She put the pie upon ring and they report favorably on a bill to give the kitchen table to harden, and thinking no more about it attended to the duties of the day. That night Gottleib Denk, a ferocious burglar and ex-tramp, entered the Greenwood homestend on business connected with his profession. He was armed with a revolver and carried a large bowie-knife. As he chanced to glance around the kitchen (he had come in the back door, not wishing to disturb the sleeping family), his eye encountered the mince piz. Stealthily he crept toward it and ate it in three huge

Anna Dickenson's Eloquence. It is a pathetic commentary ongreatment when one remembers the flecting glory of Anna Dickenson. She is almost forgot en now, and lives only in the memory of those now, and lives only in the memory of those who can recall her magnetic eloquence of twanty years ago. The close of one of her lectures was magnificently picturesque and fall of noble thought; she described a sun-rise on Gray's. Peak — a prose poem which must ever stampher as a woman of genius, and, although this splendid intellect is well-nigh forgot, and her books and speeches are unremembered, there still remains the eter-nal meisty of lofty, peaks and sheltered

Pavements of American Pine

It appears that wood pavements have met with greater success in some of the countries of Europe than in our own, the reason assigned for this being the fact of their having a foundation of concrete to rest upon in the former, at the crete to rest upon in the former, at the same time receiving more attention there in the way of maintenance than here. Owing to its hardness and resin-ons quatity. American yellow pine, it is stated, has become the favorite wood for this purpose in Hamburg and Berlin; and official report says that Frederick's Bridge, Berlin, which was paved in the spring of 1879 with the wood in question, is still in good condition, while the ap-proaches, paved with granite blocks, have twice since required repaying. have twice since required repaying. The Opera platz, also, in front of the Emperor's palace, was paved seven years ago, partly with yellow pine and cypress, at a point where the traffic is greatest, while at other points stone blocks were used, the laying of the different surfaces with these several materials being at the same time. Accord-ing to the report, the area covered with the wood pavement is at present the one that is best preserved.

The Downs.

C. Hills, in the Breeders' Gazette, says: "My judgment as to the special qualities of the several breeds of mutton sheep has been given very frankly, without any purpose of detracting from the merits of any to which they are justly entitled or exaggerating as to those for which I am most partial. As stated before, in this extensive country of ours, with its varied soil and climate, it is safe to say that all of the Down breeds can be introduced into some parts and bred with profit to the breeder and great advantage to the country. In all our large cities there has for years past been a good demand, at liberal prices for first-class mutton. This demand is now extending to the smaller places and gradually our people are learning to appre-ciate and make use of it more and more, and it is reasonable to assume that in the near future we shall become like our British ancestors, a nation of mutton eaters.
