a menace to the peace of society and the lives of the people. At their bidding bloodshed follows close upon the heels of corporate tyranny. They must be suppressed, and the terrible economic conditions which have spawned this cruel army of thugs upon the country must be changed at once or the republic must give away to corporate despotism.

"The frightful condition of affairs in Pennsylvania will strike the whole country like an alarm bell at midnight. Public sympathy will naturally be with the men struggling to exist upon the earth and for their lives and little ones."

"THE SAME OLD WEAVER."

So says the Chicago Tribune, and for once that unreliable tool of monopoly hit the nail square on the head.

Yes, "it's the same old Weaver." The "same old Weaver" who, in 1880, against the most adverse circumstances, polled 350,000 votes as the candidate of the greenback party.

The "same old Weaver," who, during his two years in congress, made things so hot for the two old parties that they fairly turned heaven and earth to defeat his re-election, which they accomplished only by outrageous lying and scattering Wall street money like leaves of the forest over his entire dis-the government's depositing $60,000,000 among national banks as a compensation to partisan politicians for services rendered.

It's the "same old Weaver" so noted in political debates for calling things by their right names and giving figures and dates and book and page.

It's the "same old Weaver" whom the farmers and mechanics of the whole country have been booming for president for the past twelve months and who, next November, will make both Cleveland and Harrison look ten times sicker than did Bennie when he heard Gresham was going to run.

Yes, Mr. Tribune, it's the "same old Weaver."—Chicago Express.

NOBLE WORDS.

The following is an extract from General Weaver's speech of acceptance at Omaha:

"This is the grandest moment of our civilization. It is rallying the best hearts and the best heads of the nation around the three great contentions of modern times—the great land problem, the great currency or financial problem, and the great and overshadowing problem of transportation. These are the centers around which this great movement is rallying. You are right, and you will be triumphant as certain as we are assembled in this hall. Your faith and your work will conquer. This is no longer a country governed by the people, and it is the great duty today devolving upon the party which you represent to rescue the government from the grasping federated monopolies and restore it to the great common people to whom it belongs."

HE WILL BE ELECTED.

General James B. Weaver will be elected president on the 8th of November. To some who have not kept track of the great upheaval that is taking place, this might seem incredulous, but no man's chances were ever better. Cleveland and Harrison's position on the silver question has turned the entire west and south against them, and they will have to content themselves fighting for the electoral vote of the eastern states. Weaver will carry every state west of the Mississippi river, with the possible exception of Missouri, California and Oregon, and has a fighting chance for California. Among the southern states he will carry Texas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, North and South Carolina and Virginia. Now this article won't take up much space so just cut it out and paste it in your hat, and when you read the election returns this fall, just give the Commoner the credit of telling you four months in advance what the result would be.—Kansas Commoner.

A RUSER.

The Coming Crisis published at Pueblo, Col., speaks as follows of Gen. Weaver's meeting at that place:

General Weaver and party were accorded the greatest audience that ever greeted a visitor to the city. This is conceded by even the partisan opposition. The morning gold bug organ admits there were 7,000 people in the Mineral Palace and the overflow meeting on the outside. The meeting has opened the eyes of many sleepy headed partisans. The speeches made a great impression and did much good in getting some of our friends, the enemy, to thinking. Like gatherings greeted the party all over the state, the mining sections going wild with enthusiasm. No one can note these greetings without realizing the great change in the public mind. Colorado is conceded to Weaver by an overwhelming majority by even prominent republicans. Unless the friends of free silver are betrayed by over-confidence, it is only a matter of how large the majority will be.

A BRILLIANT, BRAINY MAN

General Weaver is a brilliant, brainy man. He is a patriot with a record of which any man may be proud. His voice has been ever raised for the interests of the poor and lowly, for the great masses of the people, and against the greed and ruthless purposes of the rich and powerful. All this is good, but we support him because he is for Colorado, for silver, and silver is all in all to us.—Grand Junction (Col.) Star.

time he struck Denver until he passed out of the state on his way to Nevada and California. He spoke to immense audiences at Denver, Pueblo, Leadville, Aspen and Grand Junction, besides being greeted by hundreds and thousands at every town and hamlet along this route, in many cases making brief ten-minute speeches to eager listeners from the platform of his car.—Salida (Col.) Sentinel.

ALABAMA AND COLORADO.

Alabama will be carried for Weaver by 25,000 majority. So will South and North Carolina, Florida and probably half a dozen other southern states. Let the northern states serve Harrison the same way and the election of Weaver by the people will be as probable as that of either Harrison or Cleveland. A nice spectacle is presented in Colorado truly. The hide-bound democratic state of Alabama repudiates Cleveland because of his enmity to silver and citizens of Colorado asking Colorado men to vote for him! The humiliation and insult are equally as great to ask a Colorado man to vote for Harrison.

Colorado extends her hand to Alabama, and in November will unite its vote with her for Weaver and free coinage.—Rocky Mountain News.

Ouster County In Line.

BROKEN BOW, Neb., Aug. 10, '92.

The independents held a rousing rally here last night lasting until after midnight. This is the home of Congressman Kem and his reception was exceedingly gratifying.

His appearance was the signal for the greatest demonstrations of applause which have ever been witnessed at a political gathering here, being renewed again and again. The people recognize in Mr. Kem a mail-clad warrior who is thoroughly devoted to the common people against organized corruption and cupidity. Hon. J. W. Edgeron made a forcible speech and won many friends. The meeting was also addressed by Hon. D. McCall and Wm. Gray, candidate for state senator, each of whom presented the people's cause in a way calculated to yield a harvest of votes.

The meeting was held in the largest opera house in the city which was packed to the doors the people remaining to the close.

The famous Cat Creek glee club rendered some of their best selections.

Altogether the meeting was a marked contrast to the silyly attended affair, gotten up by the republicans a few weeks ago and indicates that the people cannot be fooled longer by old party hacks and tariff bluster. B.

A Letter From Missouri.

ALTON, Mo., Aug. 6, '92.

The people in this section of country are just awakening to their interests. A mass meeting was held at West Plains Thursday, Friday and Saturday last. It was well attended. A debate was held, Mr. A. Harris taking the people's side, while Mr. Jones advocated republicanism. The names of Weaver and Field were heartily applauded.

American citizens, our liberty is in danger! Wake up! To arms! Unless the whole mass of people arise as one man and crush the power of Wall street we shall lose our beloved freedom. Then we shall be subjects of masters more cruel than were the southern slave owners, and on the ground where the ashes of our English forefathers lie, English syndicates will rule over an enslaved people.

On our own strength and a righteous God rest all our hopes. If we do not put forth that strength, God will also forsake us. America's struggle is not our struggle alone; it is the struggle of popular freedom against plutocracy. The toiling masses of Europe will follow in the wake of our victory. With our down-fall it will be Europe's down-fall also. The last spark of hope will be quenched. But if we win, then all else will follow. The money power will be overthrown. Wall street robbers will no longer reign. Peace and har-
