Coal miners of the Santa Fe Company in Colorado found a petrified snake twenty feet long a few days ago. Wonder what kind of liquor the fellow had been drinking who reported the find?

It is reported that many are starving and freezing to death among the poor of Berlin. The temperature is 22 degrees below zero and it is stated that the famine prevailing there is as bad as it is in Russia.

Because everyone is not satisfied with a locality does not condemn it. There are some people who, if they are so fortunate as to slip by St. Peter into the new Jerusalem, will kick on the quality of gold with which the streets are paved.

The result of the attempt to bring the Wyoming raiders to justice is that the attorney for the people of Johnson county has filed a motion to dismiss the cases and the matter is at an end except that it has cost about $300,000. The whole affair is to be regretted.

The legislature of South Dakota will pass a bill to again submit the license question to the voters of the state. Ever since the prohibitory law was passed it has been a dead letter. Saloons run open in every town and hamlet in the western part of the state and people have tired of the farce.

It would be well for the state press association at its meeting next month to inquire as to the sanity of Ed. A. Fry, of Niobrara. He has recently taken to printing his Pioneer on yellow paper and so sane man who has been in the business so long as he has would do such a thing.

The senatorial situation at Lincoln is about the same. Thurston is out of the race and it is likely that others will begin to drop out soon, and then the real tug of war will come. Outside of the senatorial fight the legislature is doing very little except that the members and employees are drawing their salaries.

The fear that the state treasurer would derive a little benefit from the funds in his hands actuated the independent legislature of 1891 to pass a law, the workings of which cost the state a quarter of a million of dollars by the failure of the Capital National Bank at Lincoln. That is a case of saving at the spigot and wasting at the bung-hole.

Justice L. Q. C. Lamar, of the supreme court of the United States, died suddenly at Macon, Ga., last Monday evening. He had been improving in health to all outside appearances and his sudden death was a shock to all. He was a colonel in the confederate army and was appointed to the supreme bench by President Cleveland.

On last Monday the Capital National Bank, of Lincoln failed for more than half a million of dollars. It is reported that there was about $250,000 of state money in the bank. The bond was approved according to law, but those on the bond went down with the bank and now the question is whether the state treasurer and his bondsmen are held for the amount.

It is a little peculiar, but it is a fact that Llewellyn, the new populist governor of Kansas has made all his money in the loan business at Wichita, which leads to the conclusion that he is a very smooth individual. The man who can howl himself into the executive chair denouncing the money power and the sharks while he fattens by usury of the people must be regarded as a very successful thimble-rigger.—Fremont Tribune.

The present winter in the east is the most severe that has been experienced for years. In Ohio it is said that in future the winter of 1892-3 will be referred to as the cold winter, and even in the eastern part of Nebraska the weather has been much more severe than it has in northeastern Nebraska. People are beginning to find out that the climate of this locality is much sicker than is generally supposed and it is paying an added attention to those seeking homes.

The failure of the Capital National Bank, of Lincoln will be pretty apt to bring the legislators to their senses enough so that they will repeal the law passed two years ago for regulating the depositing of state and county funds. Under the old law the treasurer and his bondsmen were held for the funds in the government but under the new law he is released from such responsibility, and the state or county is frequently the loser. A bill to repeal the new law, with an emergency clause attached should be given it as promptly as possible.

The Kansas Situation.

The situation in the Kansas legislature is this: The senate has a populist majority. The governor was elected as a fusionist by populists and democrats. The house was organized by the republicans, who elected Douglass Speaker, he receiving 57 votes. A majority of the house is 63 votes. The populists refused to allow the majority to rule; they went through the motions of electing one Dunsmore speaker, with 58 votes—less than a majority of the house and nine votes less than the total republican vote. These two organizations—the legal one and the pretended populist one—have been occupying the representative chamber jointly. Governor Lewelling has recognized the minority populist organization, and so has the populist senate. When the action of this latter body was reported to the house, the populists cheered wildly. The rightfully elected speaker, Douglass, thereupon made a brief speech that compels the admiration of everyone for its directness and force, not to speak of its being founded on the rock of eternal truth:

Gentlemen of the House—Allow yourselves no uneasiness. The Almighty has wisely reserved the power of creation to Himself alone. All the powers on earth, senators and governors included, cannot make 63 men out of 58 men, and in every free representative body in the world the majority governs. The principle of self-government is on trial in Kansas today as it once was years ago. But it triumphed then, and it will triumph now. The friends of the constitution and the laws will soon stand as one man in Kansas, regardless of party. The constitutional members, is here and ready for business, and here it will remain untrifled and unswayed. What is the further pleasure of the house?

The facts of the case could not be better stated. The republicans have an honest, legal, and legally elected majority in the house. The populist minority make no pretense that there is any defect or flaw in the title of any one of the 67 members who voted for Douglass as speaker. The recognition of a minority as the legal house, by the governor and the senate, does not give the minority any shadow of right in its claim. Even Dunsmore, the fraud speaker of the populists, in the reply he felt constrained to make to Douglass, did not dare claim any shadow of authority for the usurpation. He simply said: "We have been recognized as the legally organized house, and no power on earth save the sword can dissolve us."

As this is written, on Tuesday morning, there is no change in the situation. The republicans of the house, firm in the knowledge of the right and impregnable legality of their action, stand firm, while the populist revolutionist rage and chafe that they are not allowed to override the law and the constitution, and make a minority govern a majority.

Their position is revolutionary. It is a blow at the fundamental tenet of our form of government—that a majority shall rule. The election of the representatives was in accordance with law, and there is no shadow of an excuse for this bold attempt at despotic tyranny.

We hope to see the same loyalty to right and justice, which made Kansas the banner state for freedom when the issue was, "shall slavery be extended into the territories?" away back in the '50's, again blaze forth among her people directed against this usurpation of power by the populists. Let Kansas freemen arise in their might, and compel these revolutionists to obey the law and the constitution.

Ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes died at his home at Fremont, Ohio, last week, after an illness of three days. He had a great many personal friends, but since he retired from the presidency he has taken little part in politics.

A man was frozen to death on his way to church on January 15th in the southeastern part of the state. Had that man been in Sioux county on that day he would still have been alive as the climate here is much milder.

How pleasant it is to sit out on the front porch these days and bask in the warm Italian-Nebraska sunshine, and read in the daily papers that in the effete and blizzard-stricken east they are experiencing the heaviest snow storms and coldest weather on record.—Crawford Tribune.

The World-Herald stated a few days ago that Edward Rosewater made overtures to the independents offering to flop from the republican ranks and become the independent senator from Nebraska. Some such thing might be expected, but the report would have to come from some other source than the World-Herald to be given much credence.

The supreme court in the Boyd county case has decided that, as there had been no act making it a part of any other district, it belonged to the same district for legislative purposes as it did before its organization. It also alludes to the fact that a canvassing board cannot go behind the returns and inquire as to the legality of the votes. The high-handed action of the populists in disfranchising the voters of Boyd county in the legislature without a shadow of law is a disgrace to the leaders of that party and will open the eyes of many who were honest at their work with that party, to the fact that the leaders are the most unprincipled, unscrupulous set of rascals that ever rode to the front on the cry of reform.

A newspaper man has no business to seek office. It is his business to try and get an office for the other fellow; to sound the praises of the candidate and keep quiet his own feelings; to whoop'er up for his man and let his man forget all about him when he is elected; to defend his candidate against the unjust attacks of the opposition, and see that whatever favors his candidate has to bestow goes to the other fellow. It is his business to boom the city for all that it is worth, month after month, and then see $100 worth of printing go out of the city because ten cents can be saved by doing so. The newspaper is to give every enterprise a frequent "send-off" and then catch hell because he failed to record the fact that some prominent citizen had his delivery wagon painted; to subscribe liberally to every public enterprise, advertise them for nothing, pay his own way to everything, and then be called prejudiced and mean-spirited because a column is not devoted to that particular affair. Do you wonder that there are so many cranks in the newspaper business? It is bound to make either a crank or a philosopher out of a man.—Crawford Tribune.

A terrible railroad accident occurred at Alton Junction, Ill., last Saturday. A passenger train ran through an open switch and into a freight train, killing the engineer instantly. A great crowd gathered almost instantly as the wreck caught fire, when an oil tank on a car exploded with terrible force. Nearly a score were killed outright and about a hundred were terribly burned.
