Phantoscope is a new invention. It combines the principles of the kinetoscope and the stereopticon, and the result is a machine that will throw life-sized pictures on a screen and impart to them the motions of living beings. One of these machines has been made so small that it can be put under a silk hat. The pictures to be reproduced are taken upon a continuous strip of sensitive film at the rate of 25 or 30 a second.

Nice Country to Live In. It must be pleasant living in Honduras, to judge by the report Richard Harding Davis brings back. "There is nothing green that grows in Honduras" he says, "that is not saturated and alive with bugs and all manner of things that creep and crawl and sting and bite. If you walk 20 feet into the bushes you have to be beaten with rods as if you were a dusty carpet, and when the insects have once laid their claws on you you feel at night as if sleeping in a bed with rep pepper."

Morgan County, Colorado
 Morgan County is NOT "way out on the frontier." Don't allow any idea of that sort to take possession of you. Nothing could be further from the truth. Morgan County is more prosperous than any section of equal size in Illinois or Ohio. Its citizens are as intelligent as any in the country. Its educational and religious advantages are good as the best. Its climate is beautiful and pleasant as any in the world. You must visit Morgan County to appreciate it properly.

Dr. Maybe and Mustbe.
 You choose the old doctor before the young one. Why? Because you don't want to entrust your life in inexperienced hands. True, the young doctor may be experienced. But the old doctor must be. You take no chances with Dr. Maybe, when Dr. Mustbe is in reach. Same with medicines as with medicine makers—the long-tried remedy has your confidence. You prefer experience to experiment—when you are concerned. The new remedy may be good—but let somebody else prove it. The old remedy must be good—judged on its record of cures. Just one more reason for choosing AYER'S Sarsaparilla in preference to any other. It has been the standard household sarsaparilla for half a century. Its record inspires confidence—50 years of cures. If others may be good, Ayer's Sarsaparilla must be. You take no chances when you take AYER'S Sarsaparilla.

CHAPTER XXIX.
 A lovely morning in November—not November as it is known in England, with whistle mournfully among bare trees—but November as it is in India, warm still, yet gratefully cool after the exhausting heat that has gone before, the sun shining in the cloudless heavens, bright-hued birds singing in the leafy branches, all nature fluttering and trembling beneath the caressing touches in the ambient air.

 But Valentine Graeme would not hear of any compromise. He was stage-manager, and was especially bent upon these theatricals being a success. Nor had he now any fear for the result. Colonel Prinsep was one of the best amateur actors in India, and particularly good at the love-making, which was the principal part of the small comedietta they had chosen, while Jane, too, had considerable talent, as she had shown at Simla.

 The clock had just struck four on that special afternoon of that date, when she heard footsteps in the veranda. It was the hour Stephen Prinsep had generally chosen for his visits, when they were engaged, and she thought it might be the Colonel now. But when a few moments passed and no servant came to announce him, she opened the sitting-room door and went into the hall. No one was there, but almost immediately Mrs. Knox came out of the quarter-master's writing-room looking flushed and put out.

 A native came running from the adjoining compound belonging to a house which, on account of the reputation it had gained for unhealthiness, was unoccupied, and now formed a convenient short cut to the parade ground.

 "What is it?" she asked, sharply.
 "The man, a respectable-looking servant of the Mussulman caste, was for some time unintelligible by reason of his fright, and could only fold his hands and implore pardon for the fault he declared he had not committed. It was only after an impatient cross-examination that Mrs. Knox elicited the fact that a "Sahib" was lying dead some few yards away.

Diagnose of Unprofitable Stock.
 As cold weather approaches the cost of keeping animals will be increased and the profits will be reduced accordingly, as a large share of the food consumed must go to the production of animal heat. This is therefore, the best time in the year to dispose of all unprofitable stock. The animal that has not given a profit during the summer and fall cannot be depended upon for keeping up with the others during the winter season.

High, Low Jack.
 Fire ice means very cold weather, then comes a high tide in skating rinks, and skating ponds on slides and rinks, and we go home tired and overheated. It's the same old story of cooling off, off with wraps and on with all sorts of aches and pains, rheumatic, neuralgic, sciatic, lumbagic, including frost-bites, backache, even toothache. They who dance must pay the piper. We cut up Jack and are brought low by our own folly. What of it, the dance will go on, all the same. It is generally known that St. Jacobs Oil will cure all such aches and pains separately or collectively, and the cry is on with the dance.

There was a Distinction.
 And the Hitherto Moral Young Man Got the Heaviest Sentence.
 When Lawyer Charles W. Brooke practiced at the bar in Philadelphia years ago he one day was called upon to defend a man in the United States district court before Justice Cadwallader for counterfeiting. Mr. Brooke's client was a young man who had never before been charged with crime. His companion was a well-known counterfeiter, who had served a term of imprisonment. Both men were convicted. When they were brought to the bar for sentence the old offender was the first to hear the judgment of the court. Justice Cadwallader, who was an old-school gentleman of punctilious politeness, said, in a mild tone: "Mr. Jones, you have been convicted, unfortunately for yourself, of the crime of counterfeiting. Very justly, Mr. Jones, the law prescribes a severe penalty for the offense for which you have so unfortunately been found guilty. It becomes my duty, Mr. Jones, under the law, to pass sentence upon you, and I therefore, under the circumstances and in consideration of your having upon a previous occasion been found guilty of a similar offense, sentence you to the term of twelve years' imprisonment."

The Deadly Railroad Mortgage.
 It is said that the late Samuel J. Tilden was the inventor of the modern railway mortgage, with all its deadly possibilities of foreclosure, receivership, lawyers' quarrels and general wreck and disaster. It was a diabolical invention. It has made the fortunes of thousands of lawyers and has proved the undoing of many thousands of stockholders and bondholders. The lawyers have a pudding when the railroad gets into the hands of receivers. The comptroller of one of the great transcontinental lines, now run by a United States District Court, told me lately in New York that it had cost the past year $600,000 more to operate the line under the receivership than it would have cost had it been run in the regular way by a board of directors. The lawyers got most of this big lot of money. A lawyer told me in Milwaukee the other day that there is no law whatever authorizing a court to operate a railroad and that the practice has grown up during recent years without any sort of statutory provisions regulating it. A judge now takes a railroad, appoints receivers, requires them to account to him, issues orders to buy rails and locomotives, to construct new roadbeds and bridges, to make or abandon leases, to pay interest or not to pay interest on bonds, and practically absorbs in his own person all the functions of president, directors, auditor, treasurer and general manager. He is only a lawyer raised to the bench and he knows nothing about railroading, but he runs the road year after year with the absolute authority of a czar.—Chicago Times-Herald.
