PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 21.—A cave-in occurred this morning at the Hazel Dell colliery at Centralia, operated by L. A. Hilley & Co., whereby seven or eight men are now imprisoned in the mine, besides two others who have been taken out badly injured.

Everything was moving along as usual in the Hazel Dell works this morning and no sign of danger were visible until 10 o'clock, when a cracking in the roof of the mine was heard and the few pillars remaining in that part of the mine started to run, and before the miners could reach places of safety the roof fell in.

CAME LIKE A FLASH.

Those who escaped say that the suddenness of the cave-in gave them no time to do anything but fly for their lives. Very narrow escapes were made by Ira Rothermel and his son William. The former had a leg broken and is otherwise injured, while his son is badly battered.

BUT ONE EXIT.

The only exit from the part of the workings in which occurred the cave-in was the point where the fall occurred, and as the mammoth vein is forty-five feet thick and about 300 feet from the surface, it was calculated by practical miners that there were 700 feet of coal to be cut through before the men could be reached.
