RANCH SUPPLY HOUSE.

The Toledo Weekly Blade and Campaign of 1896.

With a great presidential campaign coming next year, every thoughtful citizen will need, besides his local paper, a great national weekly. The greatest and most widely known of these is the Toledo Weekly Blade. For thirty years it has been a regular visitor in every part of the Union, and is well known at almost every one of the 70,000 post-offices in the country. It is edited with reference to a national circulation. It is a republican paper, but men of all politics take it because of its honesty and fairness in the discussion of all public questions. It is the favorite family paper, with something for every of the household. Serial stories, poetry, wit and humor; the household department (best in the world), Young Folks, Sunday School Lessons, Talmage's Sermons, The Farmstead, the Question Bureau (which answers questions for subscribers), the News of the Week in complete form, and other special features. Specimen copies gladly sent on application, and if you will send us a list of addresses we will mail a copy to each. Only $1.00 a year. If you wish to take it club with other papers.

Address: The Blade, Toledo, Ohio.

—County Attorney Guthrie was in the east part of the county on official business the first of the week.

—Horseshoe compound cough syrup the great remedy for coughs and colds at the Pioneer Pharmacy.

—M. L. Kinsey, in the title role of Uncle Hiram, kept the big audience in a constant uproar of laughter. The sawmill scene was most realistic. Come again, Uncle Hiram.—Morning News, Palmyra, N. Y.

—WANTED—500 cattle to herd during the coming season. Good range and water, and careful attention guaranteed. Terms, 50 cents for the season.

 Harrison, Nebr.

—A son came to gladden the home of Mr. and Mrs. U. C. Jameson on Tuesday. —Hudson Record.

—THE JOURNAL would like to see an organization gotten up which would induce the people to meet and all take part in the work. It would help all to become able to express themselves before an audience and to become familiar with parliamentary practice, both of which are important.

—Win Richard was in town Monday and called and arranged to advertise the sale of the personal property in his possession. His father and mother have gone east to live and he has rented the place to Lewis Frost and will put in the summer on the range, but expects to go east to live within a year.

—Many papers have adopted the rule recommended at meeting of the State press association and charge regular advertising rates for all sermons, church suppers, or other gatherings for the purpose of making money, and half rates for all other notices. THE JOURNAL believes that right to do in most cases, but does not do it because the church, like every thing and every body else here, has hard work to get along. Like many others we would be glad to be even more liberal would the revenue from our business allow it.

—On last Friday the students of the primary department entertained those of the grammar department with rhetorical. The next day being Washington's Birthday the selections were along that line to quite an extent. A few visitors were present and that had a tendency to make the children forget what they had to say, but the exercises were interesting nevertheless. The writer thinks rhetorical one of the most important practices in school work. It is the only way to have men and women who can participate in assemblies of humanity, and in these days of associations, clubs, etc., in the person who cannot participate loses much of the benefits.

—A printer in "making up" news in the forms, getting the pages ready to print, took a handful of type from the tail end of a line and by mistake put it against the first part of a funeral notice says an exchange. In the paper it read like this: "The noble beavers have covered the body into the river—and as it was assigned to the flames there were few if any regrets. For the old wreck had been an eyecore to the town for years, of course there was individual loss, but that was fully covered by insurance." The widow thinks the editor wrote the obituary that way because the lamented mother of her joys and sorrows owed him five years' subscription.

—John Dickinson and John Lacy have constructed a dam across the big ravine northwest of town. They expect to be repaid by storing water for stock and it may enable them to irrigate some land with the overflow. They propose to construct other dams across the same ravine as soon as they can. THE JOURNAL has frequently called attention to the excellent opportunities offered for storing water in the ravines and the one above mentioned in particular, and it is of opinion that dams constructed at intervals of half a mile, beginning at the head and extending as far down, at least, as to where the railroad crosses it, would produce benefits which would repay all cost. A vast amount of water goes to waste down the channel each year which would, if properly stored and used, irrigate a large acreage.

—As announced in the last issue of THE JOURNAL Senator Akers and Prof. Bruner were here on last Thursday to address the people. On account of the short notice of the meeting the attendance of those from the country was limited, but almost every one in town attended and was interested. Senator Akers talked on irrigation, a subject of the most vital importance to the people of this locality. His remarks were well received and his urging the construction of reservoirs for the storing of water which in the past has been allowed to go to waste was in accord with the sentiment of every thoughtful person who has a care for the welfare of the northwest. He answered numerous questions in regard to the irrigation laws and in so doing gave out much valuable information. After he concluded the audience was augmented by the arrival of the school children, and Prof. Bruner made an interesting talk on insects, birds, etc., which both amused and instructed the audience. An organization was made by the election of Charles Bieble, president, and M. J. Blewett, secretary, so that in future meetings of that nature will be under their supervision. At the close of his talk Senator Akers was taken for a drive down Sawbilly canon which will assist him in his work as secretary of the state board of irrigation, as he now better understands the extent of irrigation in Iowa county.
