WE WOULD WARN MCKINLEY.

If Spain engages the United States in war it will be with the secret understanding that the Romanists are to cause internal trouble.

We believe they will incite the Indians to go on the warpath, the laborers to begin strikes of mammoth proportions, and the lawless to precipitate riots in the large cities.

We believe the Mexican Roman Catholic Greasers will organize and cross into our southern territory and harrass our government in that quarter, while the Roman Catholic Canucks will perform the same service for Spain in the northern border states.

Only by such tactics can the Roman Catholic power-which is now seen as the Spanish power be able to win even a temporary victory.

Spain is not foolish enough to assail as rich and powerful a nation as the United States after years of unsuccessful effort to suppress the rebellion in as weak and poverty-stricken an island as Cuba, unless she has been assured of assistance by the pope of Rome, whose word is law to every Roman Catholic in the world. If she has received such assurance no power under God can keep a Roman Catholic true to his oath of allegiance to this country; no power but that of God can prevent every nation in the world from being embroiled, for papists in every land will be called to the standard of Spain, the most Catholic nation in Europe if not in the world today.

struggle will resolve into great grand awful religious war. whose counterpart history has never yet recorded and which no man now or equaled.

That this is true no student of Biblical or profane history will attempt to deny. Everything points to such a conclusion of the present difficulty. Everything points to Protestantism arrayed on one side and Romanism on the other; to a war between igmorance and superstition and intel-Rigence and liberty-just as Gen. Grant prophesied a quarter of a century ago-and those who imagine that the trouble will be settled in a few weeks or a few months have not reasoned from the right point or have failed to see the real lengths to which the friends of Spain have gone. They have not stopped at misrepresenta- ing but the truth, and we unhesitattion. They have professed loyalty and friendship with treason lurking in their hearts, and they are prepared to strike this nation to the death to assassinate its officers and to install popery by and with the aid and consent of weak, blind and credulous Protestants who have joined with them and taken an oath that in case of trouble the president and those city, on the evening of March 6th, wanking under him, who would succeed to the position in case of his death, are to be assassinated. Then the conspirators are to take charge of the government.

We say this publicly and thus boldly because we hope to warn those in danger, and because we further hope the charge may prevent the conspirators from putting their dastardly plot into execution.

Yet, if it does neither of these things we shall feel relieved of the responsibility which has weighted us down since we came into possession of positive and convincing proof that from Rev. J. A. Yet, failing in our effort to warn the president through our friends, and acknowledging allegiance to no government but that over which the American people called him to preside, we say to Wm. McKinley, your life is in danger; your state secrets are not safe in Roman Catholic hands, and you can only preserve your own and the nation's life by surrounding yourself with men who have sworn to defend the principles of Protestantiam, the government, its flag and its institutions, with their treasure and their blood. There are 3,000,-000 of that class in America today, and every one of them is ready to show you that they have learned how to live and know how to die for the principles, liberties and rights guaranteed by the constitution. If you twant their help to preserve either your life or that of the nation, say the word, and may God have mercy on the foes, outside and inside the republic, who have dared to plot against you and American liberty. IS SHE A FEMALE JESUIT?

While Mrs. Margaret L. Shepherd was addressing a meeting in Baltimore March 28th, 1898, Mrs. Miller, Roman Catholic, arose and asked permission to answer a statement Mrs. Shepherd had made Permission was granted and Mrs. Miller said she desired to contradict the statement made by ars. Shepherd regarding the sueing of a House of the Good Shepherd for damages. Mrs. Miller said she had a letter from the chief of police of Omaha in whch he made an absolute denial of the case. We have talked with Chief of Police Gailagher through the telephone regarding Mrs. Miller's claim and he says Mrs. Miller wrote asking him if two nuns had escaped from a convent and that he replied that he did not know of any nuns escaping from convent, that the only escapes he knew anything about were where some girls ran away from the House of the Good Shepherd at South Omaha. Mr. Gallagher says he did not mention Seline Clewett-only the nuns. It is quite evident that Mrs. Miller has misrepresented Chief Gallagher who is also a Roman Catholic, and the people would do well to take all her statements with a grain of allowance or demand her proof when she makes a claim. It would be well also to remember that the truth can men for members of the board of sualways be obtained by telegraphing or writing this editor. > They Almost Wrecked Temperauce Hall Before the Police Could Drive Them Away-In Spite of the Howling Mob Rev. Slattery Speaks.

The Badford Daily Telegraph of March 8, 1898, gives the following report of the attempt to mob Mr. and know, and has never seen, Mr. Slat-Mrs. Slattery in Temperance hall, Bradford, the evening of March 7.

"Intense excitement prevailed in the vicinity of Chapel street last night, in consequence of an announcement that Ex-priest Slattery would address a meeting in the Temperance hall. As early as 6:30 a crowd of people began to gather in Chapel street, and it was then noticeable that the proceedings were to be of a lively character. Soon a detachment of police under Superintendent Byng, came upon the scene, and endeavored to disperse the crowd. At 7:15 a body of men, numbering about thirty, evidently of set purpose. hall by means of the low entrance in Chapel street. For a moment the energies of the police were unvailing, and something like a panic ensued. The assilants managed to work their way up the stairs as far as the first landing, and it was only when the police had drawn their batons and used them, that they decided on a retreat. From those who saw the occurrence many will have cause to remember the incident for some time to come. On having their ranks strengthened by an increased number of men, the police decided to drive back the crowd to the bottom and top of Chapel street. A scene similar to that which thous motives. Two men commenced to argue on the steps of the hall, when one, becoming suddenly excited, drew a large dagger and attempted to use it to his assailant's disadvantage. His opponent, however, evidently considered valour, and he made for a place of safety. A chase was given and something like a panic ensued, in which the possessor of the dagger was thrown down the staircase, and nothing more was heard of him. The windows of the carriage were completely shattered, but the occupants escaped uninjured. One constable astook a prominent part in the fray. It join in the "demonstration."

He defended himself against the attacks of his Catholic accusers, and made a statement justifying his action in "exposing the Roman system." A little disturbance was created in the gallery, and cries of "Throw him out" were raised by the audience, and the intruder was expelled. Although perfect order was maintained inside the hall, hooting continued with great vigor from without by those who could not afford, or were not allowed to go inside. Only one more intruder found his way outside by the order of Mr. Slattery, who commanded his man to go up into the gallery and put the offender out. The scenes outside during the whole proceedings were of the liveliest character, and over eighty constables were on duty during the evening. Superintendent Byng expressed great satisfaction at the conduct of his men.

Several minor accidents occurred during the evening, but none of a very alarming character were reported. Inspector Chapman received a slight injury to the knee, the result of a missile that had been thrown from the crowd. P. C. 199 Holt got a nasty knock near his left eye, by a flying stone. He was able, however, to remain on duty. One lady who was passing at the time, was kicked by some evil disposed person, and had to be carried into the schoolroom adjoining Eastbrook Chapel, where her injuries were attended to. Several dance. policemen were more or less injured by the excited mob, and their helmets bore marks of violence. Soon after 10 o'clock the crowd began to disperse, and nothing of further note occurred. .

Considerable annoyance was caused last night to Alderman Sheldon, who is at present confined to his bed by a bad cold, by a number of people who assembled before his house in Union street and created a disturbance there under the impression that Mr. Slattery was the alderman's guest. There is, however, not the slightest truth in the rumors that have been circulated to this effect. We are able to state that Alderman Sheldon does not

The same paper says editorially: The riot in miniature which took place outside the Temperance hall, Leeds road, last night on the occasion of the visit of an ex-Roman priest, Mr. Slattery, was quite indefensible, and I am afraid that some persons who did not appear on the scene are to blame for what happened. I regret that the Roman Catholic priesthood did not more peremptorially command their people to ignore the presence of Mr. Slattery. There is an effective way of answering ex-Priest Slattery's alleged slanders without any appeal to mob law. It is not a question to be satisfactorily settled by causing broken heads.
