

Strong Nerves

Depend upon pure, rich, nourishing, strengthening blood. The nerves derive their sustenance from the blood and when they are weak it is because they do not receive the nourishment needed. The true cure for nervousness will not be found in opiate or sedative compounds. These only allay the symptoms.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Removes the cause by purifying and enriching the blood, giving it just those qualities which are demanded for the proper support of the nervous system. Hundreds of women who once suffered from nervousness, write that they have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla and nervousness has disappeared. This was because Hood's Sarsaparilla purified their blood.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My wife suffered many years with various troubles, severe headaches, debility, nervousness, indigestion and dyspepsia. She has been treated by different doctors, and most different remedies, but Hood's Sarsaparilla has done more for her than anything else."—Mrs. J. W. Morrison, Mo.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

For family use, and for all disorders caused by torpid liver and impure blood. In fact it is a wonderful health restorer to the whole system. Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved itself in my wife's case, and we can faithfully recommend its use in every family."—JAMES ROBERT MORRISON, Mo.

Hood's Pills cure all liver and biliousness, headache, etc.

NEBRASKA CONGRESS

DOINGS IN BOTH SENATE AND HOUSE

Friday.

SENATE.—The senate passed the bill abolishing capital punishment, by a vote of 17 to 14, but with two votes in reserve; also, a bill giving Lincoln one assessor, who shall be elected at large. The appointment of a sifting committee was authorized.

The McKehey relief bill, appropriating $200,000, being a substitute for house bill No. 525, was passed by a vote of 29 to 1. The following is a full text of the bill:

Section 1. That there be and is hereby appropriated from the state treasury, from funds not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $200,000 for the purpose of procuring seed and feed for teams for the destitute farmers of this state during the spring of 1895.

Sec. 2. It shall be the duty of the state relief commission to certify to the auditor the amounts due the several counties under this act, and the auditor shall thereupon issue a warrant in favor of each county for the amount to which it is entitled by such certificate. The amount to be received by each county shall be determined by the state relief commission based on knowledge now in their possession and on information in writing signed by the county clerk, treasurer and county judge of such county showing the number of farmers in need of such aid in their several counties; and for such services the state relief commission shall receive the sum of $500; provided, that no county shall receive more than $4,000; and provided further, that no county shall receive aid which does not furnish such information on or before April 1, 1895, and the distribution to the several counties shall be completed on or before April 10, 1895.

Sec. 3. The county board of the several counties shall use the sum thus placed in the hands of the county treasurer, or such other officer as may be required, in the purchasing of seed and feed for teams and shall sell the same to farmers, in their respective counties, who are unable to procure seed and feed by any other means, on such terms as they shall determine, and may deem just and proper. Providing that nothing in this act shall be construed as prohibiting said seed and feed, gratuitously to their needy farmers if they may so decide.

Sec. 4. The county clerk shall, under the direction of the board, draw his warrant on the fund thus placed in the county treasury, in payment for such seed and feed as may be procured by the county board and the expenses incurred in procuring the same, and he shall collect any notes or securities taken in payment for said seed or feed, and render the proceeds thereof, together with any unused balance of said fund, into the general fund of the county. Provided, that when any money for grain shall be collected, or any of the fund hereby appropriated is left unused, then all such moneys so collected or unused shall be returned to the state treasury, and he is hereby empowered to receive the same.

Sec. 5. Whereas an emergency exists, this act shall be in force and take effect from and after its passage.

HOUSE.—The house passed the salary appropriation bill. McNitt's free high school bill, a mutual plate glass insurance bill, several private relief bills, the stockyards bill and the Omaha fire and police board bill passed, a call of the house being had on the last named.

Benedict's age of consent bill was made a special order for Saturday morning and the university library appropriation was made a special order for Tuesday afternoon.

Saturday.

SENATE.—The senate recommended the passage of Sprecher's district attorney bill as amended.

Cross of Jefferson spoke on Australian ballot bills and moved that all measures amendatory of election laws be made the special order for 2 p. m. Monday. The motion prevailed. Senate file Nos. 231, 106, 137 and 117 will be considered at that hour.

Senate file No. 98, regulating life insurance companies, and senate file No. 132, to regulate the organization of mutual assessment companies were ordered advanced and engrossed for a third reading.

The senate adjourned at 11:30 until Monday at 2 p. m.

HOUSE.—The house spent the forenoon discussing the age of consent bill and finally recommended it for passage slightly amended. In the afternoon several bills for the submission of constitutional amendments were passed through the committee of the whole, and one of the constitutional amendment bills gave rise to a short struggle over the question of woman suffrage.

House roll No. 556 Kicketts' bill providing that if a person shall be taken from officers by a mob he shall be entitled to recover from the county damages to the amount of $1,000. If he shall be lynched, $500; if he shall be seriously injured, $1,000; if he shall be permanently disabled from earning a living by manual labor, $5,000 was reported to pass.

House roll No. 434, a bill enabling the Advent college to issue diplomas, was recommended to pass.

Monday.

SENATE.—The fifty-fourth day of the senate opened yesterday afternoon with prayer by Chaplain MacAyeal. In invoking the throne of grace the chaplain referred to the latter days of the session and asked that there be no unseemly haste, no neglect of duty, but on the contrary that each member might use to the best advantage for good, those talents given him by the Creator of all things.

The senate rejected two "blanket" ballot bills, approved a slight amendment to the Australian ballot bill, and Lieutenant-Governor Moore appointed a sifting committee.

HOUSE.—In the house yesterday the sifting committee was authorized after an animated debate; also a committee was authorized to act with a like committee from the senate on final adjournment. The general appropriation bill was passed and the two appropriation bills from the claims committee. The Omaha charter was reported by the unanimous wish of the Douglas county delegation and made a special order for Wednesday and the bill establishing a branch soldiers' home at Millard was favorably reported in committee of the whole.

Tuesday.

SENATE.—In addition to the district irrigation bill the senate passed thirteen other bills during the afternoon, besides defeating the passage of two constitutional amendments in the very presence of Rosewater, who spent a great part of the day in lobbying for them.

Senate file No. 231, by Cross, was passed. It amends the Australian ballot law by providing that candidates by petition shall have their names printed on the ballot, followed by the words, "by petition," and shall not be followed by any party designation.

Senate file No. 139, by Rathbun, providing for destruction of Russian thistles and making the cost thereof a tax on land, was passed.

Stoan's bill, providing that Nebraska shall be popularly known as "The Treeplanters' State," was passed.

Senate file No. 60, by Caldwell, authorizing the appointment of another supreme court justice, was passed.

Senate file No. 109, by Stoan, to limit the power of a probate judge in the matter of serving summons beyond the limit of his county, was passed.

Watson's new oil inspection bill, senate file No. 133, had a close call. It failed to pass with the emergency clause and was passed without it.

Senate file No. 159, by Holbrook, empowering cities of the second class to issue bonds to the amount of $15,000 for the purpose of buying or improving parks, was passed.

Sprecher's district attorney bill was passed.

Senate file No. 206, by Crane, to prohibit exposure of deadly weapons in shop windows was passed.

Rathbun's bill, making dog personal property, was passed. His other dog bill, punishing the person who maliciously kills a dog, was recommended on his own motion.

House roll No. 161, by Chapman, relating to sale of school lands passed.

Senate file No. 348, by Teft, for the appointment of a supervisor of state buildings, also passed.

HOUSE.—One of the most interesting and exciting sessions the house has yet enjoyed occurred yesterday afternoon. The bill for the completion of the university library building and the district and water right irrigation bill furnished the foundation, while the zealous friends and opponents of the measures did the rest.

The fight made up the university library building was ably led by Mungler of Lancaster, who avoided all oratory and centered the attention of the house upon the facts as they actually existed. Every question propounded to him was met and he had a score of able assistants, including Burch of Gage, who introduced the bill and closed the debate in his favor. Cole of Hitchcock, in the preliminary, and Bee of Furnas, in the final contest, led the opposition. Davies of Cass made the speech in favor of the reduction of the appropriation and McNitt of Webster replied in one of his best efforts during the session. It was while these two gentlemen held the floor that a war cloud drifted above the horizon leading to an animated controversy between them that caused the sparks to fly for a time and raised the interest in the crowded house to a high pitch. The roll call that followed was closely watched and when it was found that fifty-one votes favored the bill, while the opposition only counted thirty-five, the friends of the bill applauded and the audience lent vigorous aid.

Wednesday.

SENATE.—The senate advanced an act repealing the law creating a board of sanitary trustees for the city of Lincoln, the sugar bounty bill was reported by a sifting committee, an attempt to advance the fire and police commission bill failed, and Wright's bill taxing foreign fire and life insurance companies was recommended for passage.

HOUSE.—The house today is as follows: Section 1. That hereafter no person, firm, association or corporation in this state shall manufacture, sell, keep for sale, give or furnish to any person under the age of twenty-one years of age cigarettes or this material for their composition known as cigarette paper.

Section 2. That if any person, firm, association or corporation in this state shall violate any of the provisions of this act, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall upon conviction be fined for each and every such offense the sum of not less than $5 and not more than $50, one-half of which shall be paid to the informant.

HOUSE.—The day was occupied by the house in passing upon the Omaha charter in committee of the whole, in discussing and passing upon the repeal of the depository law, and discussing and favorably reporting bills providing for county boards to secure legal aid for county attorneys when necessary and issuing bonds to construct jails.

Thursday.

SENATE.—The senate amended the sugar bounty bill so as to provide a bounty on chicory, and the bill will come up for final passage Friday.

One of Wright's insurance bills, senate file No. 132, to regulate the operation of mutual benefit associations, was passed.

Four bills reported by the sifting committee were considered in committee of the whole and recommended for passage below is a more important measure, the sugar bounty act, was reached.

HOUSE.—House roll No. 439, providing for a supervisor of state printing and regulations in regard to public printing and the duties of the aforesaid supervisor, was read the third time and passed by a vote of 90 ayes, noes none.

House roll No. 89, by Perkins of Fillmore, providing for the extermination of Buffalo and Canadian thistles, and to punish landowners allowing such thistles to grow and ripen upon their lands, was read a third time and passed—ayes 84, noes none.

House roll No. 348, by Benedict of Douglas, amending the criminal code by raising the age of consent to eighteen years and providing for the punishment of any male person who violates a female under that age, except said person shall be notoriously unchaste, was read a third time and passed—ayes 94, noes 3.

House roll No. 494, by Burch of Gage, providing for the completion of the library building of the state university and providing an appropriation of $73,000 for the same, was read a third time and passed—ayes 74, noes 17.

In committee of the whole the constitutional amendment requiring an elector to be able to read his ballot and write his name in English was recommended to pass.

AS ALIKE AS TWO PEAS.

Twin Brothers at Wesleyan University Who Can't Be Told Apart.

Arthur and Archer Young, of New Britain, twin brothers who are as alike as two copper cents, or as the proverbial peas in a pod, entered Wesleyan University this autumn in the freshman class, and the difficulty of distinguishing them has led to no end of mistakes. The Young brothers say that the joke, being to them of about twenty years' standing, has become a trifle old.

In college chapel they sit next to each other, and if one of them happens to "cut," the chapel monitor, whose duty is to record absences, has to flip up a cent to decide which of them he shall mark absent. Both twins are on the varsity foot-ball team, and though they are not heavy, they have distinguished themselves as being about the pluckiest players on the eleven. They wear similar bandages wrapped around their tow-colored heads, and their sleeveless jackets are alike stained with the blue dye of their jerseys. The other day, in a practice game, the ball was fumbled in a scrimmage, and one of the twins fell on it. Archer was playing half back on the varsity, and Arthur was lined up on the scrub. A doubt at once arose in the mind of Coach Steese as to which side should have the ball, that functionary, like everybody else, being unable to distinguish the twins. Accordingly he ran up to the man who was scrambling to his feet with the ball, and asked in a loud whisper:

"Say, which Young are you, anyhow—'varsity or scrub?"

One of the brothers had an entrance condition in some branch of his preparatory work and a date was set for the special examination. The brother who had the condition marked against him remained in his room, while the other twin took the examination and passed it with flying colors. This happened because a mistake was made originally in charging the wrong twin with a condition.

A Live Beetle in Iron Ore.

Z. T. White, who is now, or has very recently been, a citizen of El Paso, Texas, was once the owner of the most wonderful entomological specimen ever found since the creation of the world—a live beetle found in a solid matrix of iron ore! The curiosity was discovered a considerable depth below the surface in the Longfellow mine, at Cliff, Ariz., and fitted his iron sarcophagus as snugly as though the iron had been in a plastic state when it came in contact with the creature's body. The "bug" was of a dull, reddish-gray color, and was, of course, of a species wholly unknown to the entomologists. According to the El Paso Bulletin, this wonder was presented to a well-known scientific association of the Atlantic slope about two years ago.

Where Blizzards Come From.

Colonus.

(From the Greek of Sophocles.)
Colonus! White Colonus! rest and peace
Haunt thy green glades and thy low-murmuring streams,
Thy limpid waters gurgle sweet surcease
From toil and pain. The gentle-guarding dromas
Hover with drowsy wings above thy bowers.

Where dark the pine, his leaf-laced shadow dark throes.
With low lullabies the bosom's hours
Cradle the 'turbid soul to soft repose.
Here lies earth's fairest home, here ever chaunts,
Thro' dreamy summer woods slave-charmed and still,
The imperial bird of song that constant haunts

The darling thicket by the babbling rill,
Here, here, Idoneus! pour in slumber deep
On mortal eyes, thy dark immortal sleep.
—M. C. H.

Some Other Day.

There are wonderful things we are going to do.
Some other day:
And harbors we hope to drift into
Some other day.
With folded hands and ears that trail,
We watch and wait for a favoring gale
To fill the folds of an idle sail
Some other day.
We know we must toil if ever we win
Some other day.
But we say to ourselves there's time to begin
Some other day:
And so, deferring, we loiter on,
Until at last we find withdrawn
The strength of the hope we leaned upon
Some other day.

And when we are old and our race is run
Some other day,
We fret for the things that might have been done
Some other day.
We trace the path that leads us where
The beckoning hand of grim despair
Leads us yonder, out of the here,
Some other day.
—Alfred Ellison.

Society.

I looked and saw a splendid pageantry
Of beautiful women and of lordly men,
Taking their pleasure in a flowery plain,
Where poppies and the red anemone,
And many another leaf of cranemoly,
Flickered about their feet, and gave their stain

To heels of iron or satin, and the grain
Of silken garments floating far and free,
As in the dance they wove themselves, or strayed
By twos together, or lightly smiled and bowled,
Or curled to each other, or else played
At games of mirth and pastime, unafraid
In their delight; and all so high and proud,
They seemed scarce of the earth where-
on they trod.

I looked again and saw that flowery space
Stirring, as if alive, beneath the tread
That rested now upon an old man's head.
And upon a baby's gasping face,
Or mother's bosom, or the rounded grace
Of a girl's throat; and what had seemed the red
Of flowers was blood, in gouts and gushes shed
From hearts that broke under that frolle pace.
And now and then from out the dreadful floor
An arm or brow was lifted from the rest,
As if to strike in madness, or implore
For mercy; and anon some suffering breast
Heaved from the mass and sank; and as before
The revelers above them thronged and pressed,
—William Dean Howells in Harper's Magazine.

Might Have Known It.

Where was it I kissed her?
Or was it her sister?
Maybe 'twas neither—
Not like me either—
Or could I have missed her?
'Twas a rare occasion,
A kiss of persuasion,
Though I have forgot—
I know I ought not—
Who caused the elation?
And now I'm despairing,
My mind 'tis impairing,
Since if it were she
At once I could be
New kisses declaring,
And now I remember,
It was in December,
Somewhere in the South—
And full in the mouth,
'Twas there that I kissed her,
Both she and her sister.
