clared had never been received at the asylum, and he so informed secretary of state Allen. He refused to approve the bill, but the board granted it. Is it possible that state officers who do such things are acting in perfect innocence, and without guile?

There are cases of gross and criminal negligence such as the following:

A voucher for $352.84 for plumbing not itemized and not signed was allowed by the board.

A voucher for oats, $286.82 not signed was allowed.

This much must be said by every fair minded man: Either these state officers are guilty of complicity in these criminal acts, or they are guilty of the grossest negligence, and are utterly unworthy the further confidence of the people.

The above is an incomplete synopsis of what Mr. Rewick said.

Many of the cases of crookedness related by him have been omitted altogether for want of space.

Mr. Shamp's Meetings.

Hon. Jerome Shamp and W. L. Cundiff are making a most able and effective canvass of the first district. Their speeches are in marked contrast to the war of words over tariff to which Bryan and Field are treating the voters.

They are discussing the real issues before the people chief among which are the money and transportation questions.

Full detailed reports of all the meetings can not be given, but the following merit special mention:

They had a good meeting at Wabash the evening of the 20th. Music was supplied by the Wabash band. The hall was packed with people. Mr. Cundiff made a masterly speech handling the records of the two old parties without gloves. Mr. Shamp then made a short speech in which he put in some sledge-hammer blows for the principles of the new party. He was enthusiastically applauded. He added largely to his host of friends in that vicinity. He will get a much larger vote than either of his opponents in that section.

At Weeping Water they held another great meeting the 21st. They spoke on the street. Mr. Cundiff's review of the crimes of the old parties was startling and eloquent, and he opened the eyes of many present.

Mr. Shamp discussed the manner in which the republican party had dealt with the gun-holders and the bond-holders in a way that won the old soldiers. He showed that it was not the paltry fifty million dollars of bonds issued during the war that saved the nation, but the boys in blue, paid and kept at the front by the greenbacks. Then he denounced the republican party in unmeasured terms for destroying those greenbacks and issuing in their stead interest bearing bonds payable in coin. The crowd cheered Mr. Shamp repeatedly.

At Nebraska City, that democratic strong-hold, another great meeting was held, and Mr. Shamp took occasion again to challenge his opponents to meet him on the stump. But they will not do it. With them discretion is the better part of valor.

Peck Having a Peck of Trouble.

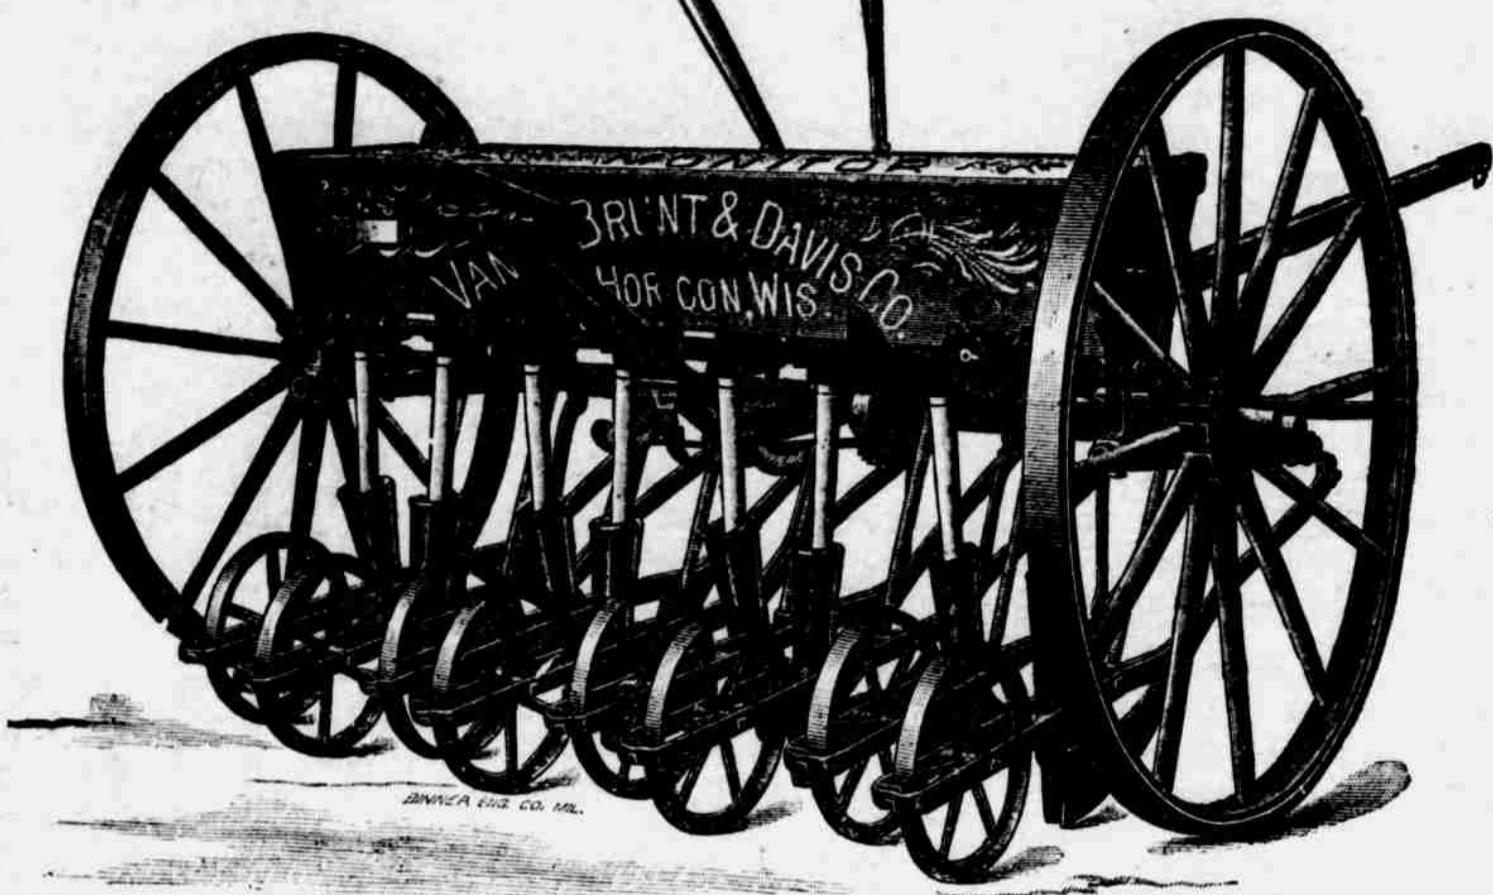

Democratic Labor Commissioner Peck of New York state sprung into a wonderful notoriety a short time ago by publishing a volume of labor statistics showing that the McKinley bill had raised wages, etc. The republicans shouted for joy and the democrats gritted their teeth. Finally, however, the democratic national committee decided to investigate. Mr. Peck had challenged any one to look into the matter and show wherein he was wrong. But no sooner was there a prospect of investigation than he made haste to burn all the documents on which his report rested. Now he is under arrest for destroying public documents.

It appears that he based his report on confidential letters from the manufacturers, and that neither he nor they desired these letters to be investigated.

An Important Sale.

Our friend Fred N. Mulertz, proprietor of the Ashland herd of Poland Chinas, is going to retire from the hog business.

His closing out sale will be at the farm four and one-half miles southeast of Ashland on Tuesday, October 18, 1892, when everything in the herd will be sold without reserve. It will include some prize winners, and no better opportunity will be given in the state for registered stock. Remember the date and place.

People's Star: General Weaver is keeping up his record as a fighter. He is in the hottest portion of the contest and will stay until the poles are closed next November. With such a pair as Weaver and Field to lead how can anyone be weak-kneed or faltering.
