A good woman may believe that she loves the Lord better than she does her husband, but she isn't apt to brag around the house about it.

Faithful Use of Hood's Sarsaparilla Effects a Cure.

"My little girl was covered with boils on her head and face. She also had sore eyes. We began giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla one year ago, and for some time we could not see any change in her condition, but we were faithful in the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and in a few weeks more I noticed some improvement.

Nervous and Sleepless.

Both Sides.

Mrs. Savage was a woman greatly liked and respected in the neighborhood in which she lived, and her even disposition was often praised by her neighbors, who were apt to be rather plain-spoken in regard to her husband's brittle temper.

"I'm most afraid, Miranda, that you haven't paid strict attention to what your uncle was saying at the times you mention; because, if you had, you'd 'a' seen that he don't need anybody to reply to him; he reasons with himself, so to speak, and presents my views a sight better than I could. You just give attention the next time you hear him a-disputing, and you'll see that I've no occasion to disturb myself."

"That's no place to put a chair on that back stoop," began Uncle Ichabod.

"But it's kind of a pleasant place to sit," he went on, in a milder tone; and then, raising his voice:

"I don't care if 'tis; the chair'll be spoiled; it'll be left out in all kinds of weather, and I won't have it there."

"A wooden chair don't spoil very easy, and that's one of the kitchen chairs that never was painted."

"Never was painted?" he repeated in a louder tone. "There 'tis! Just because anything ain't fixed up to kill taint any use—" and he lifted the chair and moved it to the other side of the stoop.

"Perhaps if it's over this side it will be more sheltered," came his milder tones, and then:

"All the talking I do don't do a speck of good, not a speck. I might just as well never say a word," and sitting down in the offending chair, Uncle Ichabod began fanning himself with his big straw hat, while Miranda and her aunt exchanged glances of understanding.

AN OPEN LETTER.

From the Herald, Sank Centre, Minn.

The following communication was recently received by the manufacturers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People:

"I was born in Germany and am 37 years old. I live with my husband on a farm. For ten years I suffered with leucorrhoea so that I was a burden to my friends and myself also. I had tried a great many doctors and different kinds of medicines without securing any benefits. My condition had become so deplorable that I had almost given up hope of recovery. When one day I saw in the Sank Centre Herald an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as a drowning person catches at a straw, so I grasped this chance and purchased from Hanson & Emerson a box of Pink Pills. I commenced taking them in March, 1896, and after taking one box I felt so much improved that I bought more.

"After taking them for a time I found to my surprise that I was entirely cured. Ever since then I have been as strong and well as I ever was, and am able to do the arduous duties which fall to the lot of a farmer's wife without feeling the least fatigue or inconvenience.

"I hope this will be the means of placing your wonderful pills in the hands of some sister sufferer, who may rejoice with me. I am satisfied that no woman need suffer as I did, when such an efficient remedy is so close at hand.

(Signed) "MRS. H. STENERNAGEL." Subscribed before me this 19th day of December, 1896. CHAS. F. HENDRY, Notary Public, Minnesota.

GOOD STORIES

Several Ohio lawyers once gathered in Judge Wilson's room after adjournment of court and were discussing the retirement of a member of the bar. Among them was one whose practice was worth $25,000 a year. He said: "I have been practicing several years and am well fixed. I have thought I would like to retire and devote my remaining years to studies I have neglected."

A sergeant of a company of British infantry quartered in a Dacoit-infested part of Burma, a few years ago, was a firm believer in destiny. One evening, when dressing, preparatory to taking a stroll in the jungle, he was noticed by a corporal, a persistent opponent of the destiny theory, to slip a revolver into his pocket.

During a general election a canvasser called at the house of the late Prof. Froude, the historian. Mr. Froude was out, so the canvasser had to content himself with interrogating the butler as to how Mr. Froude would vote. The butler—an old servant, who understood his master well—replied: "When the liberals is in Mr. Froude is sometimes a conservative. When the conservatives is in Mr. Froude is always a liberal."

Gen. McClellan when in command of the army conducted a waiting campaign, being so careful not to make any mistakes that he made very little headway. President Lincoln once sent him this brief but exceedingly pertinent letter: "My Dear McClellan—If you don't want to use the army I should like to borrow it for awhile. Yours respectfully, A. LINCOLN."

A young American who was bicycling in southern France was pushing his wheel up a steep hill when he overtook a peasant with a donkey-cart who was rapidly becoming stalled, though the little donkey was doing his best. The benevolent wheelman, putting his left hand against the back of the cart and guiding his wheel with the other, pushed so hard that the donkey, taking fresh courage, pulled his load up to the top successfully. The summit reached, the peasant burst into thanks to his benefactor. "It was very good of you, monsieur," he said; "I should never in the world have got up the hill with only one donkey."

To a young lady who declared that Kentucky produced the handsomest women, the fastest horses and the best whisky on earth, Gen. Grant once made reply: "I unequivocally indorse the first part of your statement. As to the horses, I admit that also, for I own some of them myself, and I am considered a good judge of horseflesh. But as to the whisky, you will pardon me if I doubt your position. Whisky, in order to be good, must be old, and your Kentucky men drink it up so fast that it doesn't have time to get old."

ACCIDENT DUE TO BLINDS.

Horse Plunges Into the River Because It Cannot See.

Blinders confuse a horse at the moment of danger and increases the chances of disaster. The animal which in an accident at Chicago was hurled into the river by the trolley car wore blinders and there is good reason to believe that but for them its life would not have been sacrificed. It did not see the car bearing it down from the rear and when the collision actually came it had no chance of seeing how best it could save its life.

Reflectors of a Fashion.

A rainy day club is an association whose object is to make women quit wearing of shoes. When she gets to heaven the first thing a woman will ask is whether there are swing-seats in the basement. Sympathy is the fender on life's trolley car. It's all right as far as it goes, but it isn't meant to take free rides on. The worst believed a woman's children are the more she always thinks she knows about bringing up other people's.

His Back Up.

When Noah blew his horn, the camel humped himself to get aboard, and by a curious freak he stayed lumped all his life. Lumbago or lame back humps a man's back simply because he cannot straighten himself on account of the stiffness and soreness accompanying the ailment. Nature helped the camel to his hump for a special purpose. Nature will help a man to get rid of his hump right off if he uses St. Jacobs Oil, because the character of the trouble is such that it needs just such a remedy to warm, soften and straighten out the contracted muscles. From the time of Noah down to the present time men have had lame backs, but only since the introduction of St. Jacobs Oil has the best cure for it been known. Lumbago really disables, but St. Jacobs Oil enables one to attend to business without loss of time.

PICKED UP ON BROADWAY.

A True Incident.—A woman was picked up in the street in an unconscious condition and hurried to the nearest hospital. On examination her body was found to be covered with sores caused by the hypodermic injection of morphine.

This mere wreck of a woman had once held an honorable and lucrative position in a large publishing house in New York. Her health began to fail. Instead of taking rest and medical treatment, she resorted to the stimulus of morphine.

The hospital physicians discovered that her primary trouble was an affection of the womb, which could readily have been cured in the first stages.

If, when she had felt those severe pains in the back, the terrible headaches, the constant sense of fullness, soreness and pain in the pelvic region, she had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, it would have dissolved and passed off that polypus in the womb, and to-day she would have been a well woman sitting in her office.

Why will women let themselves go in this way? It seems passing strange that a woman like this one, so highly educated, and so well placed, should have depended on morphine, instead of seeking a radical cure.

There is no excuse for any woman who suffers—the need not go without help. Mrs. Pinkham stands ready to help any woman; her address is Lynn, Mass. Write to her; it will cost you nothing. In the meantime get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the nearest drug store. The following letter from one of your sisters will encourage you:

Mrs. BERTHA LEHRMAN, No. 1 Erie St., 27th Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I can hardly find words with which to thank you for what you have done for me. I suffered nearly seven years with backache and headache, leucorrhoea, and the worst forms of womb troubles.

"Doctors failed to do me any good. I have taken four bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one box of Liver Pills, and used one package of Sanative Wash, and now can say I am well and have been steadily gaining flesh; am stouter and heartier now than I have been for years. I am recommending your Vegetable Compound to my friends. Again I thank you for the good health I am enjoying."

When the string snapped. After a terrible struggle they succeeded in getting him into the strait-jacket, but he continued to yell: "Murder!" "War!" "Blood!" "Friends!" "Assassins!" and "Wild-Eyed Sensations!"

Josh B King's Philosophy.

There is but very few people who can make an opportunity, but most every one has the ability to seize one when it offers. When a man has once given fool sense to his ambition, he is in for a wild ride, and can't tell when nor how he will be loved. There is nothing so easy to do as to defend the divinity of the Bible, because there is no man ever lived yet who could disprove it.
