O'Connor's Crooked Ways Cost Him Sevreal Thousand Dollars.

The decision of the supreme court in of Wilton H. Goble figured as the vic an Omaha attorney gives a strange ending to an old affair. J. J. O'Cornor, the attorney in question, bought certain property belonging to the children at a forced sale, and the accusation wa- Fifty Years in the Church of Rome made that he had used un'a'r tactics to achleve the end.

The case was taken through the district court to the supreme court, and the decision was in favor of the children, restoring to them their property entirely clear of indebtedness. Mr. O'Connor had expended something like $7,000 on the property, and bad cleared it of all incumbrance. But on the showing that he had secured the title his rights were annulled and the prorthe amount expended.

To Be Avoided.

Another proof of the folly and trouble of mixed marriages is now in evidence in Buffalo. A girl whose mother is a Roman Catholic and her father a Protestart, has become interested in the revival services being held at the Church of Christ on Richmond avenue. and desires to join the church. She has been an attendant at the Sunday school for some time, and her father rather favored it. But now when there is danger of her being a thorough christian, and getting out of the shackles of medievalism, the innate bigotry of Romanism is manifest, and the girl's desire is positively forbidden. That is not all. Recently a delegation of Romanists from the east side came over to her home and made all sorts of threats of what they would do if she was allowed to become a heretic. There is just one moral to Protestants in this, which is only one out of thousands of instances, and that moral is, don't!
