Creeping Consumption

Do not think for a single moment that consumption will ever strike you a sudden blow. It does not come that way.

It creeps its way along.

First, you think it is a little cold; nothing but a little hacking cough; then a little loss in weight; then a harder cough; then the fever and the night sweats.

The suddenness comes when you have a hemorrhage.

Better stop the disease while it is yet creeping.

You can do it with

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

You first notice that you cough less. The pressure on the chest is lifted. That feeling of suffocation is removed. A cure is hastened by placing one of

JOHN PAUL JONES.

Our Great Sea Fighter Was a Scotchman Born.

John Paul Jones was born in 1747 in the parish of Kirkbean, upon the Solway Firth, in the southwestern part of Scotland. His family name was Paul, that of Jones being assumed later. Thirty miles south of Kirkbean, on the other side of Firth, and therefore in England, is the port of Whitehaven, whence he sailed during the early part of his maritime career, which began at the age of 12. His voyages, of which, however, only an incomplete record remains, were chiefly to the West Indies and to the North American continent. In the latter an elder brother, William Paul, had settled at Fredericksburg, in Virginia. There John Paul visited from time to time as opportunity offered, and when William died in 1773, leaving considerable property, John went there to live and to settle the estate. It was then that he formed the purpose of abandoning the sea; moved thereto, doubtless, by the prospect of a reasonable competence which had thus opened to him.

The troubles of the colonies with the mother country, however, had begun already. A recent settler, without family ties on the spot, with sisters in Scotland, Jones very well might have remained at least passively a loyalist; but he was a reading man always, and had imbibed the ideas and the jargon of the century. With his native temperament and caprices it was well-nigh impossible that he should remain inactive in such stirring times, while his acquired views, his new interests, and the weakening hold of home affections, consequent upon absence since boyhood, combined to impel him to take sides with the fellow-citizens among whom he was then living, rather than with those in the old country. For this he was called then a traitor; not wholly unnaturally, for the doctrine of indefeasible allegiance was still maintained by Great Britain. It is singular, however, to find him again so styled in a very recent English work. A rebel he doubtless was; a traitor, perhaps, technically, as Washington might be called for the same reason; but he betrayed no trust.—Scribner's.

Housekeeping in Italy.

An interesting letter from an American lady of limited means who passed last summer in Italy tells an entertaining story of housekeeping in that sunny land, tragic with the shadows of departed grandeur.

"I have become a padrona, with seven enormous keys, so heavy that I have to carry them in a basket. I am not only a padrona, I am also a cook, art student, scribbler and should be studying Italian. Also it has been very hot—so hot that one felt as if there was little worth doing in this world, and one didn't care 'tuppence' who did it.

"Did you ever keep house in hot weather, with no ice and no screen, and in a land where the insectivora abounded?

"We have the pestilence which hopeth in darkness, and flies by the 500, and many, many mosquitoes and harvest mice, and green and blue beetles and harvest bugs that bite, and long-nosed gray betties that plunge into the milk, and big grasshoppers that come zipping in through the windows, and a few centipedes and rumors of scorpions and a mighty orchestra of cicades that drone and buzz among the olive trees under my window. Every day brings some fresh discovery in the stinging and biting line. Fifteen minutes at a stretch of peaceful comfort has been impossible. With this wail finished, I will remark that the insect enemy is the worst thing about San Gim—short for San Gimignano. For my quarters, five rooms and a garden across the lane, I pay about $6.40 a month, and for my beloved Maria, my servant, who comes for an hour and a half every day, $1.60 a month. We are delightfully behind the times here. Everything is done with hand labor, distaffs, plows, spinning wheels, farm implements, as they were in Virgil's time."

Theatrical "Props."

Props comprise all the portable articles required in a play. Guns and pistols—which too often fail to go off at the critical moment—are props; loaves of bread, fowls, fruit, all made of a rough papier mache, are also props. We may also include those wondrous gilt goblets, only seen on the stage, which make such a non-metallic thud when they fall and bounce upon the boards, as among the achievements of the property man. But it is at pantomime time that that individual is at his busiest. Big masks and make-believe sausages and vegetables, without which no pantomime would be complete, are mingled with fairy wands, garlands of artificial flowers, basket-work frames for the accommodation of giants and other articles too numerous to mention. How the right things are forthcoming at the right moment is one of those mysteries only known to property men. Had one of these useful members of the theatrical world the ability and inclination to write a book, what an entertaining volume could he turn out!—Chambers' Journal.

His Faithless Faith.

Smith—Is it true that De Jones is a believer in the faith cure?

Brown—Yes. His wife was ill last week and he refused to call in a physician.

Smith—But I saw Dr. Cubebs coming out of his house this morning.

Brown—Oh, that's easily accounted for. He is sick himself now.

INQUIRY SOON ABANDONED.

Father Stops Questioning When Son Mixes Slang and History.

A 10-year-old Cedar avenue boy is quite a reader, considering his tender age, and his father delighted in encouraging his literary taste. Not long ago the father suggested to the boy that he should read up on the life and death of Nathan Hale, the spy and hero of the revolution.

A few evenings later the father asked the lad if he had carried out his request. The boy said he had.

"Who was Nathan Hale?" the father inquired.

"He was stringed up by the British soldiers," was the somewhat irreverent reply.

"You should say hanged," said the father.

"Stringed up is just the same," said the boy.

"No," said the father, "it isn't just the same."

"Well," said the boy, "it's just the same to Nathan Hale.

This was something of a poser, and the father discreetly changed the subject.

"And why did the British hang Nathan Hale?" he asked.

"Because," replied the boy promptly, "because he rubbered for Gen'ral Washington!"

This atrocious definition of a spy's duties was too much for the father, and he promptly dropped the Hale inquiry there and then.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Needless Tears.

While walking in the tenement house district in Chicago a man saw a little child in white standing on the sill of a third story window. The man did not scream, but with a very pale face he ran across the street and up the stairway. He found the right door, as if by instinct, and opened it softly. He saw the curly head of the child, and then, just as he reached out his hand, the child fell out. At the same instant he was seized by the arm, and a woman's voice demanded to know what he meant by intruding. "The child! the child!" he said, in a frantic whisper. "She has fallen out of the window!" The woman smiled broadly, and walking to the window pulled in the child by means of a short and stout rope, and deposited it on a chair. Then she turned to the amazed man, and said, tranquilly, "I suppose you mean all right, but Molly wasn't in danger at all. I can't spare time from my work to watch her, and she will play by the window, so I just tie her up this way. When she falls out and wants to get back she just yells, and I haul her in." The well meaning man left a dime for the child and departed wondering.

He Was Not Taking Coffee.

Sergeant Pierson was one of the best-liked men in the company, but he couldn't tolerate fool questions. On the morning of July 3 he sat on the bank of the intrenchment, drinking coffee. He was really exposing himself unnecessarily. One of the men near-by was nervously watching him. Their eyes met and the private, somewhat embarrassed, remarked, for the lack of something better to say:

"Are you taking a cup of coffee?"

A look of disgust spread over Pierson's speaking countenance.

"Am I taking coffee?" he began, mockingly. A Mauser bullet knocked the cup from his hand.

"No, sir," he continued, with added sarcasm, "I'm not taking coffee."—New York Sun.

Pneumonia in Parrots.

At Rivolto, near Arco, three persons recently died in the same house of pneumonia. Two parrots in the house died about the same time. Suspicions were aroused, and careful examination was made. It was found that both the parrots had died of acute pneumonia and there is no doubt in the minds of the medical men concerned that the three human victims took the disease from the birds. This is not the first occasion on which it has been established beyond doubt that men have taken the infection of dangerous diseases from parrots.—London Chronicle.

To Waterproof Boots.

Summer and winter this is useful. Dress boots waterproofed would save many a cold, for the wearers often leave a warm room to tread on damp ground. Take half a pint of linseed oil and half a pint of neatsfoot oil and boil them together. Bottle and keep ready for use with a sponge on the cork. Apply when the boots are perfectly clean. Of course only the soles of dress boots are to be so treated, and the oil must be allowed two or three days in which to dry. Two successive applications are best.

Cured by "5 DROPS" After Physicians and All Medicines Fail.

SWANSON RHEUMATIC CURE CO., CHICAGO: Gentlemen—This is to certify that "5 DROPS" cured my wife of a very severe case of Rheumatism. I had used various liniments and patent medicines, and had the best physicians in West Texas on her case, all with no effect. She grew worse all the time and got so she had to be turned in bed, had no use of herself and one side, the arm, leg, etc., looked as though it never would be restored. This looks pretty "thin," but it is a fact and if any one doubts it, affidavit can be made as to its truth. Should anyone wish to know about this God-sent remedy let them write me, inclosing self-addressed stamped envelope, and I will prove it.

Gratefully, JOHN OLIVER,

Hon. Geo. P. Bemis
Omaha's most popular Mayor

Hon. Geo. P. Bemis, the most popular man ever elected as mayor of the city of Omaha, Neb. He is also one of the oldest and best known real estate dealers and negotiators of loans in the west. His business is very extensive. He is not only one of the best judges of real estate but he knows a good thing when he sees it, whatever it may be. So we call attention to the following statement made by him and several other men who are not only popular in Omaha but are known from ocean to ocean. They are Hon. A. U. Wyman, Ex-Treasurer of the United States and now President of the Omaha Loan and Trust Co., one of the largest and most prominent negotiators of Western farm and city loans. Hon. W. J. Connell, Ex-Congressman and now Omaha's City Attorney. Hon. W. A. Paxton, Pres., Union Stock Yards. Hon. T. S. Clarkson, Ex-Commander in Chief G. A. R. Hon. C. J. Smyth, Attorney General of Nebraska. Hon. A. S. Churchill, Ex-Attorney General of Nebraska, and many others as well known, each of whom has personally signed the following statement.

"TO WHOM THIS COMES, GREETING: We take pleasure in commending the virtues of the remedies prepared by the Dr. B. J. Kay Medical Co. Having known of some remarkable cures of Omaha people effected by the use of Dr. Kay's Renovator and Dr. Kay's Lung Balm, we believe that these great remedies are worthy of the confidence of the public.

At this season, your system needs renovating. The internal organs are inactive. The waste matter is not eliminated but absorbed, thus contaminating the blood and debilitating the entire system. The nerve force is not replenished, consequently you are tired and have no energy. These symptoms are present in the Spring and after an epidemic of La-Grippe. To renovate the system and remove all bad effects of La-Grippe or Spring lassitude use Dr. Kay's Renovator. It certainly has no equal. Send for proof of it. It is a perfect renovator and regulator of all internal organs, curing the very worst cases of stomach troubles, constipation and obscure liver and kidney complaints. Try it and you will wonder at its marvelous effects. Write us describing your case carefully and we will give you valuable advice free and send you a 116 page illustrated book of receipts etc. If druggists do not have it don't take any substitute they say is "just as good" for it has no equal. It can be had by return mail from us. Price 25 cts. and $1. Dr. B. J. Kay Medical Co., Saratoga Springs, N. Y. and Omaha, Neb.

Setting Out Young Trees.

If young trees are set out early in the spring be careful to not expose the roots so as to allow them to dry. Make the holes large, so as to receive all the roots without cramping or bending them, and return the top soil to the roots, pressing firmly and settling the soil with plenty of water. The top soil may be mulched with stable manure, but do not mix manure with the earth used to fill in around the trees. Shorten back the tops before the buds begin to swell and cut away all surplus branches.

Fire Alarm.

A novel fire alarm was lately produced in France. It consists of a hollow sphere of aluminium supported at one end of an arm, with a counterpoise at the other end, the two being arranged to balance at the ordinary temperature and pressure of the air. The apparatus is not sensitive enough to record natural changes of pressure, etc., but if some unusual cause, such as fire, or even a large accumulation of coal gas in the atmosphere, disturbs the specific gravity of the air, the ball drops and rings an electric alarm in falling.

Remember that if a cow is compelled to travel back and forth over a thirty-acre field from morning till night in order to hunt a ration for herself she will not give you big pay in the pail. If she has to use the enery to secure a living that she should have expended in elaborating milk she cannot be profitable. To do her best the cow should be enabled to fill up well in a few hours and rest the balance of the time, as it is during the rest spell that she is grinding out your profit. There is some profit in summer dairying but we must give careful attention to all details.

As soon as you get into the habit of going to bed early you feel as though you had elevated your moral tone.

Miss Helen Gould is to be presented with an album containing the autographs of as many soldiers and sailors as care to send them. They are to be sent in letters on paper suitable for pasting in the album, which is also to contain a set of resolutions.
