Alex Brown, of Hat creek, Wyo., 1st Sergeant of Tory's rough riders during the Spanish-American war but now a civilian, was in town Monday on business. While here he editor had the pleasure of meeting the Sergeant, for the first time since his return home from the war, and listened to a vivid description of the railroad wreck which he and a part of his regiment had the misfortune to be in while on their way to the front to fight our country's battles. It was through Sergeant Brown's heroic efforts that many lives were saved in the Mississippi wreck and for this brave act we learn, he is promoted. No questioning the fact of his being every inch a soldier which only a brave man can be one.

DEEDS:—In Harrison, Neb., Sunday morning, May 7, 1899 at 5:30 o'clock Albert Norwick aged 21 years. For over two weeks Albert had been sick with long fever, and for the past ten days had been stopping in Harrison but did not take to his bed. He was finally approached by Dr. Phinney, who told him he must go to bed if he expected to have anything done for him. Whereupon Albert consented to do so and Dr. Phinney fixed up a room in the back part of the drug store, so he could look after him better, and administer medical treatment. But, Albert had neglected too long to do what he ought to have done at least ten days before—go to bed. The result was, that he went to bed Wednesday, and rapidly grew worse until Sunday morning when death relieved him of the awful suffering which he suffered without even one solitary word of complaint. Willing hands done all that could be done to relieve and comfort him in the last days of his life. The remains were laid to rest in the Harrison cemetery, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Kendall officiated at the grave offering prayer. No other services were conducted, as no word was received from his parents relative to a service being preached. A telegram was sent to Albert's father, soon as it was learned he could not possibly live, but no answer has been received up to this date. E. H. Bee, we desire to say, that Dr. Phinney showed the true Christian spirit that predominates in his heart, that is found in the hearts of few men, by caring for and administering to the wants of a young man, whose mother could not be present to give encouragement and consolation to her boy in the last moments of his life. Thus, "a friend in need is one in deed" and besides verifying the saying of Holy writ "in as much as ye did it unto the least of Mine, ye did it unto Me."
