

HAS KEYSOR A PULL?

He is Described by Little 13-Year-Old Clara Lipp

As the Man Who Attempted to Criminally Assault Her in the City Jail.

This morning's World-Herald contained this item:

A policeman with a blonde mustache, whose name has not been definitely ascertained, is accused of having acted in a rather affectionate manner toward Miss Clara Lipp, a 13-year-old girl in custody at the city jail, Wednesday night.

According to the girl's story, as related to Matron Cummings, she was confined in one of the detention wards in the women's department, and during the night a policeman with a blonde mustache visited her room three times and upon each occasion kissed and hugged her and talked in a very affectionate manner to her.

Mrs. Cummings advised the girl to report the circumstances to Chief Seavey, who immediately started an investigation and an inquiry as to the identity of the offending officer.

The affair implicates one of the night officers connected with the jail force, but as more than one of them supports a blonde mustache, and as the girl has not been called upon as yet to identify the man, the name will be withheld pending an investigation. Wednesday, when the girl was arraigned upon the charge of incorrigibility, she told her mother the circumstances, and again repeated them to a World-Herald reporter in Judge Ambrose's room in the district court.

Notwithstanding that the girl's reputation is such that her mother applied to have her sent to the reform school, the story in relation to the police officer is given evidence. She has been found guilty of incorrigibility, and will be taken to Geneva within a few days.

Why did not the World-Herald tell the whole truth? Why did it not say the girl described Keysor minutely—described him even to his watch chain and garter? Why did it not say that this is the second offense he has been charged with? Why did it not say he had previously made a hellish proposition to a poor, but respectable woman, and that she had made affidavit to the fact that Al. Keysor had offered her a considerable sum of money for the privilege of having criminal relations with our 13-year-old daughter? The trouble is, the daily papers are afraid to say anything against Seavey or his pet—and Keysor is his especial favorite.

We understand Chief Seavey had Keysor before him yesterday, and that the whole matter was referred to Captain Moystin for investigation. This investigation will certainly prove a farce, for the reason that Moystin is an uncle of Keysor, a fact known to Seavey, and a fact which ought to be known to the public.

We want to ask Chris. Hartman, in this public manner, whether he will allow this man Keysor to longer disgrace the police force of Omaha. We ask V. O. Strickler the same question. We ask it likewise of Howard B. Smith, of Mayor Bonis and of Wm. Coburn. Gentlemen, the public want your answer. What will it be?

OPPOSE THE POWER OF THE POPE. Protestant Ministers of Baltimore Meet and Make a Protest. BALTIMORE, Dec. 18.—The meeting of Protestant ministers at St. John's Independent church today was very lively. Every department of the Catholic church received an overwhelming. It was the regular monthly meeting of the ministerial union of Baltimore. It was composed of ministers of all the Protestant denominations in the city. A few laymen and a number of women were present. Rev. Dr. Luther T. Townsend, recently from Boston, and now the pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist church, opened the discussion. He began with the proposition that there was no constitutional right for a crusade against Catholics simply because they are Catholics. He spoke of knowing estimable Catholics. He made a second principal proposition that no one had a right to interfere when the pope was giving spiritual advice to his followers, "but when," said he, "he attempts to interfere in affairs of politics and government he is not essentially a member of the Tammany log?"

under our own roof, then we have a right to oppose their methods. [Applause.]

"If these women will go from door to door collecting money for parochial schools, take our names when we do not give anything, with a look and manner suggestive of the boycott, should the hood and cloak and crucifix which they wear invite our respect or even our tolerance? Should we not show them 'he does the same as we would any other tramp or beggar?' [Applause.]

"Mind I do not say the pope and the priests and the women do these things, but if they do are these conclusions not true?"

The subject was then opened for general discussion, and Rev. Dr. Wharton, the Baltimore Parkhurst, talked for ten minutes. "My friends," he said, "it is a hard thing to fight the encroachment of the Catholic church. You go to preaching against it and maybe one of your hearers has a Catholic wife. It hurts, but I believe the kind of preaching that hurts is the only kind to preach. In the sight of Almighty God I believe the only way is to rise unitedly and fight this papal wolf, else it will overcome us."

Several others discussed the situation and a resolution was adopted asking for an amendment to the constitution of the United States providing that no appropriation shall be made by state or nation to sectarian institutions. It was an enthusiastic meeting. Applause was frequent and decided.

Accused a Prisoner. Officer Murray is charged with striking a drunken man while he was behind the bars. Murray is said to have reached through between the bars and struck him with his "billy." This was witnessed by a man whose name will not be questioned. Nothing will be done with Murray, however. He is a Roman.

Council No. 5, A. P. A. will meet hereafter in G. A. R. hall, 118 So. 15th st., first and third Mondays in each month. The members will govern themselves accordingly. By order of the secretary.

One of the daintiest of the New Year calendars is that issued by the proprietors of Hood's Steamship. It will fully satisfy every expectation as to beauty and utility. "Sweet Sixteen" is the head of a beautiful girl, the lovely picture being lithographed in many delicate colors. The past harmonizes with the exquisite array of colors above, while the dates are easily read. Hood's Calendar may be obtained of your druggist or by sending 6 cents in stamps for one or 10 cents for ten, to C. L. Hood & Co., 1518 Douglas St., Omaha, Neb.

COUNCIL No. 1, of the A. P. A. will give a patriotic entertainment at 207 South Fourteenth street next Friday evening, January 12, 1893. Every A. P. A. in Omaha, and every friend of every A. P. A. has a cordial invitation to be present. Admission free. A good program has been prepared, and will consist of vocal and instrumental music, short speeches, followed by a social. Be sure and bring your wives and best girls. The free entertainment of two weeks ago was a success, and the coming one promises to be a amusing and enthusiastic gathering. Don't forget the place, 107 South Fourteenth street, in No. 1 hall, and don't forget to bring the wife.

An elaborate production of "Side Tracked" with Julia Walters as "A New Tramp in Town," will be the offering at the Fifteenth Street Theatre all next week opening with Sunday matinee Jan. 7. Mr. Walters is said to be a clever and original comedian and the supporting company good. "Side Tracked" is described as a rollicking comedy, with many new mechanical devices, a wealth of beautiful scenery and the largest locomotive ever built for the stage.

"A False Face," the new farce comedy by Chase M. Brockbridge, of Omaha, is to have its initial production at Washington hall next Wednesday evening, January 13. "A False Face" is a comedy constructed on usual lines, and while no very deep plot can be claimed for it, there is more of a story carried through it than is usual with most farces. A very clever company has been secured, all of whom are specially adapted for the line of work called for in their respective parts. The cast includes Mr. Chase M. Brockbridge, Mr. Fred J. Brockbridge, Mr. Chase M. Brockbridge, Mr. Chase E. Mathews, Mr. F. V. Wainwright, Mr. "Billy" Brownie, Miss Katheryn Goodell, Miss Virginia Goodell, Miss Lulu Bond, Miss Mona Clifton. Every member of the company will appear in a clever specialty, and the songs are all new and sparkling.
