THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1894.

The sugar refineries of New York, Boston and other cities have been ordered closed by the owners. That will throw about fifty thousand people out of employment, which does not make the prospects for the coming winter any brighter to the people of those cities.

The refusal of Japan to allow the president of the United States to settle the trouble between her and China is pretty good evidence that the Japs know what they want and propose to go after China until her demands are acceded to. Cleveland might have avoided the snub had he kept out of the muss.

J. E. North, collector of internal revenues, is preparing to comply with the new law in regard to the income tax and it will be fun to see the rich plead poverty. The working of the law will be watched with much interest for it is a matter of much importance. Such laws have been in operation in the old countries for many years, but this is the first of the kind enacted in the United States.

The Lincoln Journal has had a standing forfeit of two hundred dollars to back its claim to having the largest circulation of any daily paper in Nebraska and so far no paper has dared to accept the challenge. That does not seem to be all. The popularity of the Journal is on the increase and the action of some of the other daily papers during the past few months has lost much prestige and patronage to them. The people know where to find the Journal and that is what they want.

A number of amendments have been suggested to the ballot law of the state and among them is one providing that the different parties shall be represented on the boards of election. That certainly would be a good provision. It would prevent such ballot box stuffing as that for which the judges of a precinct in Boyd county have been arrested. All were rank pops and the returns showed large votes for the pop candidates and investigation was followed by the arrests.

Auditor Moore in his report calls attention to the need of amendment of the assessment laws. That is what every one should advocate. At present the poor men are paying the tax and the western part of the state is paying more than its just proportion. A law which makes the assessor more of an official and makes him responsible for his acts and gives him authority to compel property owners to list all their property at an honest valuation or suffer severe penalties would help a good deal. If all the property of the state was assessed at its full value the relative cost to the owners would not be increased and great benefits would result.

The second annual convention of the Nebraska state irrigation association will be held at Kearney on December 18th and 19th. This will be a very important meeting from the fact that it will be held just on the eve of convening of the legislature. In all probability a law will be outlined which will be presented to the session and it is hoped that it will be broad and comprehensive enough to cover the needs of the entire state. Such a bill should be prepared at the convention or a committee appointed to draft such a bill and have it introduced at the legislature and then it should have the support of all interested in the development of the resources of the state.

Literary News.

Anna Katherine Green has written a novel, "Dr. Izard," which in some respects, if not all, surpasses "The Leavenworth Case" and the other celebrated stories from her pen. This has been secured by the Orange Judd Farmer, the first installment appearing in the issue of November 24. Like all Miss Green's stories, "Dr. Izard" is a mystery, which keeps the reader conjecturing and unravelling as best he can to the last chapter. At the same time it is wholesome family reading and free from the objectionable features of other stories of the detective flavor. "Dr Izard" appears in the Orange Judd Farmer, which is published weekly, at $1 a year, at the Pontiac Building, Chicago, Ill. New subscribers for 1895 will receive the paper free to January 1, beginning with the issue of November 24, in which the story opens.

Irrigate or Emigrate.

Nebraska Farmer.

It has been said that the supreme question with the people of the western third of Kansas is: "Shall they irrigate or emigrate?" and it is practically the the same state of things that exists in western Nebraska. This problem has been confronting them for several years, during the last three of which there has been an almost complete failure of the wheat crop, while no attempt to raise corn. From year to year the resolute people held on and heroically battled against the elements, only to again meet disappointment. During the past two years the people of that section have decided that the only hope for certain crops is through irrigation. Several meetings have been held and the matter discussed fully. The only thing needed to transfer that region into the richest agricultural section of the United States is government aid for irrigating the land which is the richest on the continent. While the people are waiting for congress to take action those who are able to establish private irrigating plants are doing so and the results are wonderful.

Windmill irrigation has proved very successful in every instance. As an example the farm of Eli Goodwin, near Larned, may be cited. The "farm" in fact is a ten-acre truck garden, and is under a high state of cultivation. The place is systematically laid out and is cultivated entirely by irrigation, windmills pumping the water into ponds, from which it is drawn off into ditches and thence turned whenever needed, upon the plats or beds of growing vegetation. Mr. Goodwin cultivates all kinds of vegetables and small fruits upon a large portion of his ground and grows three crops during a season. His first crop is radishes and lettuce, in between these rows later he plants onions; after the radish and lettuce crop has been gathered he plants late cabbage, and the onion crop can be gathered before the cabbage begin to crowd. Thus he obtains, in one season, a crop of radishes and lettuce, a crop of onions and one of cabbage off the same plat of ground. His cabbage last year grown in that way averaged over three pounds to the the head and over 5,000 heads to the acre and he sold them at an average of three and one half cents per pound, bringing him about $700 per acre for the third crop alone. He has four acres of grapes, from which he has an income of several hundred dollars annually.

There is but one instance of the splendid results from windmill irrigation in Western Kansas. It is the only hope for that country. The soil is deep and rich and when watered will grow the largest crops of any on the continent. Thousands of farmers have spent their all endeavoring to stem the tide and overcome a natural condition, but they are now beginning to realize that irrigation is the only hope, and all who are able are selling off part of their land and buying windmills with the intention of following the example set by Mr. Goodwin.

As an emergency medicine, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral takes the lead of all other remedies. For the relief and cure of croup, whooping-cough, sore throat, and the dangerous pulmonary troubles to which the young are so liable, it is invaluable, being prompt to act, sure to cure.

PATENTS.

NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

There never was a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who being on the alert, and ready to perceive the existing deficiencies, does not permit the affairs of the government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. To great care can not be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "no patent, no pay" system. Inventors who entrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY, John Wedderburn, General Manager, 618 F street, N. W., Washington, D. C., representing a large number of important daily and weekly papers, as well as general periodicals of the country, was instituted to protect its patrons from the unsafe methods heretofore employed in this line of business. The said Company is prepared to take charge of all patent business entrusted to it for reasonable fees, and prepares and prosecutes applications generally, including mechanical inventions, design patents, trade marks, labels, copyrights, interferences, infringements, validity reports, and gives especial attention to rejected cases. It is also prepared to enter into competition with any firm in securing foreign patents.

Write for instructions and advice.

Sioux County,

THE LAND OF THE HOMESTEADER.

Free Homes for More Than 5,000 Men.

A new county with schools, churches, railroads, etc.,

AND 800,000 ACRES YET OPEN TO HOMESTEAD ENTRY.

Contains over forty-five miles of railroad and has no county bonds.

NO BONDS, NO DEBTS, LOW TAXES.

Fuel, Posts, Logs and Lumber Cheaper Than at any Other Place in Nebraska.

Sioux county is the northwest county of Nebraska. It is about thirty miles east and west by about seventy miles north and south and contains of land. There are more bright, sparkling, small streams in the county than can be found in the same area elsewhere in the state. It has more pine timber in it than all the rest of the state combined. Its grasses are the richest and most nutritious known so that for stock growing it is unexcelled.

OVER 1,300,000 ACRES

The soil varies from a heavy clay to a light sandy loam and is capable of producing excellent crops.

The principal crops are small grain and vegetables, although good corn is grown in the valleys. The wheat, oats, rye and barley are all of unusually fine quality and command the highest market prices.

The water is pure and refreshing and is found in abundance in all parts of the county.

The county is practically out of debt and has over forty-five miles of railroad within its borders, has a good brick court house and the necessary fixtures for running the county and there has never been one dollar of county bonds issued and hence taxes will be low.

The Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley railroad crosses Sioux county from east to west and the B. & M. has about fifteen miles of its line in the northeast part of the county.

The climate is more pleasant than that of the eastern portion of Nebraska.

There is still

OVER 800,000 ACRES

of land in Sioux county yet open to homestead entry. It is better land and more desirably located than that for which such rushes are made on the opening of a reservation. There is no railroad land in the county and for that reason its settlement has been slow for no special effort to get settlers was made, as was done in the early days of the settlement of the eastern part of the state.

Good deeded land can be purchased at reasonable rates with government land adjoining so that a person who wants more than one quarter section can obtain it if he has a little means.

There are about 2,500 people in the county and there is room for thousands more.

Harrison is the county seat and is situated on the F. E. & M. V. railroad, and is as good a town as the thinly settled country demands.

School houses and churches are provided in almost every settlement and are kept up with the times.

All who desire to get a homestead or buy land cheap are invited to come and see the country for themselves and judge of its merits. Homesteads will not be obtainable much longer and if you want to use your right and get 160 acres of land from Uncle Sam free it is time you were about it.
