It seems to be the intention of the railroad companies to allow the new rate law to go into effect without raising the question of its legality. It is expected that its enforcement will make it very unpopular and then, after a fair trial, the matter can be taken into the court later.

The reports from the worlds fair are that Nebraska day was a great day and that all passed off with credit to the state and to those who have had charge of the work of getting up and arranging the exhibit. Nebraska has demonstrated her ability to get to the front in good shape whenever occasion requires.

The management of the state fair is making a very hard effort to have the exhibit of this year surpass that of any previous year. This should be kept in mind by the people of Sioux county and an effort should be made to have the exhibit from this county the best that can possibly be made. A great many people will be there for the purpose of seeing just what Sioux county has to show and the result of a good collection, properly arranged will be that many new settlers will be secured, and that is just what is needed.

The report is that a flight is to be made on the newly appointed superintendent of the government building at Omaha on the grounds that he is not a citizen. It is about time a law was passed whereby a man who becomes a candidate for any office, either elective or appointive, would be obliged to make proof of his citizenship, unless he was born in this country, before he could have any standing as such candidate. The frequency with which that question is raised of late years demands that something be done.

The United States authorities have decided that there can be no compromise with Mosher, the wrecker of the Capital National bank, and he must stand trial. It may be a little tough on the depositors, but the punishment of the man who caused their loss should be as severe as the law will allow. Mosher would never have done as he did if he had been certain that he would have been sent as a felon to serve the state. The more certain the punishment the less frequently will crimes be committed.

With the third part of "Omega," the work of the French astronomer Flammarion, which appears in the Cosmopolitan for July, the reader is able to grasp something of the great purpose of the author. "Omega" is declared by those who have read the entire work to be one of the most remarkable writings of the century. While pretending to be a novel, it is a work having a deeply philosophical purpose, as is more fully developed in later chapters. It is something that no fairly intelligent person can afford not to read, and is surely destined to become a classic.

The people of Sioux county should make it a point to urge their friends in the east to keep watch for the announcement of the dates of the harvest excursions which will give them an opportunity to visit this locality at a low rate of fare. A special effort should be made to get those who have no land of their own to come and see what can be had in the west. It is to the interest of all to have a large number of people in this county as soon as possible. With a well settled community real estate will advance in value and prosperity will be general and all will be gainers thereby. It is not the duty of one more than another, but there should be a united effort for more settlers.

Some of the papers of the state are attempting to make out that the majority of the judges of the supreme court erred in its decision in the impeachment case. It does not look reasonable that the two who decided that the state officials were not guilty as charged would be as likely to go wrong as the one who dissented in his opinion. The former are in the prime of life and vigor and with a future before them in which they may have an opportunity to be still more highly honored if they show themselves capable and worthy. While the judge who delivered the minority opinion is an old man—practically in his dotage—who is now seeking to be elected for another term of six years in the position he now occupies. The hue and cry which was made against the state officials led him to the belief that he could, by deciding that the defendants were guilty as charged, ride into office on a popular wave. When both sides are considered it certainly looks more likely that Judge Marshall erred than that an error was made by the majority.

Senator North has secured the appointment to the office of collector of internal revenue at Omaha. He is an able, honorable man and will conduct the office in good shape.

Atlee Hart has been convicted of conspiracy to extort money and there are seven or eight more counts on which he is to be called upon to answer. He will likely conclude that he had to pay pretty high for his whistle.

A terrible thing happened at Washington, D. C., between nine and ten o'clock last Friday morning by the collapse of the old Ford Theater which was occupied by the surgeon general and was filled with government clerks. This is the building in which Lincoln was shot twenty-eight years ago. The loss of life caused by the falling building was very great.

From out the gloom and disaster at the result of the trial the impeachment committee is attempting to provide a straw for the pops to grasp at for they have done gone been and went and cut Bill Greene off with only $600 instead of allowing him the $2,500 which he did not earn. The result of the impeachment force is that the pops are out of material for political thunder, the taxpayers are out the costs of the suit and Bill Greene is out of a job.

On the tenth of this month through rates on grain from points in this state are advanced two cents per hundred. This is the first step of the railroads to meet reductions on some local rates providing the Newberry bill stands as law. Under the agreement of lower through rates made in 1887 with the board of transportation when Judge Mason was at the head of the board, the rates could not be raised without the consent of the board. The legislature that took the rate question away from the board is now made by the roads the grounds for raising through grain rates which will probably take away more than the new rate will save.—Lincoln Call.

The following catechism is going the rounds of the pop press:
 "Who owns the United States?"
 "The people."
 "Who owns the people?"
 "The politicians."
 "Who owns the politicians?"
 "The bondholders."
 "Who owns the bondholders?"
 "The devil."

And there the catechism stops. But the devil is not the final cause in this world, and why not proceed? "Who owns the devil?" There is but one answer of course. His satanic majesty is a created being and God owns him, so after all, the country is measurably safe.—Lincoln Journal.

On last Thursday the republicans of Ohio held their state convention and by acclamation, renominated Major McKinley as the party candidate for governor. His speech of acceptance was one of the best and strongest he has ever made and that is a good deal to say, for a great protectionist has made many noble speeches during the time he has spent in public life. It is thought to be the practical announcement of principles on which he proposes to stand as a presidential candidate in 1896. It seems to be conceded by all that McKinley will be re-elected as governor of Ohio by an increased majority and will add much to the strength of the rest of the party ticket.

The federal court has decided that the gates of the worlds fair must be closed on Sunday. That is a victory for the churches, saloons and outside shows which were working together to get such an order of things. It is one of the most singular things that can be witnessed for the people who are religious to insist on a thing which will do more to throw the vast crowd of visitors into temptation than anything else. If they had added a little more to their request and had it obligatory that all should spend Sundays in church it might have done some good, but it is out of the question to legislate people into morality and if the churches want freedom they should be willing to grant it to others. It would be in order for those who keep the seventh day, to ask the court to issue an order to close the fair on Saturday. There is no more domineering element known than the churches when they once get the power. It matters not what denomination or under what circumstances. They seem to forget the rights of others in their effort to make the rest of mankind do as they think is right, regardless of what those effected think about it. Care will need to be taken or church and state will not long continue to be as distinct as our forefathers decreed they should be.

A Senseless Custom.
 Washington Star.
 Anti-treating leagues are being organized in more than one city in this country. They should be encouraged. There is no more senseless custom prevalent and few more dangerous to weak characters than that which insists that because two men have drunk once they must drink again simply "to be sociable." A large proportion of the human wrecks that are floating toward the Potter's field on an alcoholic sea lost their sense of manliness and acquired the habit of intoxication through the "treating" custom.

It is reported that Governor Crouse intends to take a trip around the world which will last three months. He will make Tom Majors governor for that time and Rosewater and the Deadman statesman will have a prolonged siege of the jim-jams in consequence thereof.

The failure of banks and large business enterprises are reported with much more than usual frequency. The chief causes are that the change in the administration has weakened the confidence of people and that will not be re-established until the financial policy of the dominant party is known, and also the fact that a vast amount of money has been taken from the ordinary channels of business to be used by people who will attend the worlds fair. It is the general opinion that the worst has past and that money will be easier in future.
