THURSDAY, MARCH 26, 1891.

The two-cent passenger bill failed to pass. There is much more need of a reduction in freight rates. People, as a rule, not dodge paying freight.

Will Davis has purchased the interest possessors. of his partner, C. F. Slingerland, in the Herald, and will conduct the paper alone in future. The retiring member of the late firm has moved down in Bodarc precinct where he will hold down a claim.

Some kicking is being done because an emergency clause was attached to the bill for the new election law, as that makes it the law at the coming municiless it be ward rounders whose occupation is now gone.

Reports state that a large number of Mormons will move into Wyoming as soon as spring opens. They will locate in Sweetwater county and enough are expected to go to enable them to dictate the political policy. Evidently the followers of Brigham Young are not yet willing to throw up the fight.

The Chadron Democrat, with its change of ownership and change of politics, has also changed its name and now comes out as the Chadron Citizen, with W. L. Bailey as editor, and is published by Bailey & Hill. The first issue contains a statement over the signatures of the firm, denying that the paper is to be run In the interest of a faction of the republican party. We shall see what we

The treatment of imported foreign laborers on milroad grades in West Virginia and the recent trouble with Italians in New Orleans is calling out a good deal of discussion of the emigration laws and their enforcement. The laws as they are at present administered do not appear to check the flow of poverty-stricken, ignocheck the flow of poverty-stricken, ignorant and vicious foreigners into the United States, and it is high time that effective measures for putting a stop to the evil were enacted and enforced. It is understood that President Harrison contemplates a trip through the south and west in the near future and the slate-makers claim that that fact is a certain signal that the president is seeking a re-nomination. It seems to be the idea of a good many people that the main thing a man has to do when he is elected to an office is to work for a reelection, and with that object in view his every official act is to avoid that which would be offensive to his follow- BULLIVAN & CONLEY, Lawyers. ers and do that which will make him popular. The best thing an official can do to commend himself to the people is to perform the duties of his office in a legal and business-like manner, without fear or favor. As soon as an official stoops to cater to any element he begins to lose ground, for the very men in whose interest he would prostitute his office would turn against him, wellknowing that he could not be depended on and would as soon go against them, should be think be could add to his strength by so doing.
