COUNTY MEETINGS.

Good Meetings and Great Enthusiasm in all Parts of Lancaster County.

The independents of Lancaster county have during the past week indulged in a series of the best meetings yet held. The speakers are showing up the corruption exposed in connection with the insane asylum and the state house in good shape and talking to the people on other state issues. The people turn out in large numbers and show great interest. The speakers report that not a man can be found who has left the new party while dozens of new converts can be counted. The following is a partial list of the meetings:

AT BENNETT.

On the evening of Oct. 13, there was a grand out door meeting at Bennett. There was a torchlight procession with over eighty in line, headed by a number of ladies.

The people's gospel was preached by Howe, Leonard and Leese.

AT PELLA.

In Panama precinct, Oct. 14th, Mart Howe and Robt. T. Chambers addressed a grand meeting. The house was crowded, and many stood outside looking in at the windows. There was great enthusiasm. There are many Hollanders in that neighborhood, and they will mostly support the ticket.

CEDAR HILL S. H.

in Mill precinct there was a good meeting on Oct. 16th. The house was crowded. Chambers, Howe, Rose and McNerny were the speakers, and they poured hot shot into the corrupt opposition.

AT KNIGHT'S S. H.

On the evening of Oct. 18th the independents had a rousing meeting in Steven's Creek precinct. Mart Howe, R. T. Chambers and Gen. Leese were the speakers. The house was crowded. They had music both vocal and instrumental. The meeting was a perfect success.

AT THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

Hon J. W. Edgerton addressed the independent club at the state university the evening of Oct. 19th. He made a very fine speech. Hon. J. M. Gunnert also made a good short speech. The university boys are enthusiastic.

AT DAVEY.

The night of Oct. 19th Judge Cromwell and Mart Howe spoke to a crowded house, and stirred up great enthusiasm.

IN STOCKTON PRECINCT.

Oct. 17th the republicans undertook to get up a meeting. McKesson and Cornish were the speakers. They brought out a glee club of four singers. They had ten voters present, five republicans and four independents and one doubtful. They succeeded in knocking the doubtful man off the fence on the independent side.

AT WOODLAWN.

Gen. Leese, O. E. Goodell, Frank Leighton, Prof. Fishbaugh and Duncan Youngs spoke at Woodlawn. The house was filled and there was close attention and much enthusiasm.

While returning home Mr. Goodell's team became unruly and turned over the buggy, throwing Mr. Leese out and brusing his arm severely.

AT DENTON.

I. N. Leonard, H. F. Rose, J. C. McNerney, R. T. Chambers, S. S. Griffin, all candidates on the independent county ticket, addressed a good meeting at Denton the evening of the 19th. The house was crowded, a number republicans were present, and some of them stated after the meeting closed that they would support the independent ticket.

THEY BOTH WANT THE EARTH.

State Superintendent Goudy and Treasurer Hill—Guilty of Rank Nepotism.

The state has frequently been the victim of personal greed and rank nepotism practiced by its officers but never has there been so flagrant an abuse of this nature as can be found in the offices of the state superintendent and state treasurer to-day. In the former can be found the state superintendent practically drawing two salaries or $3,500, he having appointed his wife his deputy, much to the disgust of the body of republicans, while in the treasurer's office can be found the name of Carola Hill as clerk who is now in the east on a wedding trip, and during the four years she has drawn her salary of $1000, a year, has not done a month's service but instead has been east to school during most of the time. But this is not all. Capt. Hill does not intend to let any of the state money run up against him without he has a finger in it, so as a member of the board of public lands and buildings he has his son appointed as engineer at the capitol building a position for which he is totally incompetent. Besides these direct appointments and the treasurer's own salary he is drawing interest on the state's money and is a silent partner in buying the state's warrants which he as a member of the board of educational funds should have bought with this fund and the state thus draw the interest.

THE WEAVER RALLY.

The independents in all parts of the county should get ready in time for the great Weaver rally on Nov. 2. The arrangements so far as completed are as follows:

Grand parade at 11:30. Speaking at M street ball park at 2. Speaking at night in Bohanan's hall. Circulars giving full particulars will be issued soon.

Mrs. Lease Interviewed.

As Mrs. Lease was passing through St. Louis to meet General Weaver at Terre Haute, Indiana, she was interviewed. She declared that General Weaver was a brave and daring man, and that his departure from Georgia was in no degree the result of fear. She gave the following account of the TRIP THROUGH GEORGIA.

"Beginning at Waycross in the southern part of Georgia, we received our first intimation of impending trouble as we alighted from the train when we noticed the depot platform and sidewalk strewn with circulars warning everyone to keep away from our meetings. This was for those who could read. For those who could not read messengers were stationed on the roads to meet the people as they came into town and tell them that an admission fee of 50 cents would be exacted of them before they could enter the meeting. This turned many of the country people and negroes back; and yet through the efforts of the third partyites a fair audience greeted us and accorded us a respectful hearing. We congratulated ourselves on having had a successful meeting; but after our people left town the 'chivalric' democratic thugs emerged from their hiding places and plotted murder. Their plan was to waylay General Weaver as he boarded the night train. Our chairman Mr. H. C. Reed of Waycross, who has since written more than he dared to tell us at the time, heard of the lawlessness premeditated, and seeking the mayor implored him for the honor of the south to do everything in his power to protect General Weaver and party. The mayor, several special police, Mr. Reed and fifteen alliance men remained at the depot all that night to protect us. We, unconscious of danger, had at the last moment decided to take a morning train; hence we escaped with our lives, not knowing that a gang of ruffians who had made night hideous were waiting to assault us. We have since heard facts from our chairman, Mr. Reed, that would not have soothed our nerves if we had known them at the time.

"Shortly after our arrival at Albany, a turbulent, howling, drunken mob gathered in and around the hotel. The democratic chairman came and offered us the use of the opera house free, and assured us on the faith of a Georgian, we would not be molested nor our meeting interrupted. Yet, notwithstanding the gentleman's honor was at stake we were frequently interrupted in the vilest manner. A plot had been laid to shut us in the opera house and at the conclusion of our address we would be compelled to listen to a tirade of drunken abuse from a negro hired by the chivalric democracy to demonstrate their ideas of social equality."

"At Columbus another storm awaited us. A reporter of the Atlanta Journal who had made a specialty of collecting affidavits in regard to General Weaver's war record at Pulaski, and who had followed us persistently to incite rowdyism, was present at this meeting and as usual, attempted a disturbance. Enough of our people were present, however, partially to suppress it, but we suffered a great deal of indignity.

"There has not been an honest election in the south for years," continued Mrs. Lease. "After the negro had been enfranchised the democracy started out with the proposition that it was right to count out his vote, and they followed that up with the idea that it is right to count out any political opponent. Democracy holds power in the south by fraudulent voting. They openly boast of their ability to have a full count, and while crying out against a force bill they have fastened a force bill of the most dangerous description upon the people."

"What was the general attitude of the southern press toward yourself and General Weaver?"

"In reporting our meetings the press was vindictively false to a marked degree. They carried personal and political hostility to the bounds of savage warfare. They sought to incite prejudice against me by calling me a Yankee and a disciple of John Brown, until I found it necessary, in order to allay this prejudice, to ask the chairman of each meeting to introduce me as an Irish woman. The fell spirit of slaveholding intolerance has found its last entrenchments in the south and guards its despotism by that same species of lawlessness that brought about the frenzy of Sumter and the despair of Appomattox. To exterminate this spirit, every loyal citizen should come to the rescue, and make the question of free speech, free vote and fair count the paramount issue of this campaign."
