—More snow continues to come right along in good shape. Look out for a big crop next year. Sioux county is forging to the front.

It is pleasing to note that the price paid to the farmers of this locality for grain here is as high and in some instances higher than it is in the eastern portion of the state, and again it is a fact that the cost of living is no more here than it is further east. Under such circumstances our people ought to prosper for such is not the usual condition in a new country.

From the inquiries being received in regard to land and the reports of people intending to come here to locate it looks as if the population of Sioux county would be nearly doubled within the next twelve months. If an arrangement could be made to send some one east to talk up this county a great deal of good could be done. There are thousands paying high cash rent in the east who would be glad to come here and get some of the free government land if they only knew of it. People less than one hundred miles from here think that all the government land is taken and some means ought to be devised to correct that impression.

All Around About.

The U. S. mail was carried by James Clark last Saturday.
Jacob Henry and daughter, Miss Katie, made a trip to the hub last Saturday.
High water relieved A. W. Mohr of his bridge across Warbonnet recently.
Jas. Clark closed a successful three months term of school at Montrose last Friday.
Some of the buildings are being removed from old Gilchrist to the new town site.
Mr. Chistensen took a load of corn to town Saturday, returning Sunday in the snow storm.
By the way corn is being hauled to town, somebody raised more than enough to feed.
James McCann received the sad intelligence of the death of a brother in Ireland last week. He still has an aged mother and two sisters in that country.
Geo. Lunsford went to Indian creek after corn for J. W. Earnest, last Saturday, struck the snow blockade and had to lay over for fair weather.
Mrs. D. W. Woody and Mrs. J. E. Hollingsworth visited at Gilchrist P. O. last Wednesday.
W. R. Smith was in the neighborhood of Gilchrist last Saturday.
We feel quite encouraged to plant another bountiful supply of garden seeds early, if the weather admit, for the beautiful snow is preparing the ground in good condition, and we hope for a bountiful harvest.
We should have mentioned last week that C. F. Coffee and D. W. Woody have their ice houses filled with the finest quality of ice they ever handled.

Grammery Items.

More snow, more rest, but don't rest too much; see that your stock is attended to first.
Nebraska has been on sled runners the two weeks past.
Mr. Cobb is going to erect a new house on his claim in the near future.
There appears to be a set of "don't care" people going through the country, tearing down gates and cutting people's wire fences. There ought to be a stop put to such carrying on. It may be someone that wants to get board and lodging free.
Mr. Will Shepard is prepared for all kinds of weather with the exception of his face. He forgot what season of the year this was and happened to look up and see the sun shining so bright and clear that he ran and got his razor and shaved, and lo and behold, the same calamity comes again.
Boys, if you have any interest in your future come to Sioux county. This is the country to get your start in. Come and get some of Uncle Sam's land. Just lots of land laying out of doors.
Mr. John Daut was on the bachelor roll last week. He says he wouldn't batch for anything in the United States or Canada.

That Mandamus.

The case of W. W. Seymour against the board of county commissioners in the supreme court for a mandamus to compel the county board to include in their estimate and levy a sum sufficient to pay the allowed claims held by the plaintiff against the latter resulted in the mandamus being issued. The showing was made by the county attorney that some of said claims had been settled by the county board by their order to cancel in order to make good the shortage of officials as found by the expert accountant, but a majority of the judges ignored such showing. Justices Maxwell and Post holding that the mandamus should issue and Justice Norval dissenting. It would seem by this ruling of the court that a dangerous precedent had been established for it virtually holds that not only warrants but claims allowed in excess of the levy and in excess of the statutes are negotiable paper and that the county has no defence, but must pay just what the commissioners allowed.

In view of this fact it is the duty of every tax payer to carefully read the proceedings of the board of commissioners and should any bill be allowed which they know is unjust or exorbitant an appeal should be taken as provided by the statute. Any person has the right to take such appeal within ten days after any bill has been allowed and that is the only remedy which the tax payers have under the ruling of the supreme court.

In view of the decision of the Boyd case there is an excellent opportunity for the present congress to immortalize itself by the passage of laws governing the naturalization of foreigners which will be so strong that there will be no way to avoid compliance therewith, and so clear that there will be no possible chance for a repetition of such a case. When citizenship can be acquired as easily as it is possible under our present laws it seems that the provisions ought to be complied with in every particular. If it were not so easy to become a citizen it is more than likely that more care would be used.

It is expected that Gov. Boyd's meat ax will rapidly remove the official heads of the appointive officers of the state. Of course Oil Inspector Carns will be one of the first to go so that Rosewater's cousin, Louis, may be re-instated.
