

Rites. ... The splendor of the "American Alps" ... beginning to be appreciated by our people ...

An Intelligent Shark. Several well-known sea yachts have been told by old shellbacks regarding what they had seen at sea. Chief Officer James Brown of the Pacific Mail company's steamer Acapulco to a San Francisco Chronicle man, "but there is one thing certain, and that is I have reason to believe that fish not only have instinct but also reasoning power."

A Surprised Burglar. You can't tell what a woman will do in the case of a burglar. The speaker was an ex-police captain, and his eyes twinkled as he thought of the many stories told him by the victims of burglars and by the burglars themselves, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. "A burglar," he continued, "is lost when he gets rattled, and a woman in the case of a burglar raid is apt to do the unexpected thing, and in this way disconcert even the coolest professional. To the unprofessional who desires above all things to conceal his identity the impulsive woman is a holy terror."

The Desert of Sahara. The Sahara as a whole is not below sea level; it is not the dry bed of a recent ocean, and it is not as flat as the proverbial pancake all over. Part of it, indeed, is very mountainous, and all of it is more or less varied in level. The Upper Sahara consists of a rocky plateau, rising at times into considerable peaks; the lower, to which it descends by a steep slope, is "a vast depression of clay and sand," but still for the most part standing high above sea level. No portion of the Upper Sahara is less than 1,300 feet high—a good deal higher than Dartmouth or Derbyshire. Most of the lower reaches from 300 to 500 feet—quite as elevated as Essex or Leicester. The two spots below sea level consist of the beds of ancient lakes, now much shrunk by evaporation, owing to the present rainless condition of the country; the soil around these is deep in gypsum, and the water itself is considerably saltier than the sea.

"Our Girls." Kitty is witty, Nettie is pretty, Lottie is cute and small; Irene is a queen, Annette is a pet, Nell is the belle of the ball; Diantha is wealthy, Bertha is healthy, and health is the best of all. Perfect health keeps her rosy and radiant, beautiful and blooming, sensible and sweet. It is secured by wholesome habits and the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Bertha takes it, and she also "takes the cake." The only guaranteed cure for those distressing ailments peculiar to women. Satisfaction or your money returned.
