At the Bottom of the Ocean.

Cohassett (Mass.) dispatch: It is the opinion of Captain M. H. Reamer, keeper of Minot's light, that the Philadelphia collier, Allentown, is at the bottom of the ocean, and lies about one mile northeast of the light house, directly in the track of navigation, and that she struck on Jasen's ledge. The sea had subsided this morning, and Captain Reamer, whose turn it was to take a two weeks furlough, came ashore and was relieved by his assistant. Mr. Reamer knew nothing of the Allentown's loss until he reached home, but he gave the following information, which settles any uncertainty that may have existed in regard to her fate:

At about 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning an immense amount of wreckage ledge. The sea had subsided this morn-

At about 8:20 o'clock Tuesday morning an immense amount of wreckage was seen passing the light house. It seemed to come from the exact direction of Jasen's ledge, and all of it seemed to come from no greater distance than the location of that ledge. This wreckage consisted of life preservers, boxes casks, cabin steps, the panel work of a steamer's cabin, and a steamer's topmast, which was painted black from its peak about six feet towards its foot. This wreckage continued to float along during the greater part of the morning, since which time none has been seen. No bodies were seen, and

HARRISON WANTS SPEEDY TARIFF REFORM Such is the News That Comes From Indian-

Indianapolia special: The Indianapo lis pilgrims whose opinions are of value, ail say that while the president elect has "inclinations," he has not decided anything definitely regarding his cabinet or his policy, and will not do so until he has heard from all the leading republicans and has had time to reflect upon the information and advice they give him. He keeps tab in a note book of suggestions that are made, not all of course, but those that come from men whose opinions are of value, and points that strike him as important. He is in the attitude of attention and questions all his visitors on topics that are in his mind. One of the points upon which he always asks the views of his visitors is the propriety of calling an extra session of congress. He makes no secret of his own opinion, that there should be a revision of the tariff as soon as possi-ble, and does not expect that the two parties will agree upon a bill at the approaching session. Whether it is best to wait for the new congress to assemble at the constitutional time in December, 1889, or call it to-gether at once after the inauguration, is to him the most important ques-tion to decide. If an extra session is tion to decide. If an extra session is called in March the organization of the house can be perfected, and the committee on contested seats and the committee on ways and means can be appointed and spend the summer investigating the claims of contestants and in preparing a tariff bill. So that the house when it meets again in Decem-ber, will be ready to go to work at once. But if there is no extra session it will be March or April, 1890, before either of these committees will be ready to report, several months later before any tariff legislation can be effected. In the opinion of most of these whose zdvice General Harrison has asked, the busi-ness interests of the country require that the tariff question should be settled as soon as possible, and he is reported to agree with them. Another important point disclosed by visitors to Indianapolis, is that General Harrison will not take part, directly or indirectly, with any party quarrel. If the republicans of New York, for instance, want a place in the cabinet, they must not get into a squabble over it, for if they do the president elect will decline to show a preference for either faction, but will leave that state out of his calculations altogether. This he has made very clear to several gentlemen who have called upon him. Thanksgiving day was strictly observed as a holiday at Harrison's residence. Private Secretary Halford was at his desk in the general's library for a couple of hours during the morning, assorting and reading the morning mail, but beyond this all work and politice were for the day e-chewed. Hon. R. C. Kerins, of St. Louis, was the only guest, other than Mrs. Brown, that partook of the Thanksgiving dinner with General Harrison and his family. They sat down to dinner at half-past two, and discussed a big fat turkey presented to the general yesterday by one of his old comrades, Captain Anderson, of Com-pany E. Seventieth Indiana regiment. The dinner was much like their usual Sunday mid-day meal, cooked and served in the good old-fashioned style handed down to Mrs. Harrison by her Pennsylvania ancestors. During the afternoon a few out-of town callers dropped in to see the gen-eral, among them Senator William M. Stewart, of Nevada, who is on his way to Washington, and General James R. Chalmers, of Mississippi, who is also en route to Washington. General Chal-mers has employed Hon. W. H. Calk-ins to conduct the election contest he proposes to make before congress seat from the shoestring district of Mis-sissippi. General Chalmers stated that if the south was to be represented in the new cabinet his personal preference was General Mahone, whom he declared had done more for the party in the south than any other man. He proposes to mve a talk with the president elect tomorrow on southern matters.

Buffalo (N. Y.) dispatch: Wilson Bissell, former law partner of President Cleveland, returned yesterday from Washington. When asked about Mr. Cleveland's future plans Mr. Bissell said he was heartily sick of the way newspaper men at Washington were making arrangements for the president's movements after March 4th.

"The president has given no thought to his future," said Mr. Bissell, "beyond a sense of feeing that he ought to have a rest when his term of office expires. He has given no thought to the nature of the rest, and guesses are equally wild as to whether it will be a trip to Europe or a summer in the Adirondacks."
"Will Mr. Cleveland return to Buffalo

"I am quite sure he will not. His occupancy of the presidential office has opened to him a wider field of usefulness than he could have in Buffalo. But don't quote me; I do not want to be in-terviewed, and all I really know is that Mr. Cleveland is very busy on his message to congress

What will it be about."

"Don't ask me. I don't know."

In another interview Mr. Bissell said that there was no truth in the report that the old law firm of Cleveland & Bissell would be re-established. The opin-ion prevails here that Mr. Cleveland will make his home in New York Four Territories and the Oklahoma Bill.

Washington dispatch: Mr. William M. Springer, of Illinois, was on Pennsylvania avenue yesterday afternoon. "We are going to try very hard to pass a bill admitting to the union the territories of Washington, Montana, Dakota and New Mexico," said he, "and we shall certainly pass the Oklahoms bill at once. The rext house will undoubtedly be republican by a small majority, and I suppose the rejublicans of both the house and the senate would have no objections to strenghening that majority. The territories could be states in time to elect senators and representatives to the Fifty-first congress. Montana, Washington and Dakota are republican. The senate may insist on the division of Dakota and such action would probably block matters for awhile. I am in favor of say reasonable compromise. I am, and Washington, Montana, Dakota and New

A DYNAMITER IN THE COURTS.

John Bronck, Charged With Con

Undergoing Sriet. Chicago dispatch: The trial of John Hronek, charged with conspiracy to blow up the homes of Judges Cary and Grinnell and Police Inspector Bonfield with dynamite, was resumed this morning, the jury having been secured yesterday. The state's attorney, Longnecker, opened the proceedings with a prefatory statement of the case for the

After Attorney Goldzier, for the prisoner, had outlined his defense, which was the dynamite found in his possession was given him by a man named Karafiat, Hronek not knowing its nature, the taking of testimony was begun.

The first witness was Frank Chleboun. one of the conspirators, who has turned state's evidence. He is unable to speak English, and his testimony is taken through an interpreter. The witness testified as to the circumstances under which he first met the prisoners. It was at "Anarchist Turk's" house, afterwards he met Copec, and he became intimate with both of them. He was a frequent visitor at Hronek's house. The last Sun-day in May Hronek told the witness how he had a great scheme to burn up a lumber yard, but it had been discovered. He had also missed a chance to kill Bonfield, and was afraid he would never have another. He testified at length concerning their experiments with dynamite, and then said that on several occasions Hronek had said that he must have revenge for the death of the anarchists. He showed pictures of Grinnell, Gary and Bonfield. A Ger-man named Schneider told where Grinnell lived and showed a plat of Aldine square, and on July 4 Hronek, Capec and the witness went in search of house. They finally found the house and took a good look at it. On the way home Hronek said President Cleveland had a narrow escape when on his visit here. At that time he (Hronek) had a bomb ready to throw at the presidential carriage, but was dissuaded by Schneider and Nickolunda. Hronek's plans were to kill Bonfield first, but on talking it over with Capec he decided to put an end to Judge Grinnell first. He mid that if no better opportunity offered he would go into the court room and throw a homb at the judge. Then if throw a bomb at the judge. the police tried to capture him he would use a bomb on them, and if this failed he had a revolver and would shoot the officers and then himself. If he got a chance at Grinnell or Gary on the street

he would use a knife.
The witness said Hronek's wife did not have enough to eat, and wanted her husband to abandon his murderous plan and go to work, but that Hronek said he had a mission to perform, and would perform it if she starved and he was hung. After further unimportant testi-mony was given by Chleboun the court took a recess till 8 o'clock to night.

Chieboun admitted reluctantly that he was an anarchist and had drilled with the Lehr and wehr verein in the old days before the Haymarket episode. He also said he had gone to Copak's house to receive instructions in the art of making dynamite. He paid $2 for the lesson but didn't learn anything. He said Hronek had told him on the trip to Riverside that he was the man who threw the bomb at the Haymarket. At Chleboun did not believe this, but when he saw the bombs in Hronek's posses sion he thought that it was the truth, and a few weeks later he told Attorney Fischer about it. He had told no one else prior to this.

At this point a recess was taken At the evening session Chlebonn was material importance was brought out J. T. Aarrow, an employe of the Aetna powder company, testified to having sold one of the defendants, Sevic, twenty-five pounds of dynamite in July, 1887, and May, 1888.
