The Deserted Wife Won the Race by

A race across 2,000 miles of water for husband has just ended at Ellis Is- affectation of giving a Teutonic twist and, says an exchange. The race was 'o the pronunciation of those good old oetween Mrs. Franz Molineaux, a deserted wife, and a young girl, Bertha whose original there was no suspicion Neibling, the husband's sweetheart. The wife won the race by four hours, and, neidentally, the erring husband. Mo- thall be i-ther and ni-ther, and so they lineaux had been wealthy in Berlin. He had married the daughter of a rich grain merchant. When he failed in pusiness he quarreled with his wife, for she made some remark about his povirty which angered him. He left her, saying that he would go to America and begin life over again. They were proud and she permitted him to go clone, although in her heart she loved iim. The man came over here and by aard work established himself and was n receipt of a good salary. He thought tometimes of the woman in Berlin. She was living with her wealthy father, who was very fond of her. In a spirit for these words the pronunciation of the gold and precious stones ornaof pique the husband sent across the e-vil and dev-il, and I am sorry you sea for another woman to share the 10me he had made here at 1860 Lexington avenue. Mrs. Molineaux heard of the other woman and embarked in all naste on the steamer Lahn, bound for New York. The other one, Bertha Neibling, was a steerage passenger on the Venetia, from Hamburg. The Venetia sailed first, yet the fast steamer Lahn beat her into port by four hours, with Mrs. Molineaux in the first cabin. She had little difficulty in interesting the authorities in her case. Detective Peter Groden found her husband and informed him that a woman was at Ellis Island waiting to see him. Molineaux teach was taken there and the commissioner of immigration asked him some very searching questions. Then he dis- tion have been pronounced ever since ple; the king gave his hand to Statira missed him to another room and talked the English language came into being, to Mrs. Molineaux. Neither husband simply e-vil and dev-il with the accent other bridegrooms followed his examnor wife knew of the presence of the on the first syllable; and no amount of other on the island. She mind that "the e-vil that men do lives recovered opportunely and told him how cruelly she had misunderstood him and that she would willingly share poverty and a crust of bread with him. No man could resist talk like that. Molineaux kissed her on the forehead and vowed he would be true to her to the end of time. So they went to 1860 Lexington avenue together, where they will dwell. The other woman? The story is practically finished as far as she is concerned. The immigration authorities came to the conclusion that as she had no friends here now and was likely to become a public charge the for the framework of the web, the guys best thing they could do would be to and radii, and the former for the consend her back to Germany. Crooked Township Lines Explained. "There is a reason for most everything," said a Cumberland county man, when he was asked how in the world they came to have such a crooked line between two towns in his country; "there's a reason for this crooked line. You see, some of our towns established in pioneer times, when land was abundant and people were few, had a big case where she has been observed with cultivated leisure and unambitious rusto make new towns. An Original Cut-Off.

The Washington gossips are telling a good story on Senator Marion Butler of North Carolina. When he made his speech on his bond sale bill he invited his wife up to the senate to watch his effort from the gallery. It was so long that she went to sleep, leaning on the front rail of the gallery, not caring to go out, and in that way make folks think she was uninterested in what her better half was saying. Some senator went and told Butler that his speech had put his own wife to sleep. The senator saw the point, and wound up his brilliant remarks a good deal sooner than he expected to.

The Corbin Buffalo.

The son of the late Austin Corbin has notified the New York Park Commissioners that he will carry out the intention of his father to send a herd of buffalo to Central Park. The Corbin herd, which is now in Vermont, is composed of some of the finest specimens in existence. These animals were captured in the southwest in their infancy by a celebrated western buffalo hunter known as "Buffalo Jones," and are superior to those bred in captivity. The gift will be appreciated by frequenters of Central Park.-Rochester Union Advertiser.

Spiders That Catch Birds.

W. J. Rainbow, an Australian naturalist, gives a description of the large bird-entrapping spiders of his country. Representatives of this genus abound in tropical and subtropical regions. Their webs are composed of two kinds of silk-one yellow, exceedingly viscid and elastic; the other white, dry and somewhat brittle. The latter is used varied heights, sometimes within reach, again ten to twelve feet from the ground, but always in a position exposed to the rays of the sun. The diameter is also variable, from three feet upward. One seen by Graffe in the Fiji islands constructs a web thirty feet in diameter. These snares are strong enough to entrap small birds. In the author's opinion the web is not set for such game, and the spider does not feed on her ornithological victim. In the Watterson's Greatest Dinner.

The greatest dinner that ever I sat down to consisted of a leg of mutton, dressed with mustard, a bit of hot wheat bread, and some fresh butter, with half a jug of fine whisky to wash it down. It was in front of New Hope church in the summer of '64. Some one had sent Eustis a leg of mutton. Some one had sent Yeatman a large pill box of butter. Bragg, Gen. Polk's cook, had some flour. Eustis and Yeatman invited Gov. Harris and myself. The governor happened to have a key which fitted Gen. Polk's medicine case. All of us united in making the robbery of a vial of Irish whisky, the general himself being absent, and that was the dinner! Glorious dinner!

Please God, the quartet still survives to tell the tale, which they do whenever they meet and can get an audience. Eustis is in Parls, ambassador; the same cool, self-possessed man in diplomacy he used to be under fire; able, brave and lazy.
