Chadron and her esteemed citizens entertained the distinguised son of Nebraska right royally, even delivering the freedom of the city over to Mr. Bryan during his sejourn there. It is safe to say in our opinion that two the speaker for an hour and a half which races was a long time to stand in one place considering the intensness of the heat and the sun beating down on them. It was well worth one's while to go that far to listen to such a lecture.

The president declares that the increased price is due to the tion of the $2,500: Provided. No profailure of crops in other countries, while rating county shall be awarded more ing thereof, be given to all persons interest the organs are rending thei nether garmens and pulling all the ink off their form rollers in an endeavor to convince us that the increased price of wheat is due solely to the Dingley bill. By declaring that we are experiening some benefits that are not due directly to a high protective tariff, the president has played false to he whol fabric of republicanism. For him to attribute the increared price of wheat to anything but the Dingley tariff is a bit of treason to the protective principle that cannot be condoned. The president should remember that everything good is the direct result of the Dingley tariff. The moment that it received the president's signature the wheat crops of Russia, India, and Argentina were attacked by chinch bugs, weevils and drouth. While it was being carried from the senate chamber to the executive mansion every head of American wheat swell-ed to twice its former size. While the Dingley pill was in process of cultivation Ameican wheat stood still and waited for the salvation that it knew was at hand. And now to have the president snub the law which brought about all these bene-ficial things! As the late Artemus Ward remarked, "It is tew much!", -- WORLD
