L. J. Simmons, Editor.
Entered at the Harrison post office as second class matter.

THURSDAY, JULY 6, 1893.

It is reported that a cow race is arranged to be made from Texas to the world's fair. The cows are to be driven to a two wheeled gig. The drivers are to cook their own grub, milk the cows and churn as they make the trip. The first prize is to be $5,000 and the second $1,000.

Ed Fry, editor of the Niobrara Pioneer was attacked and knocked down on the street of that place a few days ago by a young man who had taken offence at something which the editor had said a few days before. It is taken for granted that what was said was the truth for people do not take that method of getting satisfaction when anything but the truth is told of them.

Gerhart F. Betts, the coal contractor who has been convicted of defrauding the state in furnishing of coal for use at the insane hospital at Lincoln, has been sentenced to serve a term of two years in the penitentiary. That is the way to stop the practice of bleeding the state. That is a great deal more sensible than to attempt to make out that the state officials should be responsible for all the acts of the contractors and minor officials of the state institutions.

The coinage of silver has been suspended in India and it is expected that the action will have a marked effect on the silver question in the United States. The silver smelting and refining companies have ceased to purchase ore and it is thought that it will settle the silver question in the near future. It is claimed by some that it will result in the adoption of a monetary standard of value by all nations of the earth of any importance and if that is brought about it will be a great work accomplished.

The railroad convention which was held at Lincoln, to devise ways and means to build a line from Dakota to the gulf, afforded a number of delegates an opportunity to work off a lot of superfluous gas which they had generated for the occasion. A committee was appointed to keep agitating the matter and something may yet come of it. Senator Stewart is reported to have made a long speech in which he touched upon some of the objects of the convention but was mainly a political harangue. How strange it is that men of his stripe cannot learn that there are times when politics should be permitted to rest.

The action of the governor of Illinois in pardoning the anarchists who were convicted for participation in the Haymarket riots a few years ago has stirred up a bigger nest of indignation than he likely expected. It is reported that the governor is not a citizen of the United States, having been born in Prussia and came to this country with his parents when a boy and that his father did not take out his papers until his son was just the age of 21 and that puts him in the same position as was occupied by ex-Gov. Boyd. It is expected that action will be brought to oust him from office. It has been pretty well established that the sympathy of the chief executive of Illinois was with the lower elements of the people of the state and some even hint that the pardoning of the anarchists was agreed to before his election. Some of his acts when a judge are being called up, and taken altogether it looks as if a good sized row was ahead. It is but right that the law abiding people of the state show that they do not propose to have the work of the courts set at naught by a man who is not even a citizen of the United States.

The advocates of silver should look at the result of one country deciding to stop the coinage of the white metal. India stopped the coinage of silver and the mines of the United States have closed down to a great extent for the owners know that the price will depreciate so much that there will be little or no profit in operating the mines unless they can create a market for the product by inducing the government to buy and use it at an inflated price. If the price of what the dollars are made of is to be governed by the acts of foreign nations there is no need for the government to use material that is as expensive as silver. It would be just as well to make the dollars of paper and have done with it. If the nations of the world could organize on a plan similar to that which governs the clearing house work in banking circles it would put a stop to a good deal of financial agitation which has a very bad effect on the business of the nation and does no good except to enable a set of scoundrels to work on the credulity of the people and to keep themselves in Iowa has a new law for assessment by which all property is to be assessed at its exchange value. If a proper penalty is provided for falsely listing the property, the law will no doubt be a benefit to the poorer classes.

The Lincoln Call was five years old on the second day of July and celebrated the event by a review of what it has been and what it has done. It also published cuts of a number of the state and city officials. The Call is very healthy five-year-old. Long may it prosper.

Stewart denies having voted for Bill Greene for United States senator and it is about all he has in his record to point to with any degree of pride and so the cheaply purchasable editor of the popular organ attempts to detract the attention of the public from the disreputable acts of himself and his purchasers by howling about the editor of this paper. The public are not so easily wheedled around as the reform-for-what-there-is-in-it editor seems to imagine.

The Kearney Hub voices the sentiment of the republicans of the western part of the state in regard to a candidate for the supreme bench when it says: "Simply find a man of personal purity, professional ability and political probity, free from corporation influences and in sympathy with the great masses of the people. Having found him, nominate him. Having nominated him, the republican party of central and western Nebraska will help to elect him."

The west will find the man for the occasion, and the east will do a good service for the people by assenting to the suggestion.

90 per cent of the business of the country is done on borrowed capital. We are a nation of borrowers. Is it any wonder that capital bunches into the hands of capitalists when the many pay interest to the few? Double the volume of currency and will this state of things change? Verily nay. Can any individual, state or nation have money unless some thing be given in exchange for it? Double the volume of currency and will this cease to be the rule of commerce? Verily nay. The state is made up of individuals and as is the mass of individuals so is the state. Let each individual analyze his own financial status, why he is poor or rich, why he succeeds in one case and fails in another, and he will find that his own case is but an epitome of the condition of the nation.—Crawford Gazette.

President Cleveland has called congress to convene on August 7th. More pressure was brought to bear on the chief executive to have the extra session called than has been resorted to for many years and the general opinion appears to be that he should have fixed the date at least two weeks earlier. The worst of the financial trouble is thought by the leading financiers to be passed. The gold has been coming back from Europe and the confidence of the public has been restored to quite an extent. There appears to be a general demand that the present silver law be repealed and it is but fair to presume that congress will accede to the masses. When the policy of the administration is known there is little doubt that business conditions will assume their normal state and a general season of prosperity will follow. The chief cause of the trouble has been that the people have been afraid that the new administration would make such radical changes in the financial laws that nothing would be safe but hard cash and in order to be safe they have taken what they had in the bank and put it in some hiding place and the result of such a plan has been that a vast amount of money has been withdrawn from circulation and one being short has pulled down another until a great amount of financial difficulty has been encountered.

We Mean Business.

The public is quick to appreciate an article of merit, and when the publishers of the State Journal began offering their semi-weekly at only $1.00 per year, the same price that others ask for their weeklies which only give half as many papers, the subscription list doubled in a few months, and has since been growing with wonderful rapidity, leaving the old-fashioned weeklies away behind. People don't see any use in waiting a whole week for the news when they can get it fresh twice a week for the same money. Readers of the semi-weekly Journal get 104 papers a year for their $1.00, which is less than one cent a copy, and they find the paper almost as good as a daily. If you have not yet tried this great paper, do so at once. It gives you the markets twice each week, which alone is worth the price. Some of our special offers are: The Journal and either The Standard History of the United States, Stanley's Adventures in Africa, Life of Spurgeon, or Life of Harrison; handsomely bound books, postage all paid, for $1.40. The Journal and Weekly New York Tribune both one year, $1.25. For $2.00 we will send the Journal two years and one of the above books free; for two new subscribers (your own name can be one of them) we will send you any one of the above books free; for $1.65 we will send you the Journal and Tribune, and any one of the books. We mean business and our offers are right down to hard time prices. Send for a free sample at once. Address: Nebraska State Journal, Lincoln, Neb.
