It is recommended that no proxies be admitted, but that these delegates present from any precinct be empowered to cast the vote of the full delegation.

L. J. SIMMONS, Chairman.
S. H. JONES, Secretary.

Every man who is nominated for member of the legislature should be pledged to work and vote for the Australian ballot system.

Dixon county republicans instructed the delegates to the state convention for Richards, and to the congressional convention for Judge Norris.

In the contest for the delegation to the state convention in Douglas county Manderson is defeated. This insures that the Boreaker people are on top this year.

From the reports from various places where primaries and conventions have been held it looks as if the farmers of Nebraska had decided to show their power and their purpose at the polls next fall.

It is recommended to the 32d representative district republican convention to which this is sent "small is" this year. The weight of such suggestions is not always apparent.

Should the state convention refuse to indorse the Australian ballot system, the republican party will be in a bad way. The people demand it, and will not support any party that refuses to give it to them.

A correspondent to the Bee from Fremont says Dorsey stands no show in his own county against Richards, and claims that the people of Fremont have honored him much more than he merits. He further states that Mr. Dorsey, like the prophet of old, "has very little honor in his own country."

Gen. John C. Fremont died on last Sunday. He had been in delicate health for some time and his age made recovery out of the question. His career was one of the most noted of any of the old commanders and his death will be sincerely mourned all over the nation.

The fusion-ring organ apparently cannot represent anything correctly. THE JOURNAL did not say it was a question whether the commissioners would issue warrants for this year's expenses or for the old indebtedness. The commissioners have ordered warrants drawn for the bills of 1889, so there is no question about that point.

The crop reports from a great deal of territory are not at all flattering. Kansas has had her crop cut short and in some localities it is a total failure. In portions of Nebraska, lack of rain has injured the crops to quite an extent. The corn market is on the rise and it is reported that grain dealers have been instructed to purchase all the corn they can. Flax is reported as almost a failure in certain places.

Never go where you are not invited, is the text of an item now going the rounds. If a merchant doesn't want you to go to his store he will not invite you through the press. If he doesn't invite you, let him alone. Don't disturb him. Let hens make nests in his money drawer, let flies punctuate the entries in his old back-number ledger, and spiders hold orgies among the straws in his hair.—Ex.

The action of Gov. Nicholls, of Louisiana, in vetoing the lottery bill as passed by the legislature has given him a reputation for honor and manliness excelled by no man in the nation. It is to be hoped that some means will be devised to put a stop to the great lottery business. From the action on that matter, the legislature of Louisana looks very much like a body of boodlers.

The president signed the bill making Wyoming one of the great sisterhood of states and on and after July, 4, 1891, the flag will contain forty-four stars. It is hardly likely that any more states will be created for a number of years to come. Wyoming is the first state to be admitted with a clause in the constitution giving to women the right of suffrage. The west is certainly the progressive part of the union.

The republicans of Brown county elected delegates to the congressional convention who will instruct Judge Kinkaid being a candidate. Holt county elects anti-Dorsey delegates to the congressional convention and Richards delegates to the state convention. From what can be learned Dawes county elected alliance delegates to represent them in the various republican conventions.

France has placed a tariff on American cows imported into that country. It is all right to revise tariff where practicable, but care should be taken not to go too far in that direction. If other countries are going to impose an export duty as soon as the United States removes the import duty all the difference will be that the amount paid as duty will go to foreign countries instead of remaining in the United States.

According to the ring-fusion organ the supreme court was to have handed down its decision in the Mull-Walker case several weeks ago, but as usual the Herald made the statement without any foundation for it. The supreme court adjourned a few days ago for the summer vacation and will not be in session until about the middle of September, and no decision in the county attorney case was reached before the adjournment was taken. The object of that is that Mr. Hall may file grounds for amending the petition in his damage suit, the time given by the court in which to amend having expired the case is out of court, and Mr. Walker still fills the office of county attorney.

Reports from the southern and eastern portions of this state, from Kansas, Missouri, Indiana and other places are all to effect that the weather is extremely hot and a great deal of damage done to crops by continued dry weather. In some localities horses and cattle, as well as human beings have been overcome by the heat. Many persons report the water supply as entire failure for want of rain. The west is not the only locality where the dry weather has played sad havoc with the plans of the farmer. Of course the continued other localities are in bad luck does not lighten the burdens of the western in the west, but it certainly does indicate that they would have fared far better had they been [illegible]

THE NEBRASKA WORLD'S FAIR.

Nebraska State Fair and Exposition, Lincoln, September 5 to 12, 1890

The time is drawing near, when the Nebraska state board of agriculture will hold its twenty-fourth annual exposition under the new contract term for five years, commencing this year—1890. As held on the same large and commodious grounds adjoining the city of Lincoln, as occupied the past five years. While there already exists extensive and superior accommodations, second to no other in the country, more and better are being provided for the coming fair. A visit to the grounds finds a force of workmen engaged erecting a large entire new and systematically arranged art hall; additions to agricultural hall, increasing its space near double what it has been heretofore; a new and enlarged poultry house; the state fish exhibit house enlarged and rearranged; the water mains enlarged to furnish an increased supply of pure water from the city water works; the capacity of the amphitheatre will be enlarged, together with many other preparations to accommodate, among which will be seats about the grounds where the weary may rest, shaded seats about the show rings and the like, for the convenience of guests.

Every effort on the part of the management to bring out the products and show the resources of the state is being made. Especially in behalf of agricultural products. This year, for county collective exhibits, the premiums are:

For first best collection	$250.00
For second best collection	200.00
For third best collection	150.00
For fourth best collection	125.00
For fifth best collection	100.00
For sixth best collection	75.00
For seventh best collection	50.00

The management intent on both instruction and amusement has contracted for, as an attraction, the Coup esquescurriculum of sixteen wonderful horses, the best educated in the world—their equals do not exist. Also Professor Freyer's educated dogs. These wonderful animals perform military drill with equal precission as old soldiers, and actually perform theatrical plays, presenting marvellous and highly educational exhibitions. They will astonish, please, amaze and amuse, not only the young, but the old as well. A practical illustration of the power of eduction, showing to what extent even the dumb animals of creation can be educated.

From an interview with the secretary, we learn that negotiations are pending, with promise, of putting a "fast stepper" on the race track, that will clean two minutes closer than ever known on the Nebraska state fair, or any other track in the world.

No pains will be spared this year to make the coming fair and exhibition superior in all respects to any of its predecessors. A general public interest is being manifested of most encouraging character. Live stock stables, stalls and pens are being called for more than usual. Speed purses are filling up nicely. The two large purses, one thousand dollars each guarantee, are already filled to overflow. Space, too, in all the halls is largely engaged even at this date. The secretary says: "All looks big! If the clerk of the weather smiles on us as usual, the fair of 1890 will eclipse all others in the history of the state."

For information, write the secretary Robt. W. Furnas, Brownville. "His business" is to "diffuse light and information" in fair matters.

A carpenter, by the name of M. S. Powers, fell from the roof of a house in East Des Moines, Iowa, and sustained a painful and serious sprain of the wrist which he cured with one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. He says it is worth $5 a bottle. It cost him 50 cents. For sale by C. H. Andrews.
