

THE ISSUE AS IT NOW IS (Continued From First Page.)

"J. H. D. Stevens, chairman of the National Advisory Board of the A. P. A. and chairman of its campaign sub-committee, says: 'The results of the investigation of our sub-committee were of such a character that left us, friendly though we were to Mr. McKinley, no alternative but to repudiate him and fight him to the end. From the very nature of our organization we cannot divulge our plans of campaign, but sufficient to say that Mr. McKinley can be defeated, and will be defeated, by this organization. In places where he thinks he is strong, we know absolutely that he is weak. We know what our strength is, and what it will be in the convention. Of those matters I cannot make any public statement. We have been late in beginning our campaign, and I will acknowledge it, but it is only because the majority of us had a predilection for Mr. McKinley, and that our campaign has begun as late as it has is owing to the fact that we wished to treat him fairly.'"

By what authority does the National Advisory Board begin a "campaign" against Governor McKinley or any other man? Was it clothed with this authority when created?

But further, Judge Stevens says: "We have evidence now such as will withdraw from him the support of every member of this organization and all of its sympathizers, and our vote, we know from the results of actual campaigns, is a little over 4,000,000. With such a vote Mr. McKinley could not be elected, even were his impossible nomination possible. Statements are made in all of the newspapers—and he controls the majority of the newspapers in this country—that the reputable element of the A. P. A., in other words, that 90 per cent of the order are supporting and will support him. This is absolutely false. That element of the A. P. A. which is supporting McKinley is doing so, I know, because of promises which have been made to them. Mr. McKinley in his own state stands over a volcano. There not 10 per cent of the organizations are friendly to him, and these support him only through a sense of what seems to be, to me, false state pride. Even the interviews which are sent out in his behalf by a few members of the organization have been found to be, when we came to investigate them, specious and without basis in fact. We have not been able to contradict them, because the newspaper press will not publish anything against him."

We contend that a man who would make such wild statements as the above, should not be allowed to represent the A. P. A. in any capacity. Such twaddle will bring the entire organization into disrepute. He says "every member" will withdraw his support from McKinley, and yet the Citizen has just as far-reaching and reliable sources of information as has the National Advisory Board, and it knows that unless McKinley has some more patriotic opponent than either Reed or Quay or Morton (all endorsed by this same board), the Ohio man will poll three-fourths of the A. P. A. vote; and more than this, far from McKinley's nomination being "impossible," it is not only possible, but probable—made so largely by the insane action of the National Advisory Board.

But Judge Stevens constitutes himself judge, jury and executioner. He declares with most dogmatic insolence that those members of the order who support McKinley do so with corrupt motives. In other words, they are being bribed. This contemptible slur is wholly undeserved, and the man who offers it should be made to eat his words—and probably he will be made to do so. It is but a few weeks since he was loudly proclaiming that his fellow-members on the advisory board had been "guilty of the most damnable perjury in trying to sell out the order in Washington," and that certain high officials of this advisory board had approached political aspirants "with offers to sell for a consideration," that the anti-McKinley combination had offered each member of the advisory board $10,000, and other very valuable considerations; that he had rejected the offer with scorn, etc., etc. Why has he now turned about and become one with the others in his onslaught upon McKinley? If his associates on the board were corrupt then, can we trust them now?

That the advisory board has brought in a verdict of "guilty," in McKinley's case, simply because he did not promise to stand by our principles; and that they brought in a verdict of "not guilty" in the case of all the others, simply because they may have promised everything, is to be looked upon as a scandal. Politicians' promises when crossing a stream are not to be accepted as gospel; we would have more faith in the man who refused to promise anything—unless the promises were above the average politician in probity of character.

One of the charges brought against McKinley is that S. B. Elkins, a Roman Catholic, is in favor of him. S. B. Elkins is a Presbyterian, and last week announced himself as a candidate for the nomination to the presidency, and captured the West Virginia delegation in his own interests. A further charge was that Dick Kerens was for McKinley, and yet every intelligent man knows that the Irish Roman Catholic professed Republicans attach themselves, without invitation, and like barnacles, to every prominent candidate for office. Thus O'Meagher Condon is for Morton, Pat Ford for Reed, Ireland for Allison, etc., etc.

The Citizen would like to know why all information concerning the woeful lack of Americanism on the part of Reed, Morton, Quay and Allison was suppressed by the Supreme Board? Or did they fail to get any information?

We have respected Judge Stevens to such an extent as our limited acquaintance would permit. We have had no word of disagreement with him at any time until now, when he assumes not only to speak for the whole patriotic order of which he is but one member, but also to constitute himself as the order; at the same time grossly insulting those who choose to differ. We enter our protest now because the order is immensely larger than Judge Stevens and his advisory board, and we believe a serious rupture can only be avoided by calling a sharp and decided halt to the men who are acting not only unwisely, but even maliciously.

Perhaps the Citizen stands alone among the patriotic papers in its attitude. We are sorry to notice that nearly all are being "led like sheep to the slaughter." But we have the impression that the Citizen reaches as many readers as all the other patriotic weeklies combined, and we intend that its protest shall go to every state and territory.

As we have said before, we are not McKinleyized, but we naturally look upon the action of the advisory board with suspicion when they endorse some of the corruptest of the candidates—all the candidates, in fact, except McKinley—and then start in without authority to commit the order—every solitary member of the order—to the anti-McKinley forces.

As Artemas Ward said when Brigham Young's thirteen wives proposed to him—"This is too much!"

The Toledo, Ohio, American says: Not only every A. P. A. but every American with the proper spirit of patriotism reigning in his breast should support the candidacy of Mr. W. S. Linton of Michigan, for nomination to the presidency, and for several reasons, more, indeed, than can be brought forward in support of most of the gentlemen aspiring to that lofty eminence. Mr. Linton, when others held back, afraid or ashamed to take up a definite stand on a question which is far and away the most important of the day, came boldly forward and avowed himself.

He had no scruples in letting the world know how he stood. He was an American, and proud of it, and unstintedly with body and soul and mind and purpose he gave himself at critical moments to advance the cause of Americanism, and that with a success which has made his name a household word in every part of the land. While others shilly-shalied and debated, or lied and misrepresented, sitting irresolute upon the fence, only waiting a breath to waft them either way, Mr. Linton stepped boldly into the breach and carried his flag to victory.

That Mr. Linton's candidacy is viewed with serious alarm by those already in the field is evidenced by the fact that their wire-pullers have been assiduous in the circulation of falsehoods calculated to damage his prospects of success. Finding that nothing truthful could be adduced which could be instrumental in stemming the tide of his popularity, recourse has necessarily been had to mendacity, but it is consolatory to learn it has failed in its purpose, redounding rather to the advantage of the man it was intended to discredit.

Mr. Linton could be a candidate on the Republican ticket, but it is far more to be desired that he come forward on a straight out American ticket, a ticket which would have the support of the very best and most desirable of those who have in the past thrown in their adherence with one or other of the old parties. At the head of an American ticket Mr. Linton's chances of success are beyond dispute. However he may be regarded he is a coming man, but as the leader of the great American party he can the more readily attain the place and distinction that are his due.

With Mr. Linton in the presidential chair the cause of patriotic Americanism is safe from molestation and the outspreading grasp of Romanism restrained. There would be a clearing out of Catholics and Catholic sympathizers in high places which could not but be deeply gratifying to all who, cognizant of the direful results of Romish domination elsewhere, are anxious no such crippling and disgrace should blacken the pages of American history.

It is an unfortunate fact that the administrations of both the Republican and Democratic parties have been sullied by a truckling to Rome in a more or less marked degree, and the conviction is forced upon the observer that the Romish vote is gladly bought by those in authority, the price being some concessions to the church or its supporters, which cannot but be offensive to all patriotically minded Americans. With Mr. Linton in power such insults and such subserviency would be impossible, and Romanism would find her power in the United States hopelessly crushed. He is a representative American and in his hands the best interests of Americanism are safer than they have been for many a long year past.

If those with the love of their country and its freedom and liberty predominant in their hearts will but espouse the cause of Mr. Linton, as they should do, and can be expected to do, his nomination will be a foregone conclusion, and then if every American votes as a true and patriotic American should vote he will be elected to the presidential chair with a majority so overwhelming as to put any previous contest far in the shade.

Already there are buttons and emblems in the field and evidences of concerted movement to secure the nomination for Mr. Linton, but his friends must not rest there. Clubs should be formed in all directions and a campaign of education started, and nothing left undone to secure success. There are enough people throughout the land to make that success certain, if they could but be reached, and to reach them is an object to the attainment of which those at the head of this campaign must devote untiring efforts.

The nomination and election of Mr. Linton mean not only a significant victory for Americanism, but more than that, the dealing of a blow to Romanism from which recovery would be hopeless, in the United States, at all events. Therefore, let the cry be: LINTON AND AMERICANISM!

The Fremont, Neb., Tribune says: The A. P. A. will discover it cannot make an unholy war on so good an American as Major McKinley, and the rank and file of that order will refuse to be led into any scheme of that kind. A few bosses of the order may be anxious to show their power, but the people of the country, the plain rank and file of the Republican party, have already been doing some vigorous smashing of the plots of the bosses.

The Boston Daily Standard says: A reader of the Daily Standard, who has taken great interest in the candidacy of Major McKinley, is satisfied that many misrepresentations have been made as to his appointments while governor of Ohio. To disprove these statements he wrote to one who is in a position to know—a native of Maine, an old soldier, a former member of the city council of Springfield, Mass., and at present a member of the school board of Canton, O. The following is his reply, under date of April 11:

"I have investigated the charge made that 'nearly one-half of McKinley's appointments to office during his four years' service as governor were Catholics,' and find that during this time he appointed only two Catholics to state office. One of them was a friend, and the law required the appointee to be a Democrat; the other was appointed at the request of influential men in the state.

S. L. HONGDON."

ADA, O., April 30.—At a meeting of Ada Council No. 260, A. P. A., the following resolutions were unanimously adopted: "Whereas, It has come to our knowledge through the press that certain leaders and high officials of the order known as the A. P. A. publicly declare that they will use the order to oppose the nomination and election of the Hon. William McKinley of Ohio for the office of president of the United States; and

"Whereas, We have good and substantial reasons for believing that said officials are using our order for personal motives only; and

"Whereas, Investigation and inquiry have convinced us that the statements made by these high officials (so-called) are neither exact, substantial nor worthy of belief; and

Kinley's private and public life and that his whole career has stood for the protection of the American home, the American common school system, American labor, American products and America for Americans;

"Resolved, That we denounce in strongest terms the use of our order by said officials for personal ends against one who has given twenty-five years of his life to his country, four of which were in our late civil conflict, the balance in the legislative halls and on the stump, pleading in his matchless eloquence that our country's flag and liberties might not be surrendered to foreign powers.

"Resolved, That we have utmost confidence in William McKinley, and that we pledge ourselves to oppose by all honorable means the use of our order for his defeat."

Given under seal, Ada Council No. 260, A. P. A.

Says the United American of Washington, D. C.:

For the information of the public generally, and the friends of the American Protective Association particularly, the United American desires to correct a number of false and misleading statements which have gone out during the past few weeks respecting Mr. Linton's candidacy for president. In the first place it is a well known and well understood fact, here at the capital, that Mr. Linton has not only never announced himself as a candidate, but has, on the contrary, refused to yield to the constant and urgent requests of his friends to do so. He is engaged in a grand and patriotic work as a representative of the people in the nation's congress, inspired by patriotic motives and a desire to purify politics and to redeem the country from the power of a gigantic politico-religious combination that is striving to subvert the government to its nefarious purposes. He is simply doing his duty as a patriot and an honest man. Nor has the Advisory Board of the American Protective Association promulgated any instructions to the order dictating Mr. Linton's candidacy. Neither is there any truth in the story published in the press of the country that at the recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the Advisory Board of the A. P. A., each one of the leading candidates was summoned to appear before that body to undergo a course of examination as to their sentiments regarding the principles of the order. All this is bosh. The duty and province of the advisory board is limited to an investigation of and inquiry into the past records of presidential aspirants, and to disseminate throughout the order the result of their investigations. There its duty ends, and there it has ended.

While what we say regarding Mr. Linton's refusal to announce himself a candidate is absolutely correct, we are delighted to know that the great office of president of the United States is seeking Mr. Linton, and the people are aroused from one end of the country to the other, as they have never been aroused before; and the united and unanimous determination of the patriots of America is to thrust the nomination upon Mr. Linton if it is possible to do so, believing as they do that if he is thus pressed to become their standard-bearer, he will not shirk his duty. He has never shirked a duty, and he never will. So we urge upon the six millions of organized patriots of the land to continue vigorously and tirelessly in the work of organization and the extension of Linton leagues, now so encouragingly pushed, convinced as we are that when the proper time comes Mr. Linton will forego his diffidence and consent to lead the patriotic hosts to victory. On, then, to St. Louis, and in the name of liberty and justice—inspired by the spirit of fidelity to our cause, with the motto of purity of politics inscribed on our banners, and in a determination to intrepidly battle for the protection of our institutions, demand recognition for our glorious cause on the 15th of June.
