A correspondent of the Shanghal North China Herald says that to the average Celestial it is a matter of in-difference how long he remains in one average Celestial it is a matter of indifference how long he remains in one position. He will write all day like an automation, he will work from morn till eve without any variation and apparently without any consciousness of monotony. The Chinese school children will undergo an amount of confinement, unrelieved by recesses or changes of work, which would drive a western pupil to the verge of insanity.
Even Chinese infants are safe to remain as passive as "mud gods." To the Chinese exercise seems to be superficus, and they can sleep anywhere. With a brick for a pillow, the "heathen Chinese"
can lie down on his bed of stalks, or mud bricks, of rattan, and sleep the sleep of the just, with no reference to the rest of creation. He does not want a darkened room, nor does he require others to be still. The "infant crying in the night" may continue to cry, for all he cares; it does not disturb him.
In the case of most working people, and also in that of many others, position in sleep is of no sort of consequence.—Science. ence.

Petroleum as a Remedy.

Among the safe and simple remedies which are good for curing local ailments is crude petroleum. I have used it for twenty years, and it never did me any harm, and mostly a good deal of good. Twenty years ago, having purchased a barrel of the oil, I directed a hired man barrel of the oil, I directed a hired man to apply it to the outsides and roofs of barn buildings. He objected that his hands were sore and he feared the oil would injure them. He concluded, however, to make the trial. He worked at it three days, at the end of which time he told me his hands were quite well. It had cured them. In applying it as an external remedy, it does not produce a quick and brilliant effect, but used several times at intervals its work is safe and certain.—Country Gentleman.

Mennest Man in the World.

The meanest man in the world is the proprietor of a store in this city. He has just posted up a notice to all the saleswomen in his establishment to the effect that they must wear buttoned shoes hereafter. When asked his reason for this order he said he lost money on the girls who were laced shoes. "I have in my store about 100 girls," said he, "and they all wear laced shoes. These shoes become untied about five times every day, and it takes two min-utes to tie them again. At that rate each girl loses 10 minutes a day, and 100 girls lose 1,000 minutes in the same time. That makes about 16 hours per day, or two days' work. I pay my girls $1.50 per day, and the loss consequently means $3 per day, or about $1,000 per year. That much money will keep my boy and girl at school very nicely, or will pay my gas bills, and I propose to save it."—Philadelphia Record.

He Put a Stop to It.

Ladies who are annoyed by the efforts of admiring acquaintances who en-deavor to imitate their dresses can take a hint from the prince of Wales, who has become disgusted with the slavish imitation of his dress affected by dudes and mashers. Last year he took effec-tual means to put a stop to this folly. He ordered from some unknown source an ugly suit of dirty blanket tweed. Ho then put on a hideous red shirt with a blue collar, a soft felt hat with a low cream colored crown and a band of orange ribbon, and thrust a silk handker-chief into his breast pocket. The cos-tume was something fearful to behold, but it effected its purpose, as he had it all to himself. It was so hideons that even the cads would not copy it.-Chiengo News.

He Got His Money Promptly

Estaula (Ala.) Times, Oct. 28.

As stated in this paper at the time, Mr. Jamie Rhodes, of Eufaula, Ala., held ticket No. 46,755, in the October drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, for which he paid one dollar. It proved to be a lucky ticket, for it drew the capital prize of $390,000 and entitled Mr. Rhodes to one twentieth of that amount, or $15,000. If the ticket had been a whole one for which Mr. Rhodes had paid $20, he would have received the whole $300,000. On inquiry, Mr. Rhodes found that he held the right number and forwarded his ticket by express, for collection of his prize. It press, for collection of his prize. It proved the germs of disease, and, from the mother than the left of the very sensitive organs, the pips, there is good reason for the medical journals to open war on the custom of "kissing the book."

It was promptly cashed in a bank at New Orleans, and the money was duly received by Mr. Rhodes in another day or two and it is now on deposit to his credit in the John McNab bank of this city. Mr. Rhodes is a most worthy young man of about twenty-one years and of moderate means and but recently entered the mercantile business here in company with his brother-in-law, Mr. Ed. T. Long. While his big luck was very gratifying, it did not daze or unnerve him, but he took it in a quiet and business like way, and he will handle the money with care and good judgment, as it gives him a good start in business life. For thirty years his father, Mr. Chauncey Rhodes, has been cashier of the John McNab bank, in Enfaula, and no man in Alabama is thought more of by his friends and those who know him. those who know him.

Kissing the Bible.

The medical journals are agitating the danger which lurk in the greas; and worn backs of the Court Bibles. The practice of "kissing the book" comes down from the days of colonial custom, but it is at no time compulsory, although the uninitiated know no better, and even some of the most intelligent people, who know that it is optional with them, seem to lose their self-possession and at the command of the court bailiff, "kiss the book" they do so.

A New Jersey physician is reported to have refused to "kise the book," but was compelled to comply with the requirements. Jersey law must be very old fashioned and rigid, or no such ruling would have followed the refusal. In the courts of several States anyone may refuse to do so, but in many of the States the Bible is not used in the courts. The witness has only to hold up his right hand and solemnly swear that he "will tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," and even then if he has any conscientious scruples against this form he may "affirm."

The practice of kissing the book is rapidly falling into disrepute every where. First, because the same book that is kissed by diseased lips is offerered to the cleanly and self-respecting, and often the witness whose stomach turns against the osculatory ordeal merely goes through the motion of putting the book towards the lips without actual contact. The man with the moustache apparently submits, but the book only touches the capillary substance and is passed on to the next witness or juror. In some instances, if the Bible is not by elastic bands, it is not uncommon for the one taking the oath to open the book and kiss some printed page. This is the Presidential custom, and lynx-eyed reporters watch closely and report that passage of Scripture which the Presidential lips have kissed. The origin of the oath upon the Bible has been traced to the old Roman law, and the kissing of the book is said to be an imitation of the priest's kissing the ritual as a sign of reverence before he reads it to the people. Bouvier's law dictionary says: "The commencement of an oath is made by the party taking hold of the book, after being required by the officer to do so, and ends generally with the words 'So help you God,' and kissing the book, when the form is that of swearing on the evangelists." The Mohammedans are sworn on the Koran and the Greeks and Romans swore by the souls of the dead. the ashes of their fathers, by their own lives or the lives of their friends by their heads and by their right hands, while among Scandinavians and Germans it was customary to rest the hand upon some object while ! repeating an oath.

When it is considered that the est classes, diseased and dirty, kiss the Biblein our lower and higher court with a resounding smack, and that by this contact disease may be dissemi the germs of disease, and, from the motley throng of dirty and diseased persons who are summoned in a court of justice, what infectious germs may not be disseminated? The person who kisses a Bible in court has not the least surety that his lips do not come into direct contact with the pollution left by a predecessor who was suffering from some foul skin disease or taint, not to speak of the germs of eruptive fevers and the like."

Keeping a Good Conscience.

The moonlight drifted brokenly through a rift in the roof of a negro cabin in the Hanover slashes, and fell on Gabriel Jones' grey-bearded face. He was smoking and mediating. "Hannah!" he called, presently; "Hannah!" Silence. "Hannah I say, Hannah!" a trifle louder. There was a rustling of straw in the bed in the corner, and a sleepy answer: "Huh?" "Hannah, did yon put dat watermillion I foun' in Marse Ben watermillion I foun' in Marse Ben Scott's, patch yistidy in de cool spring?" "Yes, I put dot watermillon in de cool spring," she answered, deliberatley, "Dat was right." A moment's pause. "Hannah' did you hang dat coat dat Mister Hedley sisted on my takin," 'hind de hay-rack, like I tole you?" I did dat." "Did you scall and pick dem chickens I borrowed form de man down on de river. ed fom de man down on de river de udr day?" "Yes, I scall dem chickens." Well, fry me one de fust t'ing in de mornin', case l'se got t'go over t' Mister Chinky Claptin's t'-orrowm t' lead a prar-meetin' an' keep dem triffin' niggers in de right road."
