"It is false! it is false! Where did you learn all this?"
"I have seen Parisian women at the Isle of France, and a Pondicherry, my lord. Moreover, I learned a good deal during our voyage; I talked with a young officer, while you conversed with the young priest."
"So, like the sultans of our harems, civilized men require of women the innocence they have themselves lost."
"By the right of the strongest—as it is among us, my lord."

delicate as theirs, but which has been so often bathed in hostile blood, they will wish to caress it; and they will kiss it again, when they think that, in our forests, with loaded rifle, and a poniard between your teeth, you smiled at the roaring of lion or panther, for whom you lay in wait."
"But I am a savage—a barbarian."
"And for that very reason you will have them at your feet. They will feel themselves both terrified and charmed by all the violence and fury, the rage of jealousy, the passion and the love, to which a man of your blood, your youth, your ardor, must be subject. Today mild and tender, tomorrow fierce and suspicious, another time ardent and passionate, such you will be—and such you ought to be, if you wish to win them. Yes; let a hiss of rage be heard between two kisses; let a dagger glitter in the midst of caresses, and they will fall before you, palpitating with pleasure, love, and fear—and you will be to them, not a man, but a god."
"Dost think so?" cried Djalma, carried away in spite of himself by the Thug's wild eloquence. "You know, you feel, that I speak the truth," cried the latter, extending his arm towards the young Indian.
