We must take part in the elections, move in a solid mass in every state against the party pledged to sustain the integrity of the public schools.—

The common schools of this country are sinks of moral pollution and nurseries of hell.—Chicago Tablet.

The time is not far away when the Roman Catholic Church of the Re-public of the United States, at the order of the Pope, will refuse to pay their school tax, and will send bullets to the breasts of the government agents rather than pay it. It will come quickly at the click of a trigger, and will be obeyed, of course, as coming from Almirhty God.—Mgr. Capel.

ICE-CREAM IN JAPAN.

Made and Served on the Street Corners White You Walt.

The little brown men of the mikado have just an awart a tooth as their white cousins arrows the sea, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. They are very fond of American cabits, when they can get it, hos our cheapest candy is an dear to them that they cannot afford to buy more than half a cent's worth from at a time. Nevertheless, they wake their own conflex and awvettes, and some of them are very pice. They have an ire-cream which is cooler and perhaps more healthful than that which we make ourselves. It requires no machinery and no cooking. It is made for you on the elect corners of Japan while you are looking. The dealer has in a box any number of chunks of ice. You give him an order and he takes out a clear, clean piece, half as large as the fist, and with a coarse fron grater rules the ice into a thick snow, which falls into a cup or goblet. He rubs up enough ice to about half fill the vessel, throws over the top of it a speenful of powdered sugar, and squeezes into it the juice of half a lemon. He hands the vessel to you, with a spoon, and you can eat it in whatever style you like. You can mix it up and it becomes like water ice, or you can pick out the tce and sugar together and consume that separately. In the place of lemon you can have, according to the season, lime, orange, pineapple, mulberry, cherry, tea and coffee. For a small cup of this simple but pleasant delicacy the charge is 2 cents, and for an eggcup full, 1 cent.

"PARSON JIM."

In the Little Dugout He Told the Boys Why He Came Out West.

From the New York World: It was the season of the year in Texas when the cattle are rounding up to be driven north for better grazing. The cowboys had just finished supper, and sat around their little dugout swapping lies. Gradually the conversation turned on the motives which prompted the different members of the group to go west. They all told of the more or less discreditable causes for their migration, with the exception of a rather taciturn but generally popular fellow who was known as "Parson Bill," because of the clerical cut of the attire which he universally affected. "Why did you come west, Parson?" queried Swamp-angel Sam.

"Well," drawled out the individual addressed. "I left the east because I didn't build a church."

Everybody smiled at what was considered the drollery of the Parson, who, not noticing the merriment which he had created, continued;

"It was this way. We used to hold meetings in the district schoolhouse in Massachusetts and I did the preaching. The little flock grew, and it was deeided to build a small church. The funds, as they were collected, were put into my hands for safekeeping." paused. "That's why I came west."

In Defense of Their Young

about a rabbit that pursued a weasel which had captured one of her young ones with such vigor as to cause the weasel to drop the youngster. The rabbit is a timid creature usually, but no more so than the partridge (ruffed grouse) found in all the eastern states. The female partridge has often put boys to hurried flight by attacking them when they have molested her Undoubtedly it is the intention of brood. When an egg hunter climbs the the Pope to possess this country. In this intention he is aided by the Jesuits and Catholic prelates and priests."

—Brownson's Catholic Review, July, sharp bills pointed ahead. Whole sharp bills pointed ahead. Whole flocks of crows fly to the protection of a nest that has been disturbed by bird or beast. Even the gun of a man will not send them far away, as under ordinary circumstances. A doe will strike a man with her sharp hoofs should be happen to surprise her and her fawn. She will battle long and ardently to save her young from a pair of engles, and the fox flees from her as from a dog.

Tom Reed's Vagabond Clothes.

One of Tom Reed's cast-off suits of clothes is wandering about the country on the person of a vagabond barber, who was in a party of tramps that broke into Reed's cottage at Grand Beach last summer. The fact leaked out in the Portland police court, where one of the tramps was arraigned on Saturday, and now the Cumberland county officials want to get a pull on that vagabond barber's whiskers. Meanwhile all persons are cautioned against bestowing hospitalities or courtesies upon any of Tom Reed's clothes unless Mr. Reed is present to youch for them.-Lewiston Journal.

A Mean Husband. Mrs. Wallace: "I do believe that a woman could wear her dresses almost to rags before her husband would notice it." Mrs. Ferry: "That is not the case with Mr. Ferry.
