THURSDAY, JULY 27, 1893.

Jay Burrows' populist paper has given up its young life and the other one—the Alliance-Independent—is on its last legs. The crop seems to be pretty badly blighted.—Fremont Tribune.

The Crawford papers have been changing around of late and A. V. Harris now appears as manager of the Tribune and Frank R. Wingfield succeeds B. H. McGrew as editor of the Gazette. The policies of the papers remain the same as they have been in the past.

The village treasurer of Crawford seems to have been desirous of holding on to the license money the same as the village treasurer of Harrison and the school board did the same as did the school board of this district and a pre-emptory writ of mandamus was issued ordering the funds turned over at once. The Crawford treasurer seems to know when he had enough and disposes without delay. The treasurer of Crawford is no hog.

It looks as if the chances for war between France and Siam were pretty good and if the ball is started there will be other nations mixed in it. England, Russia and China have already gone so far that it is impossible for them to keep out if war is declared. The United States will be ready to furnish all the nations who engage in the war with supplies they need and will put an end to the cry of hard times in this country.

The first issue of the Recorder, the new Chadron paper, was issued last week and seems to be a healthy, well-formed infant with good prospects for existence. The name of Claude T. Taylor appears at the masthead and he says it is to be run in the interest of straight democracy. As long as Chadron is to have a democratic paper it is to be congratulated on the fact that it is to be straight and not one of the popocrat sort.

One of the leading pop papers at Lincoln has gone to the wall and the other one nearly there indicates that the people are catching onto the fact that they have been worked for suckers by the reformers for office or revenue only. Most, if not all, of the men who run pop papers are at it simply for what there is in it and not from principle and those who read papers conducted on such lines have no confidence in what they say and men of honor and principle will not advocate what they do not believe.

Matters seem to be pretty badly mixed as to what will be done in regard to the freight rates. It was reported that the rates fixed by the law would be put into effect the first of August and no fight made in the courts, in the belief that the law would soon become so unpopular that a demand would be made for its repeal. Later news is that the B. & M. has gone into the federal courts and asked that the state officials be enjoined from enforcing the new law. The business men of Lincoln are making a hard fight against the law for its provisions are such that the wholesale houses of that city will be driven from the field. How the matter will end is hard to predict, but a good deal of litigation is certain to result.

The commissioner's record which appears in another column of this issue shows up another case of "fool economy" on the part of the legislature in which the sponsor from the northwest district represented a part of Texas. In the past an amount has been appropriated to supply a reasonable number of statutes to each county for the use of officials. It seems that was omitted, probably the idea went to pay Bill Greene's jag bill, and as a result the taxpayers of each county have to dig up and pay for statutes obtained for the use of the officials, and it is but reasonable that, being purchased in small lots, a higher price will be charged. It is about as consistent as a flycatcher settling himself up as a pop leader and howling for reform and relief for the poor farmers and then charging homesteaders six per cent a month for money loaned to them on good security.

Hundreds of men are out of employment in Colorado and are working their way eastward as fast as possible. At Hastings last week a large number of the men thus going east got on a freight train to ride. The depot policeman ordered them off but they did not go, and on work being sent to Superintendent Higwell an order was issued to let them ride and the mayor of Hastings sent a wagon load of provisions to the men before the train pulled out. The superintendent also ordered that every man be used to assist the men on their way and if necessary to pay extra cars on for their accommodation. The reports are that thousands of others will be forced to get out of that state to obtain the necessities of life. In other places it is much the same. In Indiana thousands of men are out of employment and many of them suffering for bread and in Maine and New Hampshire the cotton mills have shut down, throwing many men out of work. Taking all things into consideration the people of North Dakota seem to be well off. The people of North Dakota seem to be well off. The people of North Dakota seem to be well off.

A THRIVING PLACE.

Harrison, Neb., and its Future as Seen by a Visitor.

Special to the Denver News.
HARRISON, NEB., July 19.—Sioux county is the northwestern county of Nebraska and Harrison is its flourishing and progressive capital and chief town. Harrison is located on the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley railroad; has a population of 200; has a $10,000 court house constructed of brick and stone, the building material being of local product; has a good public school building, with two departments; has a handsome Methodist church building; has a good hotel; has two banks, two newspapers, a city water system derived from a fine well with steam pumping as the motive power, and business houses of heavy investment and active custom.

The business houses include the Ranch Supply House, Lewis Gerlach proprietor, carrying groceries, dry goods, clothing, boots, shoes, etc.; Griswold & Marsteller, general merchandise and hardware; Geo. H. Turner, general merchandise, flour, feed, groceries, farm machinery, etc.; G. W. Stevens, livery; Dr. W. E. Bridgman, druggist; H. A. Cunningham, harness and saddlery; I. Richstein, liquors and cigars; J. W. Scott, restaurant; G. Guthrie, grain buyer; Hester & Son, lumber, coal, grain and agricultural implements; Montgomery & Zeigler, millinery, and various minor places of business.

The active legal talent of the town comprises H. T. Conley and George Walker, Esqs.

The county officers, Thomas Reidy, sheriff; Conrad Lindeman, clerk; M. Gayhart, treasurer; H. T. Conley, attorney; S. Barker, judge; A. Southworth, superintendent of schools, are giving excellent public satisfaction.

A MILL WANTED.
Harrison is in need of a roller process flouring mill and her people would give a liberal bonus toward the erection of such a mill. Harrison is the center of one of the finest wheat sections in the west. A mill of at least fifty barrels capacity per day is wanted.

DIRECT DENVER CONNECTION.
The business men of Harrison, in common with all other western Nebraska localities, are eager for direct and close Denver railroad connections, both mail and freight. With such connections and equitable freight rates Denver wholesale houses would almost exclusively supply Harrison merchants.

An increase in service on the Cheyenne & Northern would fully accomplish the desired connection, and even a favorable change of the present Cheyenne & Northern schedule time would be of material assistance.

THE COUNTY.
Sioux county is 30x70 miles in extent and contains about 1,300,000 acres, over 800,000 acres of which is still open to homestead entry. Within its limits are copious, bright and sparkling waters—White river, the Running Water and Hat creek, with numerous tributaries, together with many gushing springs, making a perfect water network.

The region is well covered by the rain belt, crops of all kinds fully maturing. The soil varies from a heavy clay to a light, sandy loam, and is of exceeding general fertility.

All the grains, potatoes and garden vegetables yield heavily and are of excellent quality, while reports from initial fruit culture are of the most satisfactory character.

Pine timber of fine quality is plentiful, the great Pine Ridge running through the county. Sawmills are active.

The county has forty-five miles of railroad, the Fremont and Elkhorn and the Burlington passing through it.

Not $1 of bonds, railroad or otherwise has been issued, and the county is entirely out of debt. Deeded land can be bought at reasonable rates.

The county has now thirty-three school districts and new ones are still in process of organization.

Dotting the region are many valuable and extensive stock farms, among which can be noted those of B. E. Brewster, C. F. Coffey, McGinley & Stover and J. W. Earnest, the two latter farms being owned by Colorado men.

NOTES.
The Harrison newspapers, THE SIOUX COUNTY JOURNAL, L. J. Simmons, editor and proprietor, and the Independent, A. L. Baumgartner, editor and proprietor, are able and enterprising journals.

The Commercial bank, D. H. Griswold, cashier, has a paid up capital of $10,000. It is solid and popular.

Agricultural implements have a heavy and ready Harrison sale.

Last spring brought the county large and valuable immigration from both Eastern Nebraska and Illinois, this fall seeing heavy additions to the farming population from the same localities.

The bank of Harrison is an institution of handsome capital and large business. Its cashier is Charles E. Verity.

The corn crop of the county will be excellent this season.

All affairs being successfully introduced, Timothy and clover are the moving hog raising is profitable, four weeks old pigs selling readily, at this writing, at $3.00 each.

For the last ten years, with the exception of the general drought season of 1890, Sioux county has had ample rainfall. Sioux county is, in excellence, a best raising region. Every farmer can have his small herd of range fattened heaves in addition to the products of his own farm. The natural grass being fine.

Harrison will put in next year a regular standpipe city water system. The town is incorporated.

A prosperous German colony is located in the northern portion of the county. Montrose is a prosperous Sioux county town and settlement.

Outside capitalists are investing largely in land in the Harrison vicinity, one purchaser alone thus acquiring 1,500 acres.

The Harrison house is an excellent hotel.

Scandinavians are heavily settling the southeastern corner of the county.

Five horses, both draft and roadsters, are being bred. Cattle strains are also being excellently improved.

In this county, on the Running Water is the famous Agate Springs ranch and stock farm. This is the ranch which was the headquarters of the Grand Duke Alexis during his western hunting tour.

Agate Springs and its magnificent natural meadow surrounding, is now the property of James Cook, the once-noted Indian scout. Mr. Cook is raising horses of pure Hambletonian strain.

Harrison is the supper station of the east-bound Fremont and Elkhorn passenger trains.

The Sioux County Fair Association will probably hold its initial exhibit at Harrison this fall.

Harrison folks nearly all take the great daily, the Rocky Mountain News.
