

L. J. SIMMONS, Proprietor.

HARRISON, NEBRASKA.

In the House of Lords.

LONDON, March 14.—In the house of lords the Earl of Rosebery, speaking on a motion to approve the address in reply to the speech from the throne asked the fullest indulgence of the peers, as he had been forced to the position he occupied by a sudden call to replace a man of the noblest energies, who was lost not alone to the liberal party, but to the nation.

Lord Salisbury regretted the retirement of Mr. Gladstone, which he said was a loss that would have been a great influence on the destinies of the nation. The succession of Lord Rosebery, he said, was perfectly acceptable, seeing that his lordship had given many proofs of his great abilities. But he thought it would have been better if the government, instead of adhering simply to the Newcastle program, had introduced fresh subjects into its program with regard to home rule. It was a pity, he said, that home rule was not put to the very front. The sooner the question was decided the better. If it were true that England would resist separation to the last the sooner Ireland knew of it the better. The government ought not to put home rule into the queen's speech year after year unless they meant to carry it.

Lord Rosebery expressed his gratification at the tribute which Lord Salisbury had paid to Mr. Gladstone. The grief eulogy he had pronounced on him had left nothing to be desired. His lordship's jibes at the policy of adhering to the Newcastle program could be endured, seeing that the liberal program had endured, while the conservative program was liable to fluctuation. Lord Rosebery then proceeded to defend the proposed government program at some length.

Installed in Office.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 14.—With simple but impressive ceremonies fitting an occasion so important, Edward Douglass White of Louisiana was installed as an associate justice of the United States supreme court.

At 1:45 o'clock Justice White presented himself in the office of the clerk of the court and subscribed to the oath which is administered to all officers of the government. After this he was conducted to the robing room, where the justices meet every day prior to the opening of the court, and there introduced to his future colleagues.

The new associate justice found his gown ready for him when he reached the robing room. It is one of the functions of "Archie" Lewis, who has been an attendant of the court for forty-four years, to keep the gowns in good order and assist the justices in donning them. In a small chamber off the robing room is a large mahogany closet, where they are hung when not in use. There is a legend to the effect that no member of the court has ever been able to get into his gown unassisted. The task does not look to be difficult, but appearances are deceptive, as some portly justices who have wrestled with the sombre regalia will admit. When Mr. White's gown was adjusted Chief Justice Fuller administered another oath to him.

An Interesting Case.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 14.—From all information that can be gathered at present the Scheig case will not be allowed to drop out of public attention for some time to come. Shortly after Scheig's arrest, at the time he was brought over from Stillwater as witness in the Floyd case, he was served with papers in a suit which the Bank of Minneapolis has commenced against Phil M. Scheig as principal and John Orth, C. O. Bader, Bartlett Cooper, Frank Byers and W. Harford as sureties on Scheig's $1,000 bond, which was held by the bank as a voucher for Scheig's faithfulness. Suit is brought by the bank to collect the amount of the bond, and the bondsmen will put up a defense that may prove to be of intense interest. They will charge jointly that the bank or its officials knew that Scheig was a defaulter at the time the bond was accepted and in accepting it a fraud was perpetrated on the bondsmen. The bank will deny this charge in toto and the bondsmen will endeavor to prove the assertion to the extent that at least Mathias J. Gogerding, the dead cashier, knew at the time the bond was accepted that Scheig was short $1,000 in his accounts.

Lightweights Before the Athletic Club.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 14.—Tommy Hogan, the St. Paul lightweight, and Dell Hawkins of Appleton, Minn., met before the Twin City athletic club. In the eighth round Hawkins' right arm was dislocated at the shoulder and the match was awarded to Hogan. The fight was a fierce one for the first two rounds and Hawkins was nearly out at the call of time. The balance of the work was at long range, Hawkins getting much the worst of it. This match was substituted for the meeting of Abbott and Dobbs, on which the former flunked. Dobbs made his appearance in the ring and offered to meet any 125-pound man. An effort is being made to match him against Edward Maher.

William Walter Phelps will not be seen as editor. He is content to remain in the ranks of the fallen and has made no statement about newspaper matters.

Advises from Honolulu.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.—Advices to the Associated press from steamer Mariposa, arrived yesterday from Honolulu March 8th: A rumor was afloat Sunday night to the effect that the government in anticipation of a last desperate effort of the royalists to restore the queen, had decided to declare martial law Monday, March 5th; but it was not declared as has yet been learned. However, such a course was practically decided on and was abandoned till the last moment. The news of the report of the United States senate committee's investigation of the United States officials at Honolulu and of the state department at Washington in connection with the overthrow of the queen, practically endorsing the course taken, was received by the annexation party with great joy, and annexation, even before the close of Cleveland's term, is sanguinely expected. The royalists were more seriously affected by it than by any news before. They fully expected Stevens' action to be condemned.

The government is considering a bill calling an election of delegates to a constitutional convention the date not fixed. It will probably be in May and the conclusion of its work the republic will be proclaimed. The terms of election are such as to give the present executive and advisory council control of the convention. D. K. Smith, the candidate of the annexation league was elected to fill the vacancy in the advisory council and the differences between the league and the provisional government are healed.

A Court Martial will be Ordered.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Secretary Herbert has notified that the records of the court of inquiry on the wreck of the Kearsarge will be delivered to him. It is learned that the papers contain certain findings and recommendations, and though their character is unknown it is thought that a court-martial will be ordered. In this connection it is significant that orders were issued to Lieut. G. T. Farce, who was executive officer of the ship and who was detached March 6, to proceed to Roncador on the wrecking steamer Orion, in place of Lieutenant Brainerd, who is ordered to the Fern. All the other officers who were on the Kearsarge have found new duty since their detachment March 6, except Commander Hyerman and Lieutenant Lyman, who were not detached until yesterday, and who now remain on waiting orders. Hyerman commanded the Kearsarge and Lieutenant Lyman was the navigating officer at the time of the disaster. It was shown during the inquiry that he neglected to take the lights on the day the ship struck the reef. Placing them under waiting orders, under these circumstances, is thought to indicate that any proceedings supplementary to the inquiry may be directed against them. Otherwise Commander Hyerman might have been placed in command of the Raleigh, which has just been given to Capt. Merrill Miller, or the Cincinnati, which has been secured by Commander Glass.

Suspects Arrested.

ROME, March 16.—Many anarchist suspects have been arrested. Most of the arrests were preventive measures, although several were made in the hope of throwing some light on the Monte di Clorio explosion. More compromising literature was found in the lodgings of the suspects. Besides numerous receipts for making bombs the police seized letters and records which they think confirm the reports of an extensive conspiracy against the authorities throughout the larger part of Italy. The writers of the letters are supposed to have been implicated in the plot whose head was Deputy de Felice. Many of the papers will be laid before the crown prosecutors, who are expected to conduct the prosecution of the socialist leader. Two of the anarchists arrested had consigned a box containing a bomb to a match seller.

Among the leaflets seized was a red and white poster which urged the working people to revolt, throw open the prison gates, pillage and set fire to the shops and cut all the telegraph and cable wires in order that the government might be prevented from calling in regiments from the provinces. Picarons of similar import were posted in several parts of the city, but were torn down by the police before morning.

A Heroic Character.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Francis E. Brownell, a historic character of the late war, died here yesterday in the pension department yesterday. He was a private in the famous Ellsworth Zouaves stationed at Alexandria, Va., when the ordinance of secession was passed. A man named Jackson, proprietor and marshal ran up the Confederate flag. Ellsworth went to the hotel and hauled it down. As he was descending the stairs after doing so Jackson shot and killed him. Brownell witnessing the act promptly shot Jackson. For this congress awarded him a medal and he became the hero of the hour.

Whole Families Participate.

VIENNA, March 16.—The employees of a new tramway company in this city went on a strike against the lengthening of their hours of labor. New men were engaged to take the places of the strikers, but the wives and children of the strikers turned out in force to assist their husbands and fathers and attacked the new men with such vigor that they were obliged to abandon their posts. The running of cars has been suspended in consequence.

Disputed Opinions.

LONDON, March 16.—In the house of commons John Morley, chief secretary for Ireland, insisted that there could be no injury to Ireland through a temporary suspension of the home rule bill. If he had supposed that the reconstructed ministry would not be accorded its views on the Irish question he would not be a member of the ministry. [Cheers.] Home rule, he said, had neither been killed nor abandoned, but would take its place in the course of sequence as had been arranged prior to Mr. Gladstone's retirement. As to the Irish party with drawing from its support of the government, he was happy to say there were no signs of any such disastrous and mischievous events. There could be no mistake in the minds of any who had read the speech made in the house of lords by Lord Rosebery that he meant to do all in his power to accomplish home rule, besides reducing the house of lords to its proper place as the legislative organ is now recognized to be in the minds of the English people.

John Redmond, Parnellite, said that never during his experience in parliament had a more difficult or humiliating task fallen upon a chief secretary for Ireland than the present one, which put him up to try the strength of his own character as a genuine friend of Ireland to remove the impression created by the halting and ambiguous phrases of Lord Rosebery. Whatever Mr. Morley might say, he declared, Ireland would not trust Lord Rosebery.

He (Redmond) repudiated Lord Rosebery's doctrine that an English majority was necessary for the passage of home rule. The theory was insulting and humiliating to Ireland, which alone had the right to decide. If Lord Rosebery's doctrine was right the lords had the power to continue to throw out home rule or any other measure the house of commons might pass. If that right belonged to the house of lords through privileges of birth, then, he declared, Great Britain would ring with the cry for its abolition.

Joseph Chamberlain said that the unionists were satisfied with the adoption of the government to their own policy, as it gave a definite issue on which to meet them on all sides. Everybody, he thought, ought to be satisfied, except perhaps Mr. Labouchere, who was going about like Diogenes with his lantern looking for an honest friend.

Texas Senatorial Race.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—After eighteen years of service as senator from the state of Texas, which period will have elapsed at the conclusion of his term, March 4, 1905, Mr. Coke has decided that he will retire from public life. The only reason he assigns is a desire to return to private life, he believing that he has been sufficiently honored by the people of Texas. That he could be re-elected Mr. Coke says he has no doubt, and that all the men who have come out as candidates up to this time have done so under the condition that he would not be a candidate. The senator remarked that all the candidates would have a free field, as he would not be in their way.

HOUSTON, Tex., March 15.—Ex Senator Chilton has announced himself as a candidate to succeed United States Senator Coke. Mr. Chilton says he has assurances of support from leading men. He will canvass the entire state. Congressman Culbertson and ex-Governors Ross and Ireland are expected to enter the race.

Away for his Health.

KANSAS CITY, March 15.—Expert Accountant Charles N. Seidnitz who was employed by the county court to examine the accounts of county officials, has made an official report to the court, showing an apparent shortage of $19,401 in the accounts of County Clerk Montgomery S. Burr. Burr, who is in San Antonio, Tex., for his health, has been communicated with, but so far no satisfactory explanation of the matter has been made. The county court received the first report of the expert about ten days ago and at once ordered Mr. Seidnitz to go over Mr. Burr's books again, in order that there might be no uncertainty in the matter. Mr. Seidnitz did so with the result above. He will submit his supplementary report to the county court and steps will then be taken as to the disposition of the clerk's office.

Strikers are Routed.

PATERSON, N. J., March 15.—Another riotous scene was witnessed on Temple street hill in this city. Over 60 persons surrounded the Ramford Brothers' silk mill to intimidate the weavers and warpers who refused to join the strikers. At 5:30 o'clock Chief of Police Grant and Captain Binson, with a squad of forty-two men, charged the crowd and dispersed them. Afterward a crowd of silk workers marched up Cliff street, but were soon routed by another detachment of the police and many of them were knocked down by the officers. Nearly all of the operatives were escorted to their homes by policemen, and Mayor Bramm issued a proclamation in the evening calling upon the strikers to preserve order.

Invited by His Parents.

AUDUBON, Ia., March 15.—Frank Lieb, who was stabbed last Friday by William McLaughlin, died Tuesday. The murderer had a narrow escape from being lynched. An angry mob gathered and was met by McLaughlin's parents, who implored the would-be lynchers to spare their son. Before the contemplated lynching could be carried out officers secretly took the prisoner from jail to Exora until the excitement subsided.

Wrecked at sea.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., March 13.—At noon Sunday a lifeboat was described making for the cape signal station which two hours later proved to be on the steamer Briscoe, containing First Mate Mackey and four men in an exhausted condition. They reported the Briscoe lying about sixty miles south southwest off Cape Race. They left her Friday, but after pulling four hours it was discovered that the compass had gone wrong. The compass defect was not discovered until the Briscoe was again sighted after their four hour's hard work. The boat was again launched Saturday morning and from 11 o'clock on that day until their arrival at signal station the men had not had a morsel of food to eat. They also suffered considerably during the night from cold, and were slightly frost bitten. First Mate Mackey made a statement concerning the Briscoe's voyage, showing that they left Hamburg December 8, but were forced to put back to Queenstown for repairs. "We left there January 31," said he, "and encountered terrific weather. The decks were swept by the high seas continually. Nothing was left standing but the two lower masts and the funnel. She was a complete wreck. Our supply of coal ran out nineteen days after we left Queenstown. Then we began to use up the furniture and other woodwork for fuel. The steamer Ulunda, which sailed from Halifax February 27 for London, took the Briscoe in tow Friday, March 2, but left her at 8 o'clock the following morning, after towing her 120 miles. Then a repetition of our former experience set in and we drifted along, using up all the available woodwork we could find on board for fuel.

"A new danger now confronted us. The supply of food ran out and the crew was nearly reduced to starvation. There were no provisions on board save a little bread, a small quantity of flour and some peas. A small fire was kept in the galley to prevent the men from perishing from the cold. The other fires were let go out for lack of fuel." The tug Ingraham left here to search for the Briscoe as soon as the above news was received. The coast steamer Virginia Lake also sailed from Trepassy and will endeavor to find the disabled steamer.

Will Resign His Office.

BERLIN, March 13.—Rudolph von Bennigsen, member of the reichstag from the Eighteenth district of Hanover, president of the province of Hanover and leader of the national liberal party, has decided to resign all his offices and retire to private life. Rumors that he would take this step have been current for several weeks, but they were not confirmed until in the evening. Dr. von Bennigsen's ostensible reason for leaving public life is that his health is poor. The truth is that he has become disgusted with the unmanly proceedings in the reichstag since men of the Sigl and Ahlwardt stripe began making themselves conspicuous in the debates. There is, moreover, considerable bad feeling in the national liberal party. A rupture threatens and as Bennigsen is in his seventieth year he feels no longer equal to the task of reconciling the warring factions. He has been in public life almost from the year when he left the university and has been sitting in the German parliaments for more than forty years.

Cowardly Revenge.

ST. LOUIS, March 13.—A frightful double tragedy occurred at 11 o'clock in the morning in a new building being constructed at No. 3448 Oregon avenue. Last Saturday Chris Studt, a carpenter, who had been at work on the building was given notice of his discharge and left the building muttering threats against his employer, Charles Wuensch. Studt stealthily entered the building, carrying with him a double barreled shotgun. He proceeded to a point directly under where Wuensch was bending over a bench on the second floor, and fired one barrel of the shotgun. The load of buckshot almost tore Wuensch's head from his body. Studt then placed the muzzle of the weapon against his body and pulled the trigger with a short stick and the load of buckshot tore a gaping wound in his abdomen, from which his intestines protruded. He was taken to the city hospital, but died an hour later. Both men were married and leave families.

Died in a Hospital.

ORANGE, N. J., March 13.—George O. Mowbray, a dentist, died in the Orange Memorial hospital under peculiar circumstances. Saturday afternoon he was found in his office in an unconscious condition. He was taken to the hospital and died there without recovering consciousness. The doctors at the hospital diagnosed the case as apoplexy. Many, however, believe that the doctor poisoned himself, as he was known to be very despondent. Mowbray came to Orange from Meadville, Pa., about eight months ago. He had no diploma, but applied to the New Jersey state dental association for a license. He failed to pass the examination.

Left the Country.

NEW YORK, March 13.—A special to the Sun from Stony Brook, N. J., says: William Gould, postmaster of this town has disappeared. It is alleged that he has left $150,000 of indebtedness distributed among a number of people.

A Young Murderer.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 13.—During a quarrel between Bellwin Patterson and E. C. Hardwell the twelve-year-old son of the latter secured a revolver and shot Patterson dead.

Mixed Eggs and Creams.

CHARLES RAPHS Ia., March 12.—The failure of the J. P. Morin company came Saturday. The concern owns a great egg-packing establishment and wholesale fruit house in this city, besides operating six creameries in this state. The failure dragged down with it the house of Morse, Smith & Co., of Boston the owners of the greater part of the Morin company stock. The assets of the latter concern are estimated at $65,000, while the total liabilities are placed at $210,000. The Bohemian-American State bank of this city brought on the failure by attaching property to secure a claim of $8,000. M. Dean of Tipton, Ia., is the only other western creditor. The farmers were paid up to March 1, so they will lose little. A recent loss of $50,000 by damage to eggs in storage and the inability of the Boston stockholders to supply the concern with more money precipitated the crash. The attachment was followed by the closing of the egg packing and fruit establishment here and the creameries in various parts of the state.

The company also has a big establishment at Hastings, Neb. Since the company went into the wholesale fruit business two years ago it has been losing money. The fruit and eggs were stored in adjoining rooms separated by iron doors, but the flavor of lemon spoiled the eggs, entailing a loss of $8,000. J. R. Morin, the founder of the business, sold all his stock last November. A large amount of the liabilities is in borrowed money owed in the east. Only a few of the creameries were in operation at the time of the failure. A large number of hands were thrown out of employment.

Under Arrest.

KANSAS CITY, March 12.—Deidrich Kensmann, husband of the woman who was found dead in a vacant house on Baltimore avenue some three weeks ago, and Theodora Hoffman, alias Pauline White, an inmate of a disreputable house, were locked up charged with the murder of Mrs. Kensmann. From the evidence in the hands of the police it appears that Kensmann has been living a dual life, and that he murdered his wife to obtain the $5,000 insurance on her life so that he could consort with the Hoffman woman. Kensmann, it is said, took his wife to the vacant house on the pretext of showing it to her with a view of renting it, and there committed the dastardly crime. Theodora Hoffman came to this country from Germany in 1896 and lived to Denver, where she and Kensmann lived together. Later they went to Omaha and finally landed in Kansas City, where they plotted to murder Kensmann's wife. They both deny complicity in the affair, but they are being closely questioned and it is expected one or the other will confess.

A Prodigal Returns.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 12.—George F. Fisher, for whom every officer in the country has been looking for months in the hope of receiving $3,000 reward offered by his parents for his capture and return to his home in Evansville, Ind., walked into police headquarters here in the afternoon and surrendered himself, with the remark that he was tired of bumming it and wanted to go home. Fisher was rather a nice looking tramp, with fair complexion highly tanned, light blue eyes, golden hair and a suspicion of a light mustache. His clothes and shoes were travel worn and rusty, but he left no room for doubt as to his identity when he told the story of his departure and subsequent tramp over the country. Fisher is twenty years old, the son of a wealthy farmer by his second wife. He was sent to an uncle in Evansville to be educated, but became dissatisfied and without warning one night disappeared. Three months he worked on a farm near Henderson, Ky., fifteen miles from his home, under an assumed name. Work gave out and he walked to Hopkinsville, where he stayed some time. A day or two ago he took to the cross-ties and came south, arriving here Saturday. He slept at the station house under an assumed name, but was not recognized. News of the find was telegraphed to Evansville, where the case has assumed the notoriety of the Charlie Ross affair.

Estimate of the Revenue.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—A rough statement of the results figured on in the tariff bill is as follows: The estimated receipts from customs in the amended tariff bill as reported to the full senate committee on finance amounts to $165,900,000 in round figures. From internal revenue, including the income tax and the additional tax of 20 cents a gallon on whisky, as imposed by the senate and other increases over the house rates, it is estimated the receipts will amount to $63,000,000. This $228,900,000 of internal revenue tax is additional to the revenue derived from these sources at present rates and will make the entire receipts from internal revenue as proposed by the senate, $244,000,000. Adding to this amount $21,000,000 from miscellaneous articles gives $411,000,000 as the probable receipts under the bill as approved by the democratic majority of the finance committee, as against $445,000,000 derived last year from the same sources of revenue under the McKinley bill.

Will Seek Other Fields.

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., March 12.—At the instance of members of his congregation Rev. Milton Haskel, the Methodist pastor at Gwynville, was brought into court and fined $5 and costs for disturbing a religious meeting. The trouble arose over a meeting which was in progress when the pastor, who objected to the innovation, appeared and ordered the members to disperse. He now says he will seek other fields of labor.

NEBRASKA NEWS.

Considerable sickness is reported in the county around Sterling.

District court is in session at Nelson, with twenty-five cases on the docket.

The David City Press wants a bimetallic club organized in every township in Nebraska.

A special census of Tekamah has just been taken and it shows a population of 1,500.

A recent wolf hunt in Hitchcock county resulted in the capture of two lusty coyotes.

The large flouring mill at Dawson, Richardson county, was totally destroyed by fire.

Rodney Smith is the new humorous editor of the Kearney Hub and he can write like a trooper.

The Standard Cattle company talks of putting in a big sugar plant at Ames, bounty or no bounty.

The Norfolk sugar company has made contracts for over 3,000 acres of beets for fall delivery.

A hook and ladder has been ordered for the protection of Howells from the ravages of the fire fiend.

A. H. Church, ex-commander of the Nebraska G. A. R., is recovering from his recent severe illness.

Summer's only official barber has rented a farm, and now every man in town has bought a razor.

Farmers in the western part of the state have all their oats sown and are rushing their spring work.

The city fathers of Howells are talking of imposing an occupation tax on the business men of the town.

Mrs. S. P. Mobbly, who has been an invalid for some time, has gone to California in the hope of benefiting her health.

Rev. Mr. Farnsworth of Norfolk Junction has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Congregational church at Dodge.

The Western Wave is being published again. H. T. Wilson is at the helm and the people of Western will get a good local paper.

Chappell doctors are very busy looking after a small army of "measles" patients. The disease is having the run of the town.

A section of the Loup bridge at Palmer went out with the ice and Merrick county will pay the expense of filling the gap.

Hon. R. H. Henry of Columbus, president of the state board of agriculture, is sojourning on the Pacific coast for the benefit of his health.

The editors of David City accord one another of getting drunk. Behold it is good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity.

John Soller, living near Elmwood, loaded his gun for bear and went hunting for geese. The gun exploded at the first shot, and John will carry the scars on his face when he goes to his long home.

A. E. Ovenden has again assumed the editorship of the Elk Creek Sentinel. Mr. Taylor, who has recently been managing the paper, wearied of his job and has left for a more congenial field.

A Polk county hunter while trying to shoot prairie chickens "on the wing" with a rifle, managed to catch a neighbor's horse "on the leg" and narrowly escaped ruining the beast with his beastly marksmanship.

A small gang of boys at Edgar heaved bricks through the windows of Mr. Schiedeman's residence, and a little baby was struck by one of them and severely injured. There is a place for such miscreants at Kearney.

Sheiton voted $2,000 in bonds to secure the erection of a flouring mill, and when the sheriff came to town armed with an injunction to prevent the board from issuing the same not a member of that body could be found.

W. L. Knotas, the founder of the Beatrice Times, has disposed of his interest in the paper and will practice law. The Times will continue in the front rank as a local paper so long, at least, as Walter Noel remains in control.

George Miller of Nance county knew it was loaded, but that did not deter him from grasping the gun by the muzzle attempting to pull it out of the wagon. Of course it went off, and he will be in great luck if his arm isn't treated the same way. It was badly shattered.

This paper asks for no support on the ground of charity. If the News is not worth a dollar a year to you, stop it. If its advertising columns are not worth the price asked don't use them. We only want patronage from those who feel they are getting the worth of their money.—Bennett News.

The dates of the third annual convention and school methods of the Nebraska Conference Epworth League will be held in Centenary church, Beatrice, has been changed from May 15-17 to May 8-10, 1894. Edwin A. Schell, D. D., general secretary of the Edworth League of the World will be present through the session.

Why, asked the Edgar Post, should anyone want to go to California for a salubrious climate if he lives in Nebraska? The gentle breeze blow, the sun smiles down upon the quickening earth, the bluebirds are twittering among the boughs, and the robins are getting up plans and specifications for nesting again. Nebraska is all right.

J. C. Penny of Newman Grove, who was arrested and bound over for disposing of mortgaged property, has been discharged.